Item 4 Advisory Business

CYPRESS CAPITAL GROUP, INC.

Cypress Capital Group, Inc. F/K/A Palm Beach Investment Advisors has been managing investment advisory accounts for clients since 1988. Cypress Capital Group has been doing business in its own name since 2004. Cypress Capital Group provides investment advice to clients throughout the United States.

INVESTMENT MANAGEMENT SERVICES

Cypress Capital Group focuses on individual security management using the following asset classes:

Equity Securities (Exchange-listed and over the counter securities [including Master Limited Partnerships traded as equities]; and foreign issues)

Fixed Income Securities (Corporate Debt, Commercial Paper, Certificates of Deposit, Convertible Bonds, Municipal Bonds, United States Government Bonds, Foreign Bonds, Other Securities, Open/Closed-end Mutual Funds, Exchange Traded Funds and non-traditional asset classes)

and occasionally Warrants and Options.

Cypress Capital Group develops and manages customized portfolios of individual securities. Portfolios are constructed after a personalized analysis of each client's lifestyle, including the client's risk tolerance, investment horizon, and requirements for income. Clients may place written restrictions and limitations regarding investments in certain securities or types of securities. Client investor profiles are periodically updated throughout the advisory relationship and as lifestyle changes occur.

As part of our portfolio management services, in addition to other types of investments (see disclosures below in this section), we may invest your assets according to one or more Investment Strategies managed by an independent portfolio management team. These strategies are branded as "Alpha Quant Investment Strategies" and are designed for investors with varying degrees of risk tolerance ranging from a more aggressive investment strategy to a more conservative investment approach. Clients whose assets are invested in Alpha Quant Strategies may not set restrictions on the specific holdings or allocations within the strategy, nor the types of securities that can be purchased in the strategy. Nonetheless, clients may impose restrictions on investing in certain securities or types of securities in their account. In such cases, this may prevent a client from investing in certain strategies that are managed by our firm. Cypress Capital Group provides these investment strategies as a primary adviser and to financial intermediaries that have discretion over their client accounts.

The Alpha Quant Investment Strategies are based on three Alpha Quant proprietary products: equity strategies, multi-asset portfolios and strategy indexes.

The equity strategies utilize proprietary, fundamentals-based quantitative models. The strategies are built based on core fundamental concepts and managed through a highly disciplined, repeatable and transparent investment process. Equity portfolios, consisting primarily of individual equity securities, span different styles and market capitalizations. The Alpha Quant equity portfolios are managed with a disciplined, rules-based investment process based on fundamental concepts.

Multi-asset portfolios include a combination of the Alpha Quant equity portfolios, mutual funds, exchange-traded funds, and individual securities. The multi-asset portfolios follow a strategic asset allocation structure among different asset classes to construct risk and cost sensitive solutions for clients across equity, fixed income and alternative asset classes. Based on client direction, Cypress Capital Group may customize the multi-asset portfolios to exclude certain asset classes or securities.

Cypress Capital Group also offers equity portfolio management related to the SmartALPHA® strategy index suite. The SmartALPHA® Strategy Indexes consist of four rules-based alpha seeking equity indexes designed to capture active and flexible exposure throughout the economic cycle. The SmartALPHA® strategy indexes are independently calculated and disseminated by S&P/Dow Jones Indices.

Direct and Sub-Advised Accounts

Cypress Capital Group provides discretionary advisory services to clients that directly enter into an advisory agreement with the Company. Clients may select from any of the pre-defined Alpha Quant Investment Strategies and require little or no customization. Cypress Capital Group will manage the portfolio in accordance with each investment strategy for all client accounts employing the strategy. Clients who impose investment restrictions may limit Cypress Capital's ability to manage their account in accordance with the investment strategy, resulting in investment performance that differs from the investment strategy or other client accounts.

Cypress Capital Group also offers custom equity strategies tailored to the client's individual investment objective. Cypress Capital Group works with clients to determine their investment objective, risk tolerance and other relevant information before recommending the appropriate strategy or strategy allocation that it believes will most likely achieve the client's objective. Clients may request that Cypress Capital Group allocate assets across more than one strategy, maintain legacy holdings or manage to specific cash needs.

Model Portfolio Clients

Cypress Capital Group offers Alpha Quant equity strategies to third-party financial intermediaries for such intermediaries to utilize with their respective clients. Cypress Capital Group does not have contact with the underlying clients, and therefore, the Alpha Quant Investment Strategies are not created to meet the specific investment objective or restrictions of any person or individual. Rather, the Alpha Quant Investment Strategies are designed to be used as a guide for investment advisers when managing their underlying clients' portfolios. Cypress Capital Group does not have investment discretion over these accounts, since the intermediary decides whether to follow Cypress Capital Group's recommended Alpha Quant Investment Strategies and makes all the security purchase and sales decisions. Please refer to Item 12 - Brokerage Practices for a discussion of Cypress Capital Group's trade rotation policy, which is designed to address potential conflicts related to the delivery of model portfolios.

Third-party intermediaries and their investment advisers are solely responsible for determining their client's suitability for any of the strategies, recommending asset allocations and investments, purchasing and selling securities for their client accounts and all other investment decisions. For these services, the intermediary receives a fee from the client, and a portion of such fee is paid to Cypress Capital Group for its advisory services.

Pursuant to written agreement, Cypress Capital Group has engaged its affiliate, Cypress Bank & Trust, to directly manage client accounts, acting in a sub-advisory capacity. Reference to the term "Portfolio Managers" in this Brochure shall mean Cypress Bank & Trust Portfolio Managers.

The qualification of a Cypress Capital Group client is subject to the applicable standards for and discretion of Cypress Capital Group.

1.20% on the first $2,000,000
0.85 of 1% on the next $3,000,000

There is a $7,500 minimum annual fee

For Accounts holding 100% fixed income securities:

0.35 of 1% on the first $20,000,000
0.30 of 1% on the next $30,000,000
0.25 of 1% over $50,000,000

There is a $7,500 minimum annual fee

Model Portfolio Delivery:

0.30% on the first $25,000,000
0.25% on the next $25,000,000
0.20% on the next $50,000,000
0.175% over $100,000,000

In some cases, the fee received by Cypress Capital Group ("CCG") for model portfolio delivery is net of an overlay fee retained by the sponsor for the implementation and operation of the model portfolios.

Management Fee: Upon the opening of your CCG account, a pro-rated fee will be taken from the day we are operationally capable of trading in your account until the end of the current month. Fees will then be charged in arrears for each successive month your account remains open based upon the prior month-end market value. Adjustments may be made to the month-end market value for additions or withdrawals during the fee period.

Termination Fee: There are no percentage termination fees. A pro-rated fee will be taken from the first day of the month until the date of receipt of notification. Direct expenses and a charge for time and effort to close the account may be assessed. CCG will be entitled to a full year's fee, if the account is subject to the minimum fee and CCG is involuntarily removed within the first year of account opening.

Additional Fees: Trading costs are in addition to the above-stated fees. These costs are a direct pass through from the broker-dealer and not marked up by CCG.

The balances in short-term funds including, but not limited to money market mutual funds, and cash are subject to CCG's investment management fee. Also, the Sponsors of mutual funds may take fund level management fees. As with most all mutual funds, fund level fees are indirect fees taken before income is distributed to the holders of the mutual fund. CCG may receive, directly from the fund Sponsors' compensation for services.

When unusual or extraordinary services are requested or required, fees may be charged in accordance with the responsibilities assumed and duties performed. Such services may include, but are not limited to, the furnishing of a special or an excessive number of reports, the maintenance of special records or the performance of special duties requiring an unusual amount of time and effort.

Change In Fee Schedule: CCG reserves the right to amend this fee schedule with thirty (30) days advance written notice.

Item 6 Performance-Based Fees and Side-By-Side Management

Cypress Capital Group does not accept performance-based fees or participate in side-by-side management. Side-by-side management refers to the practice of managing accounts that are charged performance-based fees while at the same time managing accounts that are not charged performance-based fees.

Performance-based fees are fees that are based on a share of capital gains or capital appreciation of a client's account. Cypress Capital Group's fees are calculated as described in the "Fees and Compensation" section above and are not charged on the basis of a share of capital gains, or capital appreciation of, the assets in an advisory account.

Item 7 Types of Clients

Cypress Capital Group provides investment advice to various types of clients.

Cypress Capital Group's advisory clients, may include:

- Individuals;
- High Net Worth Individuals;
- Individual Retirement Accounts;
- Pension and profit-sharing plans;
- Trusts and estates;
- Charitable and educational institutions;
- Corporations and other business entities; and
- Financial intermediaries.

Cypress Capital Group does not impose a minimum account size for opening or maintaining an account. There may be minimum fees as a condition of managing an account. The minimum fees for the different types of investments are discussed in the section on "Fees and Compensation".

Item 8 Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

Methods of analysis and investment strategies described herein may be implemented through an affiliate, Cypress Bank & Trust acting in a sub-advisory capacity.

Cypress Capital Group's customized client accounts are managed according to the investment objectives of the client via one or more of the following processes: Discussion with the client, obtaining an Investor Profile Statement when the account is opened and periodically thereafter, establishing an asset allocation and risk tolerances with the client based upon discussions and the Profile, performing a formal investment (peer) review of the account within 60 days of funding and within each calendar year thereafter, coding and monitoring client accounts on the accounting system with the proper investment objective and strategy codes, having periodic update meetings with the client to see if any lifestyle changes or events require adjustment in investment objective, periodically updating the Investor Profile Statement, written reminders on custodian statements and correspondence/mailings to notify Cypress Capital Group in case of lifestyle changes or events that would indicate a need to adjust the investment objective. In developing this profile, a portfolio manager assesses the client's investment objectives, risk tolerance, income and cash flow requirements, tax considerations and other unique circumstances.

Equity Analysis & Selection

Cypress Capital Group employs a team-driven approach to its equity investment process and together with its affiliate sub-advisor, Cypress Bank & Trust, provides a front-end screening to focus the research efforts of the investment team on a manageable list of attractive stocks. This approach provides a diverse list of equities with strong quality, value and income characteristics. This quantitative approach is designed to capture the interaction of fundamental investment concepts in a disciplined, consistent manner. The portfolio managers then research these companies to develop a deep understanding of the company's long-term dynamics and valuation. Third-party research is leveraged in this research process. The collective research and views of the portfolio management team are discussed and vetted in the Investment Committee which is held approximately twice per week, or more frequently upon event-driven needs such as earnings reports or significant macro and industry-related events. Consensus decisions are reached at these meetings with the output being a Focus List from which portfolio managers construct and manage client-customized portfolios.

The approach aims to manage portfolio risk through consistently investing in equities with strong profitability, cash flows, and attractive valuations. Additional risk management rules are in place for diversification purposes such as maximum position size and sensible limits to sub-industry concentration.

Portfolio managers determine whether investment in a Focus List security is appropriate for each individual client.

The individualized determination includes the client's:

- Investment Objectives;
- Risk Tolerance;
- Income and Cash Flow Requirements; and
- Tax Considerations.

Cypress Capital Group may manage a portfolio that contains individual securities that are retained at the portfolio manager's discretion and not on the Cypress Capital Group Focus List. Cypress Capital Group will place these equities on its Monitor List and generally, the portfolio manager maintaining the biggest position in a Monitor List stock will be assigned to prepare an initial and periodic analysis of the monitored equity. The analysis will use a similar investment approach as used for the Focus List equities. However, all portfolio managers whose accounts own the Monitor List equity in portfolios they manage share responsibility for the ongoing monitoring of a Monitor List equity.

FIXED INCOME ANALYSIS AND SELECTION

Cypress Capital Group will utilize for fixed income portfolios, various securities such as individual bonds, exchange traded funds and mutual funds. Diversification will be accomplished through various techniques which include but are not limited to, funds, issuers, maturities, amounts and fixed income sector allocation models. Cypress Capital Group's decisions are supplemented by third party fixed income analytics and various outside credit research sources. Investments in U.S. Government & Agency securities, investment grade corporate securities and high quality tax-free and taxable municipal securities are considered. Strategic fixed income decisions are generally implemented via purchases as opposed to frequent buying and selling. Portfolio managers work closely with clients to determine the tax-appropriate fixed income investments.

Generally, no individual bonds or preferred stocks will be purchased which have a rating, as defined by the credit agencies, which fall below their definition of investment grade. Currently, the lowest S&P and Fitch investment grade rating is BBB- and for Moody's Baa3. Exchange traded funds (ETFs) and mutual funds that hold individual securities within the exchange traded fund and/or mutual fund structure that may be rated non-investment grade or include non-investment grade securities are not restricted by the investment grade requirement on the basis of:

- 1) Such Investments are part of an exchange traded fund and/or mutual fund which is structured in such a way that provides a broadly diversified exposure to an asset class/investment strategy and not excessive exposure to any one individual security.
- 2) Such investments are part of a broader portfolio and asset allocation strategy, thereby providing additional diversification.

Exceptions to this credit quality guideline for individual securities can be made on a case-by-case basis by the Trust Investment Committee.

ALPHA QUANT INVESTMENT STRATEGIES

Equity strategies:

Equity strategies are created using a combination of fundamental and quantitative analysis. Alpha Quant identifies fundamental factors that have displayed ability to predict future returns. The fundamental analysis and insights are captured in a disciplined, rules-based portfolio management process.

Each equity strategy is driven by a distinct set of fundamental factors. Client accounts are managed to a single strategy or multiple strategies that are combined into a final portfolio. The Alpha Quant strategies focus on companies in a particular market capitalization range and therefore, the client portfolio invested in those strategies will be particularly subject to risks of those companies. In addition, certain strategies result in concentration portfolios of 30-60 stocks, which presents the risk that the client accounts invested in these strategies will display greater volatility than the overall equity market. Additional risk includes sector concentration risk where Investments within the same industry, geographic region or security type tend to be highly correlated, meaning that what happens to one investment is likely to happen to the others.

Multi-Asset Strategies:

For multi-asset portfolios Alpha Quant Strategies employs a combination of quantitative and qualitative analysis and uses extensive historical simulations to drive the strategic asset allocation process. Alpha Quant strategies employs analytical tools in an attempt to optimize the risk-reward potential of its asset-allocated portfolios.

The multi-asset portfolios may include a combination of AQ's proprietary equity strategies, mutual funds and exchange-traded funds. In including mutual funds and exchange-traded funds, Alpha Quant considers several factors such as the consistency of performance, portfolio and risk characteristics, expenses, investment approach and demonstrated manager skills. Liquidity and structure are also considered for exchange-traded funds.

Index Strategies

The SmartALPHA® Strategy Indexes are constructed using a systematic rules-based process that selects stocks based on clearly defined fundamental factors. The process is initiated by grouping the investable universe according to each stock's contrasting sensitivity to market returns. Alpha Quant strategies leverages the positive interaction between value and quality factors within defensive and cyclical sector groups in constructing four indexes, each designed to generate alpha in each specific phase of the economic cycle- recovery, expansion, contraction and recession. The indexes are reconstituted quarterly and rebalanced to equal weighting annually.

WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT INVESTING

All investments involve risks; it is impossible to avoid all risk. Cypress Capital Group seeks to employ strategies to reduce the possible impact of such risks in the accounts. Common risks associated with investing include but are not limited to market and market disruption risk.

Market risk is the risk that value of the securities may decline in value in reaction to tangible and intangible events and conditions independent of a security's particular circumstances. Market disruption risk is risk related to events such as geopolitical events, including war, terrorism, economic uncertainty, trade disputes, public health crisis and related geopolitical events may lead to instability in world economies and markets generally. Changes in values during market disruptions may be temporary or may last for extended periods.

Fixed income investments include credit risk and interest rate risk. Credit risk is an investor's risk of loss arising from a borrower who does not make payments as promised. Such an event is called a default. Investor losses could include interest as well as principal. Interest rate risk is the risk borne by an interest-bearing asset due to variability of interest rates. In general, as rates rise, the price of a fixed rate investment will fall, and vice versa.

There are numerous ways of measuring the risk of equity securities (also known simply as "equities" or "stock"). In very broad terms, the value of a stock depends on the financial health of the company issuing it. However, stock prices can be affected by many other factors including, but not limited to: the class of stock (for example, preferred or common); the health of the market sector of the issuing company; and the overall health of the economy.

In general, larger, better established companies ("large cap") tend to be safer than smaller start-up companies ("small cap") but the mere size of an issuer is not, by itself, an indicator of the safety of the investment. Large Cap risk includes underperforming other segments of the market and the inability to attain the high growth rates of successful smaller companies. Mid-Cap risk is greater due to higher price volatility than larger more established companies. Additionally, mid-cap companies may have less market liquidity than large cap companies and can be more sensitive to changes in interest rate, costs and earnings. Small cap equities involve greater risk and the possibility of greater price volatility due to their limited operating history and financial resources. There may be limited market liquidity and increase sensitivity to changes in interest rates, costs and earnings. Growth companies have an increased risk if growth rates do not meet expectations resulting in the prices of these stocks going down regardless of earnings.

Cypress Capital Group may invest in Exchange-Traded Funds. Exchange-Traded funds are subject to risks that do not apply to conventional funds. The market price of their shares may trade at a discount or premium which can lead to volatility in a fund's price compared to the price of the underlying securities.

Additional Risk investments include focus holdings risk, turnover risk and Value Stock Risk. Focus-Holdings risk is where clients have a focused portfolio of fewer companies resulting in the increase or decrease of a single stock having a greater impact on the clients account value. Turnover risk is the risk associated with account and strategy rebalancing. Alpha Quant Investment Strategies are rebalanced quarterly which could result in more frequent trading (turnover) of client holdings. This may result in increased trading costs as well as less favorable tax treatment of short-term capital gains, both of which can have a negative impact on investors overall investment compared to strategies with low turnover. Value stocks are subject to the risk of their intrinsic value never being realized by the market or that prices may go down. This may result in the value stocks' prices being undervalued for extended periods of time. While a strategy's investment in value stocks may limit its downside risk over time, the strategy may produce more modest gains than other riskier strategies as a trade-off for potentially lower risk.

Cypress Capital Group may engage in options trading when managing accounts. The trading of options may be highly speculative and may entail more risk than those present when investing in other types of securities. Prices of options are generally more volatile than prices of other types of securities. When trading in options, you may run the risk of losing the entire investment in a relatively short period of time. In more risky options strategies, an investor could theoretically have an unlimited risk of loss.

Cypress Capital Group's discussion with clients also addresses acceptable ranges for cash reserves. While Cypress Capital Group typically retains some cash reserves in client accounts for strategic reasons and anticipated liquidity needs, risks arise from this activity. Such risk includes opportunity costs and relative yield levels associated with high quality short-term investments.

Risk of Loss

Investing in securities involves risk of loss of both income and principal that you should be prepared to bear. Cypress Capital Group does not represent or guarantee that services or methods of analysis can or will predict future results, successfully identify market tops or bottoms, or insulate clients from losses due to market corrections or declines. It should be understood that investments are subject to various market, currency, economic, political and business risks, and that investment decisions will not always be profitable. Cypress Capital Group cannot offer any guarantees or promises that financial goals and objectives will be met. Past performance is in no way an indication of future performance.

Cypress Capital Group prohibits the discretionary sale or purchase of securities directly between client accounts. Also, Cypress Capital Group prohibits the discretionary purchase or sale of a security from a client account to Cypress Capital Group and the discretionary sale or purchase of a security to a client account from Cypress Capital Group. Cypress Capital Group does not recommend its own shares for purchase or sale in a client's account. Should a client desire to purchase or sell Cypress Capital Group shares in his or her account, such trade will be solely client directed with no opinion or recommendation from Cypress Capital Group.

Employees, officers, employee-directors, Portfolio Managers and consultants ("Access Persons") may occasionally trade in securities on their own behalf which are also being traded in client accounts. Conflicts of interest may arise from Access Person personal trading. For example, such conflicts may include front running.

Whenever possible, Cypress Capital Group will aggregate Access Persons trades with client trades to ensure compliance with applicable policies and procedures.

To prevent these types of conflicts, Cypress Capital Group has adopted an Access Person Personal Trading policy. These policies and procedures are designed to prevent improper or abusive conduct wherever any potential conflict of interest may exist.

The following procedures apply to all Access Persons (excluding outside Directors who do not have daily access to information about securities being considered for purchase or sale or being purchased or sold for client accounts.)

Access Persons are required to:

- 1) Obtain pre-clearance from the Chief Investment Officer or his or her designee prior to effecting securities transactions for an Access Person's account;
- 2) Have their broker/custodian send a duplicate statement directly to the Compliance Department.
- 3) Complete a Quarterly Holdings and Transaction Certification.

Access Persons are not permitted to:

- 1) Trade in securities for their own accounts in a manner contrary to recommendations (contemplated or actually) made to or action taken on behalf of clients.
- 2) Knowingly purchase or sell for their own account a security that has been added to or removed from the Focus List for 10 business days after its addition or removal. The Chief Compliance Officer may waive this requirement after he/she is assured that all Portfolio Managers have executed all trades in that security for client accounts.
- 3) Knowingly purchase or sell for their own account securities which are under active consideration for removal from or addition to the Focus List for 10 business days after its removal from consideration. The Chief Compliance Officer may waive this requirement after he/she is assured that all Portfolio Managers have executed all trades in that security for client accounts.
- 4) Purchase or sell securities for their own accounts or for client accounts that would involve the use of material, non-public information in violation of applicable law.
- 5) Execute their personal trades as part of a client trade order except in those instances where proprietary accounts are traded as part of a strategy rebalancing.

Item 12 Brokerage Practices

Cypress Capital Group's brokerage practices described herein may be implemented through Cypress Bank & Trust as sub-advisor. Generally, except for fixed income securities, Cypress Capital Group does not direct trades to specific broker-dealers. Unless the client directs otherwise, Cypress Capital Group will place equity transactions through the client's custodian/broker-dealer. These transactions are usually performed electronically. Fixed income transactions are placed with a broker-dealer with the best transactional opportunity in terms of supply and demand for inventory, price and best execution. The broker-dealer may or may not be the client's custodian/broker-dealer and such trading may result in trade away costs.

When transactions are not placed with a client's custodian, Cypress Capital Group acts within the client's trading guidelines. The guidelines are mutually prepared and agreed to by Cypress Capital Group and the client. When no direction or limitation exists, transactions are made in an effort to receive the best execution at a competitive commission. Cypress Capital Group maintains a written brokerage commission policy and attempts to obtain the best overall execution for each client in each trade.

Cypress Capital Group believes that broker-dealers utilized provide quality execution services for you at competitive prices. Price is not the sole factor considered in evaluating best execution. Cypress Capital Group also considers the quality of the brokerage services provided, including but not limited to the value of research provided, the firm's reputation, execution capabilities, commission rates, and responsiveness to clients and Cypress Capital Group. In recognition of the value of research services and additional brokerage products and services broker-dealers provide, you may pay higher commissions and/or trading costs than those that may be available elsewhere.

A client may limit Cypress Capital Group's authority to select brokers or direct that brokers who charge commissions over a certain sum are not to be used. The client must provide these limitations/directions in writing to Cypress Capital Group. Clients may direct brokerage transactions to specific brokers. Please see below for more information regarding client directed brokerage.

Cypress Capital Group does not receive soft dollars.

During the last fiscal year, the only benefit obtained by Cypress Capital Group was access to an internet-based investment information platform. This information generally benefits all of Cypress Capital Group's clients. Currently, Cypress Capital Group continues to obtain access to the platform.

Cypress Capital Group generally does not direct client transactions to a particular broker-dealer. When a client has not specifically directed brokerage transactions, Cypress Capital Group will execute transactions with the client's custodian. Cypress Capital Group believes that custodian executed trades are preferable because trade away costs can be avoided.

Cypress Capital Group does not have a current contractual client referral relationship from or to a third party or broker-dealer which would be a consideration in Cypress Capital Group's recommendation of a broker-dealer. Please see the discussion in the "Client Referrals and Other Compensation" section for additional information regarding Cypress Capital Group's client referral relationships.

Cypress Capital Group does not request or require any clients to direct their transactions through a specified broker-dealer. Cypress Capital Group recommends, but does not require, the use of Charles Schwab & Company, Inc., as custodian. Unless the client directs otherwise, Cypress Capital Group will attempt to place trades with the client's custodian.

Clients may direct brokerage transactions to specific brokers. Clients directing brokerage transactions for their accounts should be aware of the following:

1. No attempt is generally made to negotiate commissions on client-directed trades (including batched transactions) and therefore, clients may pay materially disparate commissions.
2. In batched transactions Cypress Capital Group would be in a better position to negotiate commissions (including volume discounts) if the brokerage were not client-directed.
3. Cypress Capital Group may not obtain best execution in certain transactions for these reasons.

Generally, Cypress Capital Group aggregates trade orders for the purchase or sale of securities on behalf of clients and may include trade orders for clients of affiliate Cypress Bank & Trust. When aggregating trade orders, Cypress Capital Group acts in good faith to prevent favoritism among accounts. Each account receives the weighted average share price for all transactions in a particular security affected to fill the orders on that business day and the custodian will charge each account a fixed transaction fee for each trade allocated to the account.

Cypress Capital Group will attempt to make an equitable allocation of portfolio transactions among its various clients when concurrent decisions are made to purchase or sell securities by multiple clients. Consideration will be given to the respective investment objectives, relative size of the portfolio holding the same or comparable securities, the availability of cash for investment, and the opinion of those recommending the investments to clients.

Trade Rotation

Cypress Capital Group provides Alpha Quant Investment Strategies to other investment advisors that conduct their own trades. Cypress Capital Group shall rotate its purchase and sale of securities on behalf of client accounts with the delivery of model portfolios to provide for fair and equitable treatment. All clients are in a single trade rotation.

Clients that execute through other broker-dealers, such as for model delivery, directed brokerage and broker-dealer platforms, are in a single trade rotation with direct clients of Cypress Capital Group. Each broker-dealer and model portfolio recipient are sequentially rotated with direct clients of Cypress Capital Group, such that the relationship trading first one period is moved to the last place for the next set of strategy recommendations, and each client following is moved up a place in the rotation. New clients will be added to the end of the rotation list and move up a place each strategy recommendation period. CCG will not wait for the broker-dealer or model portfolio recipient to complete their trading before moving on in the rotation.

Item 13 Review of Accounts

Cypress Capital Group's review of accounts described herein may be implemented through Cypress Bank & Trust, as sub-advisor.

Portfolio Managers of Cypress Bank & Trust and the Chief Investment Officer, who holds the same position for both Cypress Capital Group and Cypress Bank & Trust, attend regular investment committee meetings wherein securities on the Focus List which are held in client accounts are reviewed on an ongoing basis. On at least an annual basis, specific client accounts are reviewed by Portfolio Managers and the Chief Investment Officer, or designee.

During the annual review, reviewers pay specific attention to the account's designated investment strategy, when the client's investment profile or other investment directives were last updated, and the fees charged on the accounts.

Unscheduled client account reviews may be prompted by various events, including:

Client lifestyle changes that may change investment objectives (for example; changes in income requirements, marital status, tax status, health, and death in the family, etc.);
Global events having a widespread impact (socio-economic events, sector specific occurrences, etc.)

Statements come directly from the client's custodian and not Cypress Capital Group. Statements include the securities owned, cash, and cash equivalents with market values and the percentage of the portfolio each represents. Cypress Capital Group may provide a companion print out as a courtesy. Clients should always compare custodian statements with the companion print outs received from Cypress Capital Group.

Item 14 Client Referrals and Other Compensation

Cypress Capital Group does not currently receive economic benefits from non-clients for providing investment advice or other advisory services to our clients.

Cypress Capital Group pays incentives to employees and those of its wholly owned subsidiary, Cypress Bank & Trust, for client referrals that result in a new client relationship. The incentive is equal to a percentage of the first year's annualized fee. The incentive paid to the referring party does not increase the fee charged to the client by Cypress Capital Group.

Item 15 Custody

As paying agent for Cypress Capital Group, the client's independent custodian will directly debit client account(s) for the payment of Cypress Capital Group's advisory fees. This ability to deduct Cypress Capital Group's advisory fees from client accounts causes Cypress Capital Group to exercise limited custody over funds or securities. Client funds and securities will be held with a bank, broker-dealer, or other independent, qualified custodian. Clients will receive account statements from the independent, qualified custodian(s) holding funds and securities at least quarterly. The account statements from custodian(s) will indicate the amount of Cypress Capital Group's advisory fees deducted from account(s) each billing period. Clients should carefully review account statements for accuracy.

Item 16 Investment Discretion

Cypress Capital Group generally has discretionary authority to manage securities accounts on behalf of its clients. When a client gives Cypress Capital Group discretionary authority Cypress Capital Group does not need to obtain specific client consent before, among other things, buying or selling securities, determining which broker-dealer to use, and the commission rates to be paid to broker-dealers. However, generally the client's custodian is the preferred broker-dealer and their account commission rates are applicable to any trades. When Cypress Capital Group engages the services of Cypress Bank & Trust or other sub-advisers, these sub-advisers may act in a discretionary capacity.

Clients may place limitations upon this broad discretionary authority. The client and Cypress Capital Group will mutually agree, in writing, on an asset allocation designed in accordance with the client's need for income, investment objectives, and time-horizon for achieving objectives. Clients may communicate specific restrictions, confirmed in writing to their Portfolio Manager. For example, clients may restrict investments in certain types of companies or direct brokerage transactions to specific broker-dealers (see "Brokerage Practices").

Item 17 Voting Client Securities

The proxy voting policies described herein are implemented through affiliate Cypress Bank & Trust. The client decides in the Advisory Agreement whether Cypress Capital Group will vote client securities. Cypress Capital's Proxy Voting Policy is as follows:

General Philosophy: Proxies will be voted in an effort to enhance shareholder value.

Procedure: Proxies are voted in accordance with Cypress Capital Group's Proxy Voting Policy. Generally, the Policy provides guidance for voting by subject matter of the vote. In certain circumstances where the subject matter of a vote may require further direction, the Proxy Committee will defer to the Portfolio Manager assigned to the security. Clients may request copies of Cypress Capital Group's Proxy Voting Policy upon written request.

Client-Directed Voting: Clients may direct Cypress Capital Group on how to vote a particular proxy by contacting the Chief Compliance Officer at the telephone number or address on the cover page of this brochure. Should a client, having given authority to Cypress Capital Group, wish to revoke that authority or affect a vote on a matter, the client must notify Cypress Capital Group in advance, in writing.

Proxy Voting Conflict of Interests: If Cypress Capital Group is aware that a client is directing a proxy vote that is in conflict with Cypress Capital Group's discretionary voting decision for other clients on the same security and proxy matter, Cypress Capital Group will inform the client of this conflict and reveal the number of shares being voted and how the conflicting matter(s) is (are) being voted. Only Cypress Capital Group's discretionary voting will be disclosed. Cypress Capital Group will not disclose how other client directed shares are being voted, whether in conflict or not, with an inquiring client's directed vote.

Cypress Capital Group will never over-ride a client directed proxy vote on the client's shares even if it is voting differently on the matter for other clients.

Proxy Voting Documentation: Cypress Capital Group maintains a voting log and prints a summary report of proxy actions on a monthly basis. Clients may obtain a copy upon written request.

Each client decides whether to authorize Cypress Capital Group to vote client securities on his/her behalf in the Advisory Agreement. Should the client elect to vote himself/herself, Cypress Capital Group is not required to take any action or render any advice with respect to voting. The client will receive proxies and solicitations directly from their custodian or a third party.

Item 18 Financial Information

Cypress Capital Group is not required to provide financial information to clients because Cypress Capital Group does not:

- require the prepayment of more than $1200 in fees and six or more months in advance, or
- take custody of client funds or securities, or
- have a financial condition that is reasonable likely to impair their ability to meet their contractual commitments to clients.

Item 19 Requirements for State Registered Advisers
