Item 5: Fees and Compensation

Peakview Capital provides investment advisory services to each of the Funds pursuant to separate investment advisory agreements (the “Agreements”). The Agreements for each Fund, along with specific organizational documents of the Fund, set forth in detail the fee structure relevant to each such Fund. The terms of the Agreements are generally established at the time of the formation of the applicable Fund. Peakview Capital typically receives compensation from: (a) fees based on a percentage of assets under management and (b) carried interest allocations. Investors should review all fees charged by Peakview Capital and others to fully understand the total amount of fees to be paid by a Fund and, indirectly, by their Limited Partners.

Management Fee: The SJ Funds do not charge any management fees to its investors. However, the SJ Funds do charge a 2% service fee based on committed capital at the start of the investment. For Peakview Capital III, Limited Partners pay Peakview Management LLC an annual management fee (the “Management Fee”) at rates starting with 1% (per annum) and decreasing over time. The Management Fee is payable semi-annually or annually in advance based upon committed capital during the commitment period and on actively invested capital thereafter, in each case in accordance with the Governing Fund Documents. Peakview Capital and its affiliates reserve the right to waive or reduce Management Fees for certain Investors, including employees, a limited number of strategic partners, advisors and consultants and others as may be determined in Peakview Capital’s sole discretion.

Carried Interest Allocations: A portion of each Fund’s net investment profit may be allocated to the capital account of its General Partner as “Carried Interest.” The manner of calculation of such Carried Interest is disclosed in the Governing Fund Documents, and may vary by fund. For the SJ Funds, 5% of investment profits may be allocated as Carried Interest to the Funds’ General Partners. With regards to Peakview Capital III, LP, 10% of the investment profits of the Funds are allocated as Carried Interest to such Fund’s General Partner. As is the case with Management Fees, Peakview Capital and its affiliates reserve the right to waive or reduce Carried Interest for certain Investors, including employees, a limited number of strategic partners, advisors and consultants and others as may be determined in Peakview Capital's sole discretion.

Other Fees Earned by Peakview Capital: Peakview Capital will receive Organizational Fees from the Funds related to the costs associated with formation of the funds. Peakview Capital may also receive transaction, consulting, advisory and other similar fees associated with investments or proposed investments or commitments made by each Fund. The recipients of this Brochure must refer to the detailed information found in each Fund's Governing Documents for specific information about the fees earned by Peakview Capital, including other Fees, and the fees charged to the Fund.

Other Expenses Charged to the Funds: In addition to Management Fees, Carried Interest and Other Fees, the Funds' limited partners will bear indirectly the fees and expenses charged to the Funds. Those fees and expenses will vary by Fund, but typically will include, among other things: fees associated with the acquisition, holding and disposition of investments, financing, legal, auditing, consulting, and accounting fees and expenses, interest on fees and expenses arising out of all borrowings made by the Funds, placement fees, and expenses of the Investor Advisory Boards for the Funds and meetings of the Limited Partners.

Limited Partners("LPs") may be charged the following types of expenses: 1) expenses related to both sourcing and finalizing an investment, including travel and due diligence costs, 2) expenses related to managing and monitoring investments, including travel costs, placement fees, legal fees, and consulting fees, 3) expenses related to maintaining the investment, such as administration fees or the use of software to monitor the investment, 4) third-party expenses related to producing quarterly investor reports, financial statements, tax returns, and any other reporting information, including accounting expenses related to an SEC examination, 5) expenses related to the use of accountants, lawyers, valuation professionals, and fund-administrators for the Fund, 6) entity registration, filing fees, and third-party insurance, including D&O and E&O insurance ,7) fund liquidation expenses, 8) unreimbursed expenses related to defaulting LPs, 9) unreimbursed expenses relating to LP transfers, 10) interest expenses for line of credits, 11) fund restructuring expenses, 12) annual meeting expenses, and 13) indemnification obligations of the Partnership.

The types of fees and expenses that will be charged to the Funds in relation to the acquisition, holding and disposition of investments, include, where contemplated by the applicable Partnership Agreement, among other things: meals, entertainment, lodging and travel expenses.

The recipients of this Brochure must refer to the detailed information found in each Fund's Governing Documents for specific information about the expenses charged to the Fund(s).

Overhead Expenses: Each Fund's General Partner, the Advisor and the relying advisor will pay all of their respective ordinary administrative and overhead expenses in managing Fund investments, including salaries, benefits and rent.

Part 6: Performance Based Fees and Side-by-Side Management

Each Partnership pays a carried interest of up to 10%. The carried interest may create an incentive for the General Partner of the Partnership to make more speculative investments and make different decisions regarding the timing and manner of the realization of such investments, than would be made if such carried interest were not allocated to the general partner.

Part 7: Types of Clients

Peakview Capital provides non-discretionary management and advisory services to the Funds directly, subject to the direction and control of the General Partner of each Fund, and not individually to the Limited Partners. Investors in the Funds may include, but are not limited to, high net worth individuals, pension plans (corporate, state and foreign), sovereign wealth funds, endowments, foundations, banks, pooled investment vehicles (e.g., funds-of-funds), trusts, estates or charitable organizations, and corporate or business entities.

The minimum commitment for a Limited Partner is outlined in the Governing Fund Documents; however Peakview Capital maintains discretion to accept less than the minimum investment threshold. Investors will be required to meet certain suitability qualifications, such as being an “accredited investor” within the meaning set forth in Rule 501(a) of Regulation D under the Securities Act. Also, Investors will be required to make certain representations when investing in a Fund, including, but not limited to representation that (i) they are acquiring an interest for their own account, (ii) they received or had access to all information they deem relevant to evaluate the merits and risks of the prospective investment and that (iii) they have the ability to bear the economic risk of an investment in the Funds. Details concerning applicable Investor suitability criteria are set forth in the respective Governing Fund Documents and subscription materials, which are furnished to each Investor.

The Funds may enter into separate agreements, commonly referred to as “side letters”, or other similar agreements with a particular Limited Partner in connection with its admission to one of Peakview Capital’s Funds without the approval of any other Limited Partner, which would have the effect of establishing rights under or supplementing the terms of the applicable Fund’s Partnership Agreement with respect to such Limited Partner in a manner more favorable to such Limited Partner than those applicable to other Limited Partners. Such rights or terms in any such side letter or other similar agreement may include, without limitation: (i) excuse rights applicable to particular investments (which may increase the percentage interest of other Limited Partners in, and contribution obligations of other Limited Partners with respect to, such investments), (ii) reporting obligations, (iii) waiver of certain confidentiality obligations, (iv) consent to certain transfers by such Limited Partner or (v) rights or terms requested or necessary in light of particular investment, legal, regulatory or public policy characteristics of a Limited Partner.

Part 8: Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

Methods of Analysis and Investment Strategies

The Funds primarily invest in a concentrated portfolio of venture capital funds that in turn invest in high-growth technology companies. Through these investments in venture capital firms, each underlying fund expects to invest in dozens of technology startups. Peakview Capital primarily focuses on early stage and growth stage venture capital funds.

The description contained above is a brief overview of the investment strategy and is not intended to be complete. All investing involves a risk of loss and the investment strategy offered by Peakview Capital could lose money over short or even long periods. Performance could be hurt by a number of different market risks, including those listed below.

Risk of Loss

An investment in the Funds involves significant risks, certain of which are described in more detail in each Fund's Governing Documents. An investment in the Funds should be undertaken only by Investors capable of evaluating the risks of the Funds and bearing the risks they represent. Prospective Investors must rely upon their own examination of and ability to understand the nature of the investment, including the risks involved, in making a decision to invest in the Funds. There can be no assurance that the Funds will be able to achieve their investment objectives or that Limited Partners will receive a return on their capital; investment results may vary substantially on a quarterly and annual basis. Each prospective Investor should make its own inquiries and consult its own advisors as to the Funds and this offering and as to legal, tax and related matters concerning an investment in the Interests.

The descriptions contained below are a brief overview of different risks related to Peakview Capital's investment strategy; however, it is not intended to serve as an exhaustive list or a comprehensive description of all risks and conflicts that may arise in connection with the management and operations of the Funds. A more detailed list of risks is provided in the confidential memorandums of relating to each of the Funds.

Dependence on Key Personnel. The success of the Funds will be highly dependent on the expertise and performance of the Principals. The loss of the services of one or more of these individuals could have a material adverse effect on the performance of the Funds. There can be no assurance that the Principals will continue to be associated with the Advisor or any of its affiliates throughout the life of the Funds, as they are under no contractual obligation to remain with the Advisor or any of its affiliates for all or any portion of the term of the Funds. In addition, in the event that the Principals cannot agree on decisions affecting the Fund, the investment results of the Fund may be adversely affected. Furthermore, although investment professionals employed by the Advisor will commit a significant amount of their business efforts to the Funds, they are not required to devote all of their business time to the Fund's affairs. They may manage newly created partnerships.

No Registration. The Underlying Funds will not be registered as investment companies under the Investment Company Act of 1940 (the "1940 Act") and, therefore, clients will not be entitled to the various protections afforded by the 1940 Act with respect to its investments in Underlying Funds. Accordingly, the provisions of the 1940 Act, which, among other things, require investment companies to have securities held in custody at all times in segregated accounts and regulate the relationship between the investment company and its asset management, are not applicable to an investment in the Underlying Funds. Unlike registered investment companies, Underlying Funds generally are not obligated to disclose the contents of their portfolios. Although Peakview Capital clients expect to receive information from each Underlying Fund regarding its investment performance on a regular basis, in most cases there is little or no means of independently verifying this information. An Underlying Fund may use proprietary investment strategies that are not fully disclosed to its investors and may involve risks under some market conditions that are not anticipated by the client. In addition, certain advisors to Underlying Funds will not be registered as investment advisors under the Investment Advisers Act in reliance on certain exemptions from registration under that Act. In such cases, the advisors will not be subject to various disclosure requirements and rules that would apply to registered investment advisors.

Generation of multiple levels of fees and expenses. Investors in Underlying Funds bear the applicable fees discussed in the Fees and Compensation section in addition to asset-based fees and performance-based fees and allocations of the Underlying Funds. The performance-based compensation received by an advisor to an Underlying Fund may also create an incentive for that advisor to make investments that are riskier or more speculative than those it might have made in the absence of the performance-based allocation.

Underlying Funds may be illiquid. The redemption or withdrawal provisions regarding the Underlying Funds vary from fund to fund. Therefore, Peakview Capital clients may not be able to withdraw their investment in an Underlying Funds promptly after it has made a decision to do so. Some Underlying Funds may impose early redemption fees. This may adversely affect the client's investment return or increase the client's expenses and limit the client's ability to make offers to repurchase units.

Underlying Funds may be difficult to value. The valuation of the client's investments in Underlying Funds is ordinarily determined based upon valuations calculated by the Company based on information provided by the Underlying Funds and their auditors. Although the Company reviews the valuation procedures used by the Underlying Funds, the Company may not be able to confirm or review the accuracy of such valuations. Peakview Capital may face a conflict of interest in valuing Underlying Funds, since the Underlying Funds' values will affect Peakview Capital's compensation.

The Advisor will not control the Underlying Funds. The Company does not and will not control the Underlying Funds, and there can be no assurances that Underlying Funds will be managed in a manner consistent with the master fund's investment objective.

Details on specific risks related to the Funds are described in their respective governing documents.

Part 9: Disciplinary Information

Registered investment advisers are required to disclose all material facts regarding any legal or disciplinary events that would be material to a client's or investor's evaluation of the adviser or the integrity of the adviser's management. Neither Peakview Capital nor any of its officers, directors, employees or other management persons, have been involved in any legal or disciplinary events in the past 10 years that would require disclosure in response to this Item.

Peakview Capital endeavors to maintain current and accurate records of all personal securities accounts of its Covered Persons in an effort to monitor all such activity. A copy of Peakview Capital's Code is available upon written request to Peakview Capital at 540 University Ave #350, Palo Alto, CA 94301, Attn: Chief Compliance Officer.

Peakview Capital intends to select brokers based upon the broker's ability to provide best execution for the Funds. Peakview Capital and/or the General Partner is generally authorized to make the following determinations, subject to each Fund's investment objectives and restrictions, without obtaining prior consent from the relevant Fund or any of their Investors: (1) which securities or other instruments to buy or sell; (2) the total amount of securities or other instruments
