Description of the Advisory Firm

WCM, Inc. d/b/a WCMI is a federally registered investment advisory firm founded in 1984. The principal owners Brian Kertz and Linda Wilke work in and on the business of the firm every day.

WCMI provides a Wrap Program (as described below) for clients through Fidelity Brokerage Services LLC (“FBS”). Custody of client assets and execution of securities transactions are provided by an affiliate of FBS, National Financial Services LLC (“NFS”) (collectively “Fidelity”).

Types of Advisory Services

WCMI offers investment advisory services as a Wrap Fee Program which provides the ability to trade in certain investment products without incurring separate brokerage commissions or transaction charges. A wrap fee program is considered any arrangement under which clients receive investment advisory services and the execution of transactions for a fee not based upon transactions in their accounts. The Program includes portfolio management services, custodial services and the execution of securities transactions. Under this program, WCMI provides continuous personal service to investors with individualized, ongoing management of their assets. Investment management is provided on either a discretionary or non-discretionary basis, according to the terms of the Investment Management Agreement with each client. When investment management is on a discretionary basis, selection of securities and timing of transactions are completed without prior approval by clients.

Fee Schedule & Fee Comparison

Wrap Program fees are billed quarterly in advance based on the asset value at the end of the previous quarter. Fees will be prorated when management commences at any time other than the first day of a calendar quarter. WCMI’s standard annual fee is based upon a percentage of assets under management and generally range from .5% to 2%. Fees may be prorated for each capital contribution or withdrawal made during the applicable calendar quarter (with the exception of de minimis contributions and withdrawals). The Wrap Program fee will be detailed in the Investment Management Agreement between WCMI and the client. These terms are negotiable at WCMI’s discretion.

WCMI also offers Wealth Planning services for clients. WCMI generally does not charge a fee for Wealth Planning Services, but reserves the right to assess a fee for such services that are not included in the standard annual Wrap Program fee, depending upon the complexity and circumstances of the client’s needs.

Clients may elect to be billed directly for fees or authorize WCMI to debit fees from their account(s).

Either WCMI or the client shall have the right, on giving a 10-day notice to the other, to terminate this agreement. In the event of such termination, all fees due and accrued as of the end of any particular quarter or interim period shall be paid to WCMI at the time of termination or refunded by WCMI if paid in advance.

Fees that are collected in advance will be refunded based on the prorated amount of work completed (after the 10-day notice period has expired) and the total days during the billing period.

Clients may pay lower fees for comparable services from other sources and may pay more or less for WCMI's Wrap Fee Program than purchasing these services separately. The number of transactions made in clients' accounts, whether or not the broker-dealer actually charges commissions on transactions involving certain securities, as well as the amount of commissions charged for each specific transaction, determines the relative cost of the Program versus paying for execution on a per transaction basis and paying a separate fee for advisory services. The Program fees may also be higher or lower than fees charged by other sponsors of comparable investment advisory programs.

Additional Fees or Expenses

In addition to the asset-based management fees, clients may pay additional fees or charges which may include, but are not limited to, electronic fund and wire transfer fees; outgoing ACAT transfer fees; charges imposed by custodians, such as fees on non-managed securities; SEC fees on securities trades; other charges mandated by law; and certain fees in connection with the establishment, administration or termination of retirement, profit sharing plans or trust accounts.

Client cash balances are invested in money market mutual funds and/or an interest-bearing cash position. Most clients also own some mutual funds and/or exchange-traded funds ("ETFs"), which may charge and deduct operating expenses and management fees from assets. Such charges are described in detail in the prospectus. Our managed account clients incur such fees to the extent their assets are invested in mutual funds or ETFs. Some mutual funds also levy front-end loads (sales charges). Some mutual funds may charge a back-end load if liquidated within a short period of time after purchase. Such fees may be passed on to the client if the liquidation is at the direction of the client.

WCMI does not mark-up prices of securities sold to clients. Clients wishing to self-direct trades in their account pay the direct costs charged by the custodian and such assets are excluded from the fee basis calculation.

Compensation for Recommending the Wrap Fee Program

WCMI does not have external arrangements in place whereby persons recommending the Program are entitled to receive compensations as a result of clients' participation.

Item 5 – Account Requirements and Types of Clients

WCMI's minimum account size is $500,000, which may be waived for existing clients, for referrals from existing clients or at the Portfolio Manager's discretion. WCMI may aggregate portfolios of a client's family members to meet the minimum portfolio size.

WCMI provides portfolio management services for a broad range of investors, including but not limited to, individuals, business owners, corporations, their executives and/or employees, trust accounts, retirement accounts, pension and profit-sharing plans and other U.S. institutions.

Item 6 – Portfolio Manager Selection and Evaluation

Advisory Business

WCMI and its Investment Adviser Representatives act as the Portfolio Manager(s) for accounts under the Wrap Fee Program. WCMI does not utilize outside advisers or third-party managers.

Client Tailored Services

Portfolio Review. The account management process begins with in-depth interviews and review of the client's current financial status focusing primarily on income, net worth, risk tolerance, investment time horizon, investment objectives and tax status.

Asset Allocation Strategy Formulation. A major asset allocation strategy is mapped out integrating the client's objectives with the firm's assessment of current market conditions. Recommended percentages for allocation among cash, bonds, stocks and mutual funds are made and agreed to with the client. Plans for deployment of the client's existing assets into these specific categories are developed and implemented.

Investment Strategy Formulation. Specific investment recommendations depend on the client's individual circumstances, including:

- Diversification by type and quantity of investment
- Needs for liquidity
- Optimizing return by balancing risk and reward
- Tax impact of investments, with economic benefit of key importance

- Current needs for income and capital preservation
- Protection against inflation
- Desire for long-term growth
- Risk tolerance
- Protection strategy for down markets

Monitoring and review. Managed Accounts are continuously reviewed in terms of performance of existing investments as well as for emerging investment opportunities. WCMI maintains close contact with clients focusing on their individual needs and objectives. WCMI generates quarterly reports showing current investment assets relative to cost basis, percentage allocation and performance relative to market indices. Clients also receive confirmations of all transactions and at least quarterly statements from their custodian.

Performance-Based Fees and Side-By-Side Management. WCMI does not accept any performance-based fees (fees based on a share of capital gains and/or capital appreciation, either realized or unrealized) or side-by-side management fees.

Methods of Analysis and Investment Strategies

WCMI's investment strategies include most types of securities but does not include futures and options trading or investing in other derivatives. Primary portfolio investment recommendations include stocks, bonds, and mutual funds, with the majority of portfolio assets being invested in individual stocks. Stocks and bonds are chosen in-house, emphasizing fundamental, bottom-up research. Mutual funds are used to enhance portfolio diversification, to invest in areas such as international markets that are not easily accessible to individual investors, and to place client funds with top-rated managers with varying styles. General advice can be provided by Portfolio Managers on request on various types of investment opportunities, including publicly traded debt and equity, mutual funds and limited partnerships.

WCMI uses fundamental and technical analysis in selecting investments for clients. Key factors include general economic, financial and industry trends. This information is gathered from business, financial and investment periodicals, objective analytical services, and discussions with broker-dealers and investment product wholesalers. Research includes determining sources and risks of the cash flows from the investment; capability, past performance, and integrity of management; and fit of investment objectives with those of the client. Particular emphasis is placed on the use of leverage, relative P/E ratio, position in industry and industry outlook when evaluating a specific security. Sales growth, market growth, depth of management, gross margins and market capitalization are also assessed. Prospectuses, offering documents, annual reports, analysis by rating services, and sales material from wholesalers are reviewed for specific investments. Moody's, Standard and Poor's, and other bond ratings are reviewed. The analysis of volatility, volume and charts is especially employed when decisions to buy or sell are considered.

For mutual funds, past performance is reviewed and rating service rankings are employed. Fund portfolios are heavily scrutinized. Internal rates of return are compared to similar alternatives and overall market performance. Mutual fund performance is monitored via rankings by magazines, Lipper Analytical Services, Morningstar, Value Line and other fund rating services.

Long-term purchases are generally recommended, but some shorter-term trading is used depending on market conditions and specific stocks.

WCMI seeks to take a holistic, global approach to portfolio management and each client usually has an investment strategy tailored to their particular needs and risk tolerance. WCMI's investment discipline is rooted in broad asset allocation across multiple asset classes, diversification in an effort to reduce portfolio risk and rebalancing to remain target allocations.

Risks of Loss

Investing in securities involves risk of loss that clients should be prepared to bear. WCMI's investment strategy seeks to limit risk through diversification in securities while realizing a satisfactory return. Frequent trading, when done, can affect investment performance, particularly through taxes.

All investments contain risk and may lose value. Investing in the stock or bond market is subject to certain risks including market, economic, interest rate, issuer, credit, and inflation risk. The credit quality of a particular security or group of securities does not ensure the stability or safety of the overall portfolio.

An investment in a mutual fund or exchange traded fund (ETF) involves risk, including the loss of principal. Mutual fund and ETF shareholders are necessarily subject to the risks stemming from the individual issuers of the fund's underlying portfolio securities. Mutual Fund shareholders are also liable for taxes on any fund-level capital gains, as mutual funds are required by law to distribute capital gains in the event they sell securities for a profit that cannot be offset by a corresponding loss.

There is no guarantee that WCMI's investment strategy will perform under all market conditions and each investor should evaluate their ability to invest for the long-term, especially during periods of downturn in the markets. Diversification does not ensure against loss. Past performance is not a guarantee of future returns.

Voting Client Securities

WCMI does not vote proxies on behalf of advisory clients. However, WCMI may, at a client's request, provide advice regarding voting of proxies.

Aggregating (Block) Trading for Multiple Client Accounts

All client accounts are traded separately, but if buying or selling a position across many accounts, WCMI will enter a block trade and each client will then receive the overall average price. If a limit order is entered for the total number of shares and partial fill(s) are received, WCMI will allocate the shares to the accounts on a rotating basis, keeping required documentation on the allocation process.

Item 7 – Client Information Provided to Portfolio Managers

WCMI will collect and maintain client information as part of the new account process. The data collected is in addition to the information completed on the custodian's new account application and includes the client's stated goals and objectives, risk tolerance, time horizon, financial horizon, and other various suitability factors. WCMI regularly reminds clients to report any changes to their investment objectives and risk tolerance. WCMI reviews the client's financial status and investment objectives on an ongoing basis and makes any adjustments to the client's portfolio as deemed necessary.

WCMI does not work with outside portfolio managers in providing investment advisory services through its Wrap Program.

Item 8 – Client Contact with Portfolio Managers

Client contact with WCMI is not restricted. Clients are encouraged to contact their Portfolio Manager and/or WCMI with any portfolio or service questions they may have.

Item 9 – Additional Information

Disciplinary Information

Neither WCMI nor its management persons have ever been involved in a legal or disciplinary event that would be considered material to a client's or perspective client's evaluation of our advisory business or the integrity of its management.

Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations

Neither WCMI nor its management persons are registered as a broker-dealer, broker-dealer representatives, or as a Futures Commission Merchant, Commodity Pool Operator or a Commodity Trading Advisor.

Code of Ethics

According to the Investment Advisers Act of 1940, an investment adviser is considered a fiduciary and has a fiduciary duty to all clients. WCMI has adopted a Code of Ethics Policy for all employees of the firm describing its high standard of business conduct and fiduciary duty to its clients. The Code of Ethics Policy includes provisions relating to the confidentiality of client information; provisions stating that our firm and our advisers give advice that is in a client's (or potential client's) best interest and charge no more than a reasonable compensation; a prohibition on insider trading and rumor mongering; restrictions on the acceptance of significant gifts; and timing limitations on personal securities trading, among other things.

Each WCMI employee shall comply with all applicable federal and state laws and all rules and regulations of any governmental agency or self-regulatory organization governing the actions of WCMI, its officers and employees.

This section is intended to provide a summary description of WCMI's Code of Ethics Policy. If you wish to review our Code of Ethics Policy in its entirety, it will be made available to you upon request.

Recommendations Involving Material Financial Interests

WCMI does not recommend to clients, nor buys or sells for client accounts, securities in which a principal of WCMI has a material financial interest. If at any time a principal of WCMI wishes to buy or sell securities in a client's account where they have a material financial interest, this relationship shall be disclosed in advance in writing to clients.

Investing Personal Money in the Same Securities as Clients

WCMI management encourages employees to invest in the securities it recommends to clients as long as their orders are entered after discretionary clients' orders. WCMI's trading volume is not large enough to cause movement in securities' prices.

Review of Accounts

WCMI's Portfolio Managers continuously monitor investments under management by reviewing client holdings on a daily basis and by performing a monthly formal account review. In addition, all trade activity is reviewed daily with a cumulative trade activity review done weekly. Monthly review and reconciliation of portfolio holdings against custodian's statements are completed by Brian Kertz and Mike McCool.

Managed accounts are also reviewed at least quarterly by the Portfolio Managers with communications to monitor changes in client financial status or objectives and refine investment strategies and formulate plans for the coming months.

Non-periodic reviews may be triggered by market, economic or political events, or by changes in a client's financial situation, such as retirement, termination of employment, inheritance or changes in current income needs.

Content and Frequency of Reports Provided to Clients

WCMI provides clients with written reports on a quarterly basis that includes (i) an account performance report which is calculated by a professional investment portfolio software program, and (ii) an account appraisal report with a summary of portfolio securities priced as of the previous quarter end. Such reports also reflect the current investment assets relative to purchase price (value on date of arrival when purchased elsewhere), percentage allocation and performance relative to market indices.

Clients also receive confirmations of all transactions and monthly statements from their custodian when accounts have had activity during that month, otherwise quarterly. Clients should carefully review these statements for accuracy. WCMI also urges clients to compare their quarterly appraisal report provided by WCMI to their custodian's account statement for accuracy and to notify WCMI immediately about any discrepancies or concerns.

Client Referrals and Other Compensation

WCMI does not receive any compensation, including sales awards or other prizes, either directly or indirectly, from any third party for advice rendered to WCMI clients. WCMI does not compensate, either directly or indirectly, any person who is not an employee for client referrals.

WCMI does not have any soft dollar arrangements with other firms that could cause conflicts of interest.

Financial Information

WCMI does not receive fees of more than $1,200 six months or more in advance and is not required to provide a balance sheet or other financial information to clients. WCMI has no financial commitment that impairs its ability to meet contractual and fiduciary commitments to clients, and has never been the subject of a bankruptcy proceeding.

Investment Discretion and Custody

WCMI accepts discretionary authority to manage securities accounts on behalf of clients. Clients may impose restrictions on investing in certain securities or types of securities. However, if the restrictions prevent WCMI from properly servicing the client account or if the restrictions would require WCMI to deviate from its standard management services, WCMI reserves the right to terminate the relationship.

As part of the Managed Account Agreement, clients may give WCMI discretionary authority to make the following determinations without obtaining further consent from the client:

1. Which securities are to be bought and sold;
2. The size of transactions; and/or
3. When securities are to be bought and sold

WCMI does not maintain custody of clients' assets except to the extent that it has limited authority to disburse funds or initiate a deposit between one or more third parties and their account held at Fidelity at the client's direction. Such clients have a signed Standing Letter of Instruction ("SLOI") on file with Fidelity authorizing the money movement. WCMI has no authority, or ability, to amend such SLOI.

Receipt of Economic Benefit

WCMI recommends that clients use Fidelity for custody and brokerage services to participate in the WCMI Wrap Program. Although WCMI recommends that clients establish this relationship, clients may, if they wish, choose another broker-dealer or custodian. This may cause the client to receive less favorable execution of transactions and to pay higher fees than if they use Fidelity.

In evaluating whether to recommend that a client custody their assets at Fidelity, WCMI considers a wide range of factors, including:

- Combination of transaction execution services and asset custody services;
- Capability to facilitate transfers and payments to and from accounts (wire transfers, check requests, etc.);
- Available investment products, i.e., stocks, bonds, mutual funds, exchange-traded funds ("ETFs"), etc.;
- Availability of investment research and tools that assist us in making investment decisions;
- Quality of services;
- Competitiveness of the price of those services; and,
- Reputation, financial strength, security and stability.

Fidelity also makes available to WCMI other products and services that benefits us but may not directly benefit our clients or their accounts. These products and services assist us in managing and administering our clients' accounts. They include, but are not limited to, investment research; marketing consulting and support; and consulting on technology, compliance, legal and business needs. Fidelity may also discount or waive its fees for some of these services or pay all or part of a third-party's fees. The availability of these services from Fidelity benefits us because we do not have to purchase them. This is a potential conflict of interest. We believe, however, that our selection of Fidelity as custodian and broker is in the best interests of our clients.

WCMI is independently owned and operated and is not affiliated with Fidelity Investments, Inc.

Customer Privacy Policy Notice

Protecting client privacy is very important to WCMI and the firm has implemented policies and procedures to ensure that customer information is kept private and secure. WCMI does not disclose any nonpublic personal information about clients or former clients to anyone, except as permitted or required by law or requested by you.

Item 3 – Disciplinary Information

Registered investment advisers are required to disclose all material facts regarding any legal or disciplinary events that would be material to the evaluation of each supervised and/or supervisory person providing investment advice. Mike has not been involved in any legal or disciplinary event that would be considered material to a client's or prospective client's evaluation of our advisory business or the integrity of its management.

Item 4 – Other Business Activities

Mike is not actively engaged in any investment-related business for compensation outside of WCMI nor does he receive incentive compensation or economic benefits for providing advisory services to anyone other than clients of WCMI or to recommend certain securities or investment products.

Item 5 – Additional Compensation

Mike does not receive compensation or economic benefits (including sales awards or prizes) from someone who is not a client for providing advisory services.

Item 6 – Supervision

Brian Kertz, as the Chief Compliance Officer (CCO) and the Chief Executive Officer (CEO), monitors Michael McCool's investment advisory activities and adherence to WCMI's Compliance Program and Code of Ethics Policy. In addition, Brian Kertz performs prompt reviews of all of Mike's trading activity, new account establishment, correspondence, monthly client statements, and a timely review of reconciliations of account holdings against client objectives, risk tolerance and asset allocation.

In addition to the ongoing supervisory / principal review, Brian Kertz conducts daily transactional reviews and weekly cumulative account activity reviews. Brian Kertz also conducts monthly inspections of all firm activities, including the monthly review of client brokerage statements or transactions, and an annual review of Mike's personal investment holdings reports.

Brian Kertz conducts monthly reviews and reconciliation of portfolio holdings against custodian's statements, and monitor and verify the calculation of advisory fees on a quarterly basis. Advisory clients may contact Brian Kertz directly.
