At Banyan, Ms. Daniels was Chief Operating Officer, Executive Vice President and Principal responsible for strategic planning, client development and marketing while overseeing day-to-day business activities including overall operations, marketing, and compliance. Through both organic growth and strategic acquisitions, Banyan Partners grew to over $4.5 billion over a five-year period until its acquisition by Boston Private. Ms. Daniels’s skills helped drive significant asset growth and built a national brand for Banyan unique in the independent advisory space. Prior to Banyan, Ms. Daniels was the former president of Weiss Capital Management, a Florida-based adviser acquired by Banyan in January 2011. As a member of Banyan's Board of Directors, he closely collaborated with the Chairman and CEO, helping to lead the firm's dynamic national expansion which eventually led to its sale to Boston Private.

While at Banyan, Mr. Tylander and Ms. Daniels shared direct responsibility for financial and operational integration of acquired firms spanning Southeast, Northeast, South and West Coast regions. Through mutual collaboration and management of business operations/technology, investment operations and financial oversight, Mr. Tylander and Ms. Daniels led not only day-to-day operations but the cultural and business integration resulting from the firm's M&A activities allowing for the efficient scalability of the expanding infrastructure.

Mutual Engagement with Clients

At SlateStone, every client receives personalized service designed with a long-term perspective that integrates standard financial planning elements with a disciplined investment process. Our purpose is to help clients gain a sense of comfort and confidence that their financial objectives are achievable. In upholding a fiduciary standard, we place our client’s interests first and this standard guides us as we deliver unbiased advice and an authentic experience to our clients.

General Description of Advisory Services

Wealth Management & Investment Advisory Services. SlateStone offers a comprehensive set of wealth advisory services and dedicated resources designed to respond to the unique needs of our clients. We develop a risk profile (Client Financial Profile) for each investment advisory client to help govern the relationship between SlateStone Wealth and our clients and provide a guideline for the management of our relationship. The Client Financial Profile helps define the established investment objective, income requirements, risk tolerance and return objectives, time horizon, tax considerations, liquidity and any other unique circumstances that may impact the management of a client’s investment portfolio. SlateStone will then explain the investing options that are available and explain the monitoring and rebalancing of your portfolio strategy. Investment choices include Strategic Portfolio Management Services comprised of mutual fund asset allocation strategies, model portfolios, and third-party investment advisers, as well as Custom Advisory Services.

We service primarily individuals and families who have in excess of $500 thousand of investable assets. The majority of SlateStone’s clients receive discretionary investment advisory services on a fee-only basis. Discretionary means you give us written authorization to make investment decisions and make securities transactions on your behalf.

SlateStone will make all decisions to buy, sell or hold securities or other investments, including cash, in your account and/or allocate assets in a manner deemed appropriate to meet your investment objectives pursuant to the terms of your Client Financial Profile. SlateStone invests on behalf of its clients primarily in securities that are publicly traded. We supervise client portfolios proactively and will buy and sell positions or rebalance holdings when we believe it is appropriate to help achieve objectives and/or to limit risk.

Strategic Portfolio Management Services. We offer comprehensive investment advisory services in the form of Strategic Portfolio Management Services which includes investment portfolio design and implementation, tax efficient management and reporting plus ongoing and continuous oversight of client accounts. When advising on and constructing client portfolios, the firm will typically utilize equity and bond related ETFs, and mutual funds to build a diversified portfolio. Within this framework, we may advise a client utilize a mutual fund asset allocation strategy, model portfolios or the use of an external, third-party manager. Depending on the client's objectives, the firm allocates primarily for results over time however, we will also employ short term, tactical moves to protect from downside market conditions. Tactical moves may include the use of specialized funds or ETFs over the shorter term or increasing cash as deemed appropriate based on client risk tolerance and short and long term objectives. Where appropriate, and in our Customized Advisory Services which are tailored for clients who have special circumstances or restrictions, we may employ other strategies.

Custom Advisory Services. For those clients who have greater than $1 million in investable assets and/or who have special situations or investment restrictions, SlateStone offers individually tailored and customized strategies. These situations may involve special tax considerations, concentrated or low-basis stock positions, inheritance issues, or closely held businesses. SlateStone's investment professionals will determine through an in-depth review with the client an appropriate plan of action to meet the client's unique circumstances. Our customized platform includes asset allocation, and portfolio construction and typically uses individual equity and fixed income securities, options strategies and, where suitable, access to alternative investments in hedge funds, private equity, and real estate.

SlateStone's Custom Advisory Services may utilize internally managed asset allocation strategies alongside or in combination with individual equities and bonds to create a blended and diversified portfolio to achieve overall client objectives based upon suitability. These services also include a comprehensive review of existing assets to ensure a streamlined and tax efficient transition of the client's assets and/or securities to meet an appropriate asset allocation aligned to individual investment objectives.

Separately Managed Accounts

SlateStone may choose to select an outside independent manager skilled in specialized management strategies (options, alternatives, real estate, structured notes, etc.) where deemed appropriate to meet specific needs of clients including those with concentrated positions.

Within our Separate Managed Account Service, SlateStone may recommend the use of a single diversified strategy in each client's portfolio and makes available investment models and advisory services through a select group of third-party investment advisers that act as managers for your account. Additionally, we use the Envestnet platform to provide related research to our investment committee regarding the investment discipline and/or approach used by the approved managers on the Envestnet platform to identify and select a single diversified strategy that best fits your specific investment objectives and risk tolerance. When utilizing a third-party manager, SlateStone also acts as the overall manager for your account on a discretionary basis and assume the responsibility for asset allocation, manager selection and termination, portfolio management, as well as other related services. SlateStone will require additional documents to be completed for this service in addition to its Investment Management Agreement.

Financial Planning Services. SlateStone provides standard financial planning services as part of its overall wealth management services. As part of our financial planning process, we provide clients with advice and information required to make informed decisions about their entire financial plan or components of their plan. Our financial planning and investment advisory team works closely with your CPA and Estate Attorney and utilizes outside counsel when appropriate to provide specific guidance and develop tax and wealth management strategies. These services include analysis and strategy, budgeting and cash flow planning, and retirement planning.

Customized Financial Planning. SlateStone's financial planning platform is flexible to best serve a wide-range of client needs. We provide for the customization of our offering and the services provided to meet the unique goals and objectives of each of our clients. In those situations where a customized financial plan is required, including services such as strategic income and tax planning and preparation, legacy/estate planning, and document review and monitoring, SlateStone may charge either a flat or hourly rate for its Customized Financial Planning Services and may also utilize outside specialized resources and professionals.

Information describing our minimum Account sizes and our investment management fees is outlined in Item 5 of this Brochure. SlateStone may grant exceptions to minimum requirements for pre-existing clients, related households, or on a pre-approved basis only.

Item 5 – Fees and Compensation

General Terms

SlateStone enters into a written Investment Management Agreement (“IMA”) with each client prior to providing services. The IMA describes the scope of SlateStone’s services and how we calculate and charge our fees.

We assess fees in the following ways:

- For Strategic Portfolio Management Services and Customized Advisory Services, we charge a percentage-based fee calculated as a percentage of the market value of the assets in your account.
- For Customized Financial Planning Services, we may charge either a flat fee or an hourly fee depending on the scope of the planning services required.

Automatic Fee Deduction/Billing

The percentage-based management fee is billed and computed quarterly in advance based on the total value of the account at the end of each quarter as valued by your custodian.

All management fees are charged to and deducted from the appropriate brokerage account or another custodian account, unless otherwise specifically arranged with the client. Account statements provided by your custodian will show all transactions and positions in your account, including the amount of our fees. It is the responsibility of the client, not the custodian, to verify that the advisory fee being applied to a client’s account is correct.

If a client does not want fees deducted directly from the account or desires to pay fees from another account or by invoice, management has sole discretion to bill fees separately and not take from the account. In all events, if the client is ever more than 60 days delinquent on paying any portion of fees due, the client authorizes SlateStone to take such fees directly from the account (even in the case of a retirement account). In certain unique relationships, the terms for fees and billing may differ from those described herewith, typically for Accounts managed with a cash reserve strategy, which may be opened by a client in anticipation of being invested at a later date.

Unless otherwise stated, SlateStone’s management fees do not cover or include brokerage commissions; transaction costs or other related expenses (see Additional Fees and Expenses not paid to SlateStone, below).

The management fees for Strategic Portfolio Management Services and Customized Advisory Services are provided below.

Cancellation Process, Accrued Fees & Refunds

A client may terminate an Account or the full relationship at any time or may change an account objective on notification to SlateStone. You shall have five (5) business days from the date of execution of the Agreement to terminate services for a full refund.

SlateStone requires a written notice of termination. Upon such notice, SlateStone will cease making investment decisions and implement any reasonable written instructions that are provided. The account can be closed and funds withdrawn only after any open trades have been settled. Upon termination of an Account, SlateStone will refund any pre-paid management fees, pro-rated to the date of termination. The client refund amount will be either credited to the Account or paid by check to the Account holder.

A one-time fee of $1,000 to cover Account set-up expenses and advisory services will apply if the client terminates the Account within 180 days. This fee can be deducted from any reimbursement owed to the client for pre-paid fees.

Additional Fees and Expenses

Mutual Fund and ETF Management Fees. Accounts invested in mutual funds and exchange-traded funds generally also pay, indirectly, investment advisory fees to the managers of those funds. As such, client accounts with investments in those types of securities will be subject to two layers of management fees. An explanation of the fees and expenses paid by each mutual fund is contained in that mutual fund's prospectus.

Mutual Fund transaction fees. Depending on the custodian, SlateStone may be able to purchase and sell mutual funds with no transaction fees. Note that clients who do not trade through specific custodians may not be eligible for these waived transaction fees. Fees may be imposed upon early redemption, if the fund was owned prior to our management or if we sell the fund at our discretion. An explanation of fees and expenses charged by each mutual fund is contained in that fund's prospectus.

Brokerage Fees. Certain of SlateStone investment strategies cover brokerage fees and commissions and others do not. Depending on the strategy being managed, SlateStone's fees include brokerage commissions, transaction fees, exchange fees, SEC fees and other related trading costs and expenses. Check with a SlateStone investment adviser to determine if the fee includes the cost of trading.

External Account Manager Fees. If SlateStone engages an external account manager to manage a client's assets, the client may be responsible for paying all fees charged by the external account manager on those assets in addition to SlateStone's Strategic Portfolio Management or Customized Advisory Services fee. SlateStone will obtain written consent from the client for outside manager fees.

Donor Advised Fund Fees. When a client's assets are allocated toward a donor advised fund, the client will be responsible for paying all fees charged by the fund on those assets in addition to SlateStone's advisory fees. The fund will impose and arrange for the automatic deduction of its own fees from the account of the client.

The following is a list of additional fees and expenses that may be directly billed or assumed proportionately by you and third parties:

Custodial fees, transfer taxes, odd-lot differentials, margin interest, deferred sales charges (on mutual funds or annuities), wire transfer and electronic fund processing fees, advisory fees and administrative fees charged by mutual funds and exchange traded funds (ETFs). The fees listed above are charged by and paid to a broker-dealer, custodian, mutual fund company, or annuity issuer, as applicable. We do not directly or indirectly share or receive any portion of these fees.

Item 6 - Performance-Based Fees and Side-By-Side Management

SlateStone manages only Accounts that pay percentage-based management fees as described in Item 5. We do not currently offer or manage Accounts that pay performance-based compensation.

Item 7 – Types of Clients

SlateStone provides investment advisory and wealth management services to a wide variety of clients including: individuals; trusts, estates and charitable organizations; corporations or other business entities; not-for-profit entities, including foundations; retirement and profit sharing plans such as IRAs and 401(k) accounts.

SlateStone typically prefers Accounts with a minimum of $500,000 or more and for Customized Advisory Services or specialized strategies a minimum of $1,000,000 or more. Requirements for opening an account are disclosed on our Annual Fee Schedule, under Item 5, Fees and Compensation. SlateStone may waive minimums at its sole discretion.

Item 8 – Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

Methods of Analysis

SlateStone's research department makes available to its professional advisory team certain information which includes recommendations on mutual funds, ETFs, variable annuity sub-accounts, equities and fixed income securities, alternatives and the use of external managers. SlateStone's research is used by its investment professionals to then tailor a model asset allocation portfolio to a client's specific needs, circumstances and objectives. The firm's research department uses fundamental, quantitative and technical analysis in evaluating securities. Fundamental analysis involves looking at economic, financial and other qualitative and quantitative factors in an effort to measure a security's value.

We may use various financial databases and tools such as Morningstar's Direct, NATIXIS as well as Bloomberg Professional and Value Line's Investment Analyzer. We also use other commercially available technology, including research provided by custodians, financial periodicals and other publications, SEC filings, and financial statements to assist with our analysis. In certain instances, we may use outside consultants to provide expertise in specific investment areas or for more in-depth analysis.

Mutual Funds and ETF's. SlateStone evaluates, selects and monitors mutual funds and ETF's across multiple asset classes and investment styles. SlateStone's investment selection process for mutual funds begins by screening potential funds using various industry sources. The firm uses specific criteria to determine the overall investment merit of a specific fund focusing on the fund's historical performance in both bull and bear markets, current performance, fund purpose and sector, price volatility, standard deviation, the fund's returns over a specific period of time, and overall management stability and integrity. SlateStone's investment process for exchange traded funds (ETFs) is based upon a quantitative methodology to choose ETFs that represent specific industry sectors, baskets of regional and international stocks, fixed-income instruments and commodities. By analyzing ETF data, our portfolio managers seek to identify ETFs that appear to be under accumulation by investors, particularly institutions, early in a trend, and those that appear to be out of favor.

Our process for individual equities includes analysis of balance sheets and income statements, business activities, news and industry developments, as well as a review of available research from various sources. We also may use technical analysis, chart analysis, and chart interpretation. These three approaches use statistics generated by market activity, such as past price and volume, as indicators of potential future activity. Finally, we consider psychological factors in making decisions to purchase or sell securities.

External Managers. SlateStone's discretionary authority includes the ability to select any US registered investment adviser to manage client assets based on specific criteria and such managers may invest client assets in separate accounts or investment funds managed by other advisers. These external account managers may be authorized to buy, sell and trade in securities in accordance with client investment objectives as communicated by SlateStone. SlateStone is authorized to terminate or change independent managers when, in our sole discretion, we believe such a termination or change is in our clients' best interests. SlateStone's research team conducts a thorough review process to select external manager strategies and runs portfolio analytics and reviews proprietary research along with fundamental and historical pricing and relative pricing. This review includes quantitative and qualitative analyses which may include direct discussion with fund management to assess each manager's likelihood of generating future returns as well as to measure the risks associated with the generation of those returns. The research team monitors external managers for adherence to their stated investment process and regularly assesses whether risks are being responsibly managed. The ongoing screening process is also designed to uncover new external investment strategies that may be utilized for SlateStone's clients.

Donor Advised Funds. SlateStone Wealth can facilitate a client's interest in charitable giving by allocating a portion of the client's assets to a donor advised fund. In specific circumstances, a foundation will administer the donor advised funds for clients and SlateStone manages this assets in these donor advised funds.

Derivative Investments. SlateStone Wealth may utilize derivative investments and options where suitable for its clients to meet specific objectives for growth, risk management, and income. The firm will determine analyze, select and monitor derivative securities for clients qualified to invest in them.

Structured Notes. Structured products are a combination of a traditional investment (equities, currencies, bonds, commodities, or funds) and one or more derivatives that are structured into one securitized instrument. Structured products may involve a high degree of risk and may be highly complex but they may also be used as flexible alternatives to traditional investment categories while providing attractive additional features, such as capital protection, yield enhancement, leverage or a combination thereof. On a selective basis, SlateStone may employ the use of structured products within your overall portfolio context and suited to our overall asset allocation, investment time horizon and risk profile. The most common type of structured product utilized selectively at SlateStone is a buffered return-enhanced note which provides for some downside protection while leveraging market returns on the upside and is linked to a particular market index.

Investment Strategies

As part of the firm's Strategic Portfolio Management Service, SlateStone has developed and uses model asset allocation strategies and processes in managing clients' portfolios. These model strategies may be combined, as appropriate, for each client's personal financial condition and investment objectives. SlateStone offers five model Asset Allocation strategies which invest primarily in mutual funds and exchange traded funds:

- Income with Capital Preservation
- Income with Moderate Growth
- Growth with Income
- Growth
- Aggressive Growth

Based upon market conditions, the composition of the above portfolios may include at varying percentage allocations the following asset classes:

- Equities including domestic, global, international, large, mid-cap and small cap, sector and diversified funds
- Fixed income including short and long term high quality, mortgage back, strategic income, bank loans
- Alternatives including long/short, tactical, hedging and cash

In certain sized portfolios and based upon client objectives and suitability, structured notes may be utilized as well.

Accounts managed in SlateStone's Model Asset Allocation strategies and portfolios under $1 million in size are designed to meet the specific needs of a common group of clients.

Risk of Loss

All investments involve the risk of loss of your principal (invested amount) and any profits that have not been realized (the securities have not been sold to "lock in" the profit). Markets can be volatile and prices of stocks, bonds, and other investments can fluctuate substantially over time. Other factors such as economic and political events also can affect the performance of your investments. There is no guarantee that you will not lose money or that you will meet your investment objectives. We encourage you to discuss any questions with us that may arise regarding our investment philosophy and your portfolios throughout the course of our relationship.

Listed below are some potential risks with any investment:

Market Risk. A decline in the stock market could depress the prices of stocks and other equity securities in a client's portfolio.

Interest Rate Risk. An increase in interest rates could depress the prices of bonds and other fixed income securities in a client's portfolio.

Event Risk. An adverse event affecting a specific company or that company's industry could depress the price of a client's investments in that company's stocks or bonds. The issuer could become unable to handle its debt service, or receive a downgraded credit rating by a rating agency.

Liquidity Risk. Securities that are normally liquid may become difficult or impossible to sell at an acceptable price during periods of economic instability or other emergency conditions. Some securities may be infrequently or thinly traded even under normal market conditions.

Political Risk: The events that occur in the home country of the foreign company may impact valuations. Events such as revolutions, nationalization, currency collapse or other types of events can have a negative impact on the security.

Inflation Risk: Inflation is a general upward movement of prices reducing your purchasing power, which is a risk for investors receiving a fixed rate of interest. The concern for individuals is that inflation will erode returns.

Some of our investment strategies require that you maintain a margin account. Clients who purchase securities may pay for them in full or may borrow part of the purchase price from the broker-dealer that holds his/her account. Clients generally use margin to leverage their investments and increase their purchasing power. At the same time, clients who trade securities on margin incur the potential for higher losses. We will discuss the risks of using margin with clients to determine if it is appropriate.

Item 9 – Disciplinary Information

Neither SlateStone Wealth nor any of its employees have any disciplinary matters to disclose regarding its advisory business or the integrity of its management.

Item 10 – Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations

SlateStone Wealth LLC is an independent investment advisory firm and is not affiliated with a securities broker-dealer, futures commission merchant, or investment company. Certain SlateStone employees may serve on corporate boards; however, such board participation requires approval by SlateStone's CEO and does not create any material conflict for SlateStone or the employee/principals involved.

Terri King, a member of SlateStone is a partner/owner of a CPA Firm providing accounting and tax services to businesses, trusts and individuals. There is no conflict of interest with the services she provides and there is no sharing of information by SlateStone to Ms. King's firm.

Item 11 – Code of Ethics

Rule 204A-1 of the Investment Advisers Act of 1940 (the "Advisers Act") requires all investment advisers to establish, maintain and enforce a Code of Ethics. Accordingly, the Act places a fiduciary standard on the adviser to act in the best interest of each client.

SlateStone has adopted a Code of Ethics designed to identify and mitigate conflicts of interest. All employees are considered “Access Persons” of the Firm. Access Persons are individuals who may have access to nonpublic information, or regarding our investment strategies and advice. All employees are subject to this Code and are expected to comply with applicable laws, exhibit high ethical standards and to place clients' interests first. The fiduciary duty of an adviser and its representatives is a core principle underlying the adviser's Code of Ethics and sets out the responsibility of the adviser to place the interests of clients ahead of its own.

SlateStone employees are required to report all personal securities transactions except for transactions in: U.S. government obligations; Money market funds; Bankers acceptances; Bank CDs; Commercial paper; High quality short-term debt instruments; shares issued by money market funds, open end mutual funds registered in the US and shares issued by unit investment trusts that are exclusively invested in open-end mutual funds registered in the US. Our Chief Compliance Officer or designee is responsible for reviewing these transactions and holdings.

SlateStone employees may invest in the same securities that SlateStone recommends to its clients. All such transactions are reviewed by SlateStone's compliance department and if such transactions are permitted, it is because SlateStone believes that such transactions do not present a conflict of interest considering the markets and liquidity for the securities traded. Any employee transaction in securities that would be deemed to create a conflict of interest with clients and/or client accounts would require prior approval.

Our Code of Ethics also provides that our employees may not serve on the board of directors of any public company, including mutual fund boards of trustees without approval. Item 12 – Brokerage Practices

Brokerage fees for trades executed through clients' custodians and other broker-dealers may vary depending on the qualified custodian where the account is custody. There may be specific terms, fees, or commission schedules associated with trading with qualified custodians' affiliated broker-dealers.

In seeking best execution, the determinative factor is not the lowest possible cost, but whether the transaction represents the best qualitative execution. In making this assessment, the full range of a broker-dealer's services, including the value of research provided, execution capability, commission rates, and responsiveness are considered. Certain custodians have programs that allow us to obtain many mutual funds without transaction charges and other securities at nominal transaction charges.

Client Directed Brokerage

Certain clients may direct SlateStone to use a specific broker dealer who has an existing relationship with or provides custodial or other services to a client. SlateStone requires any directed brokerage instructions to be in writing. Before choosing to enter into a directed brokerage arrangement, clients should be aware of the following disadvantages:

Directed brokerage clients may pay higher commission rates than those paid by other clients, may receive less favorable trade executions and may not obtain best execution on their transactions.

Directed brokerage accounts may not be able to participate in aggregated or block transactions with other clients. This may preclude directed brokerage accounts from obtaining more favorable terms that might be available from aggregated transactions

As a registered investment adviser, we have a duty of best execution to our clients. Accordingly, we retain the right to decline your request for directed brokerage if, in our sole discretion, we determine it would result in additional operational difficulties or violate restrictions imposed by other broker-dealers.

Trade Aggregation & Order Handling

As previously noted, we manage model asset allocation strategies and customized portfolios. Clients in our asset allocation strategies hold the same securities. Clients with customized portfolios may or may not hold the same securities. We block or aggregate orders when buying and selling securities held in our asset allocation strategies and distribute or allocate the shares to the respective clients' accounts. We may block or aggregate orders with each custodian, resulting in several block trades in one security at one time. This practice may result in more favorable pricing than would occur with individual trades. When securities are distributed to more than one client, the execution price will be the average of the price of the securities within each block. This will result in the same trade price for all clients within the block, but there can be differences between accounts due to commission charges, which often are related to the number of shares allocated.

Securities purchased or sold in a block transaction are allocated pro rata, when possible, to the participating client accounts in proportion to the size of the order for their respective accounts. In all cases, we distribute the securities equitably across the accounts. If circumstances are such that it is impractical for us to allocate a small number of securities across accounts then we may allocate in a manner that we believe is fair to all clients.

Generally, we place trades on a client-by-client basis for our customized portfolios unless we decide to purchase or sell the same securities for several clients at approximately the same time. In these instances, we may, but are not obligated to, block these orders to obtain best execution, or to allocate equitably differences in prices and commission among our clients if the trades had been placed separately. Like our process with the asset allocation strategies, we average the price of the transaction and allocate the positions on a pro-rata basis across the participating clients' accounts. SlateStone does not receive any additional compensation as a result of aggregating or blocking trades.

Item 13 – Review of Accounts

SlateStone strongly believes that ongoing client account reviews are an integral part of a proactive investment advisory process. The firm has developed a process to conduct regular client portfolio reviews and ongoing monitoring of client accounts.

SlateStone's wealth advisors, supported by the portfolio management team, are responsible for clients' investment plans and positioning of accounts based on market conditions and risk tolerances. In addition to our ongoing monitoring of managed clients, the wealth advisors and client advisors will conduct an in depth review of client portfolios at a minimum annually and more frequently based on a determination with individual clients or the complexity of the strategy. Part of the review process includes a careful review of the client objectives to confirm nothing has changed as well as a review of the asset allocation to determine it is in line with stated objectives and is being managed in accordance with SlateStone's stated strategy objective, policies and procedures.

SlateStone's Operations Team is responsible for compiling new account paperwork with the wealth advisor and/or business development advisor's involvement. The operations team will review new account paperwork at the beginning of the relationship to ensure that we have obtained all the appropriate documents required to manage the accounts including, objectives, and risk profile.

SlateStone's Chief Executive Officer or Chief Investment Officer or his or her designee will also conduct a review of the services selected and the suitability of those selections based on the information provided as part of the new account documentation. At a minimum, accounts are reviewed by senior management on an annual basis to ensure that current investments remain consistent with stated objectives. Significant changes in the market, as well as any changes in a client's financial circumstances that have been communicated to SlateStone, may also trigger a more frequent review of client portfolios. Furthermore, client accounts are reviewed when a major event or shift in market conditions are likely to impact holdings. Importantly, SlateStone's Chief Compliance Officer will also conduct periodic reviews of client portfolios to determine the suitability of the strategy being employed and that it remains in line with client's stated objectives as detailed on the client's respective Client Profile Questionnaire.

Financial planning services clients are reviewed by our financial planning team on an "as needed" or pre-decided basis. We may provide these clients with summaries of our analyses and related conclusions as well as special reports that we mutually agree are necessary. The frequency of these reviews will be determined with the client and their respective wealth advisor. We encourage our clients to discuss their needs, goals and objectives and keep us informed of any material changes.
