Item 8 Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

Method of Analysis

St. Louis Financial Planners, Inc. utilizes both technical and fundamental analysis as its primary method of analysis. Technical Analysis is the study of the market action itself as measured by the market price and volume. Market charts are used to identify the dominant trends in the major market indices and asset classes. The investment vehicles used are no-load index mutual funds or exchange traded funds (ETFs).

Fundamental analysis is a method of security valuation that examines a company's financials including sales, earnings, growth potential, assets, debt, etc.

Utilized by Thomas Kieffer

Income Portfolio

The Income Portfolio uses both fundamental analysis and in-depth individual company research for its security selection. It is invested in company's common stock in various industries. The company paying a dividend is a prerequisite for inclusion into the portfolio. We look for companies with a history of sustainable dividends and a preference for raising their dividends on a consistent basis. At times of market turmoil, the portfolio may hold a position in cash or bonds.

Growth & Income Portfolio

The Growth & Income Portfolio is designed to be invested in a combination of growth and income stocks. Income Portfolio will consist of the type of stock we described in the Income Portfolio above. The Growth Portfolio will consist of company stock that we believe has the potential to grow earnings 10% or more per year. We tend to overweight the Income Portfolio. A normal portfolio would be 70% income stocks and 30% growth stocks. It can be invested at any percentage based on the client's individual goals and investment profile.

Risk of Loss

Because our strategies invest in equity securities, there naturally exists a risk of loss based on market conditions. Developments that can affect the value of the securities are unexpected losses, reduced earnings projections, adverse changes to market conditions, and a whole myriad of other market factors that can cause downward pressure on the price of individual securities, which in turn can result in loss of value in a short period of time.

The Income Portfolio purchases individual securities, there always exist the risk of unexpected developments that can affect the value of the securities, such as unexpected losses, reduced earnings projections, adverse changes to market conditions, and other market factors that can cause downward pressure on the price of individual securities, which in turn can result in loss of value in a short period of time.

Item 9 Disciplinary Information

We are required to disclose any legal or disciplinary events that are material to a client's or prospective client's evaluation of our advisory business or the integrity of our management. Our firm and management personnel have no reportable disciplinary events to disclose.
