ADVISORY BUSINESS

Strategic Advisers is a registered investment adviser and an indirect, wholly owned subsidiary of FMR LLC (collectively with Strategic Advisers and its affiliates, "Fidelity Investments," "Fidelity," "us," "our," or "we"). Strategic Advisers was formed in 1977 and serves as sub-advisor to its affiliate, Fidelity Personal and Workplace Advisors LLC ("FPWA"), a registered investment adviser, and an indirect, wholly owned subsidiary of FMR LLC, in connection with various investment advisory programs offered by FPWA, including the two digital investment advisory programs described in this brochure: (1) the Fidelity Go® ("Fidelity Go") program and (2) the Fidelity® Personalized Planning & Advice ("FPPA") program (each a "Program," and collectively referred to as the "Programs"). As such, Strategic Advisers will make the day-to-day trading decisions for all Program accounts and will receive a portion of the advisory fee clients pay to FPWA in connection with each of the Programs. Important information regarding FPWA and each of the Programs can be found in FPWA's Fidelity Go and Fidelity Personalized Planning & Advice Program Fundamentals ("FPWA's Program Fundamentals").

Strategic Advisers provides a variety of investment management services, including discretionary portfolio management services to retail and institutional clients and providing nondiscretionary advisory services. This brochure provides information only about Strategic Advisers' role with respect to each of the Programs. For additional information about services that Strategic Advisers provides, please see Strategic Advisers' relevant Form ADV Part 2A brochures.

As described in FPWA's Program Fundamentals, the Programs are designed for a client ("client" or "you") who seeks a digital, discretionary investment management experience. The Programs offer discretionary investment management based on clients' goals and objectives, as well as trading and custody services for Program accounts (each a "Program Account," and together "Program Accounts"). The Fidelity Go Program's discretionary investment management services are made available through the Fidelity Go website, and there is no minimum to open a Fidelity Go Program Account. The FPPA Program includes the same investment portfolios as the Fidelity Go Program plus nondiscretionary financial planning services made available to clients through the FPPA website or via telephone by a team of Fidelity representatives. To be eligible for the FPPA Program, you must typically invest and maintain $25,000, in the aggregate, in one or more of your FPPA Program Accounts. A Program Account will not be invested according to your selected asset allocation strategy until the Program Account has a balance of at least $10.

Strategic Advisers implements your selected asset allocation strategy for your Program Account. Your Program Account, and each asset allocation strategy used in the Programs, will be invested in certain Fidelity Flex® mutual funds that are available only to certain fee-based accounts offered by Fidelity ("Flex Funds"). The Flex Funds are managed by Fidelity Management & Research Company LLC ("FMRCo") and its affiliates. Unlike many other mutual funds, the Flex Funds do not charge management fees or, with limited exceptions, fund expenses. Instead, compensation for access to the Flex Funds is paid out of the fees charged by Fidelity fee-based accounts that include Flex Funds as underlying investments, including the Programs. In general, it is expected that your Program Account will be invested in approximately six to twelve Flex Funds.

Your Program Account will be periodically rebalanced to the portfolio identified for your selected asset allocation strategy. The specific Flex Funds or number of Flex Funds in which your Program Account is invested could change, and the underlying Flex Funds held in a Program Account can differ based on whether a Program Account is a taxable or individual retirement account. For additional information about the Flex Funds selected for your Program Account, our use of the Flex Funds, and any associated risks, please see the section below entitled "Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss" and the respective funds' prospectuses.

A client can impose reasonable restrictions on the management of any Program Account. Investment restrictions should be requested by contacting a Fidelity representative, and all requested investment restrictions are subject to our review and approval. If a restriction is accepted, Program Account assets will be invested in a manner that is appropriate given the restriction. Imposing an investment restriction can delay the start of discretionary management, and Program Accounts with client-imposed restrictions will experience performance different from Program Accounts without restrictions, possibly producing lower overall results. Any client-imposed restrictions will be removed if the asset allocation strategy changes for a Program Account, or if a client converts a Program Account to the other Program described in this brochure, and the client can request investment restrictions on the new asset allocation strategy for the Program Account by contacting a Fidelity representative. Restrictions can also be reevaluated at any time.

As of December 31, 2020, Strategic Advisers' total assets under management were $543,415,249,572 on a discretionary basis and $24,866,520,536 on a nondiscretionary basis.

FEES AND COMPENSATION

Clients of the Programs do not pay Strategic Advisers for the services it provides under the Programs. Instead, as compensation for its discretionary portfolio management services provided to Program Accounts, Strategic Advisers receives a portion of the advisory fee paid to FPWA by Program clients pursuant to an agreement between FPWA and Strategic Advisers.

Your Program's advisory fee could be reduced by a credit amount if you elect to transfer securities to fund your Program Account. The credit amount reduces the advisory fees paid to FPWA by the amount of compensation, if any, FPWA and its affiliates retain that is derived as a direct result of investments imported into Program Accounts. As described above, Program Account assets will be invested in certain Flex Funds. The Flex Funds are not subject to the credit amount because Fidelity receives no fees from the Flex Funds for managing or handling the business affairs of the Flex Funds and pays the expenses of each fund, with limited exceptions. Instead, a portion of each of the Programs' advisory fees will be allocated to access the Flex Funds in which Program Accounts will be invested. Please see the FPWA Program Fundamentals for information about Program fees and the application of the credit amount.

PERFORMANCE-BASED FEES AND SIDE-BY-SIDE MANAGEMENT

Strategic Advisers does not currently charge performance-based management fees for any of its advisory services and does not engage in side-by-side management with respect to the strategies employed for the Programs.

TYPES OF CLIENTS

Strategic Advisers provides discretionary portfolio management services to clients enrolled in each of the Programs. Please see FPWA's Program Fundamentals for information about the types of clients eligible for each of the Programs.

METHODS OF ANALYSIS, INVESTMENT STRATEGIES AND RISK OF LOSS

This section contains information about how Strategic Advisers provides discretionary portfolio management services to Program Accounts. As part of each Program's enrollment process, you will be required to provide us with certain initial information, and FPWA will apply a proprietary algorithm to identify one in a series of long-term asset allocation strategies for your Program Account. Strategic Advisers has been retained by FPWA to create portfolios for each asset allocation strategy and to invest Program Accounts in alignment with the respective portfolio. Each asset allocation strategy is a combination of stocks, bonds, and short-term investments, and is one in a series of asset allocations that range from conservative (i.e., a strategy that has a lower allocation to equities and a lower risk and return potential) to aggressive growth (i.e., a strategy that has a higher allocation to equities and a higher risk and return potential).

You can also provide FPWA with additional information about yourself, and providing the additional information will allow us to know you better and can impact the proposed asset allocation strategy. In the event that you do not provide additional information, FPWA will propose an asset allocation strategy using your initial information along with assumed responses based on information derived from similarly aged investors or investors with a similar time horizon from our other programs and services ("profiling assumptions"). FPWA uses a proprietary framework based on aggregate investor data to inform our profiling assumptions. It is important to understand that the various profiling assumptions FPWA considers, and the weight assigned to any particular profiling assumption, will vary over time and based on your goal. FPWA will periodically review and update the profiling assumptions based on the investor information we have in our database, and such updates will result in changes to the profiling assumptions that are used as part of your profile information. Please see the FPWA Program Fundamentals for information about how your profile information helps create your personal profile and will impact the asset allocation strategy that is proposed to you.

As part of the Fidelity Go enrollment process, you can select the proposed asset allocation strategy or another asset allocation strategy that you believe is most appropriate for your situation, subject to certain constraints and limitations defined by FPWA. If you select an asset allocation strategy that differs from that originally suggested by FPWA, Strategic Advisers will provide discretionary management for your Fidelity Go Program Account consistent with your selected asset allocation strategy. You should understand that the performance of a Program Account with a client-selected asset allocation strategy likely will differ, at times significantly, from the performance of a Program Account managed according to the asset allocation strategy originally proposed by FPWA. If you do not initiate a change to your asset allocation strategy, your Fidelity Go Program Account's asset allocation strategy will not typically change unless we determine that the current asset allocation strategy for your Program Account is no longer appropriate based on your updated profile information. If you enroll in the FPPA Program, FPWA will monitor and adjust this asset allocation strategy over time based on your updated profile information. Absent other factors, the FPPA Program is generally designed such that FPPA Program Accounts are to become more conservative over time.

The Programs are designed to provide investors with a portfolio of Flex Funds. For the equity portion of a portfolio, Program Account assets will be invested in passively managed Flex Funds that seek to replicate the performance of relevant market indexes. For the bond (fixed income) and money market (short-duration investments) portions of a portfolio, Program Account assets can be invested in both passively and actively managed Flex Funds. The Flex Funds are managed by affiliates of Strategic Advisers, including FMRCo. For additional information about the Flex Funds selected for your program account, and the associated risks, please see the respective funds' prospectuses.

Program Accounts that have a more conservative asset allocation strategy will typically hold a higher percentage of bond funds than other Program Accounts. The specific mix of funds chosen will depend on the asset allocation strategy selected for your Program Account, could change over time in light of changes to your profile information, and could deviate at times from the asset allocation strategy you originally viewed as part of your Program's online enrollment process.

Additional Information about Strategic Advisers' Investment Practices

Strategic Advisers generally uses both fundamental and quantitative investment strategies to manage Program Accounts. This involves both evaluating characteristics such as sector weightings, duration, valuation, and market capitalization, as well as focusing on key economic indicators and trends. When determining how to allocate assets among underlying mutual funds, Strategic Advisers considers a variety of objectives and subjective factors, including, but not limited to, proprietary fundamental and quantitative fund research, a manager's experience and investment style, fund availability, current public information about a fund, performance history, asset size, and portfolio turnover—and overall fit within Program Accounts. Strategic Advisers' investment professionals will obtain and use information from various sources to assist in making allocation decisions among asset classes, as well as decisions regarding the purchase and sale of specific mutual funds. Sources of information used include publicly available information and performance data on mutual funds, individual securities, equity markets, fixed income markets, international markets, and broad-based economic indicators. Strategic Advisers will use both primary sources (e.g., talking directly with managers) and secondary sources (reports prepared by fund companies and other sources that provide data on specific fund investment strategies, portfolio management teams, fund positioning, portfolio risk characteristics, performance attribution, and historical fund returns) as inputs into its investment process. However, as described earlier in this brochure, Program Account assets will be invested in certain Flex Funds.

Strategic Advisers does not seek access to material nonpublic information on any investment used by the Programs. With respect to Fidelity funds used by the Programs, the investment team at Strategic Advisers that manages Program Accounts does not have access to the proprietary or material nonpublic information of the Fidelity funds.

If, based on the information you provide, FPA determines that your Program Account requires modification to its asset allocation strategy, Strategic Advisers will generally make such changes as soon as reasonably possible, even if such changes trigger additional trading or, in the case of taxable accounts, significant tax consequences.

When investing in Fidelity funds, Strategic Advisers from time to time consults the fund manager to understand the manager's guidelines concerning general limitations, if any, on the aggregate percentage of fund shares that can be held under management by Strategic Advisers on behalf of all its clients. Funds are not required to accept investments and can limit how much Strategic Advisers can purchase. Additionally, Strategic Advisers can establish internal limits on how much it invests in any one fund across the programs it manages. Regulatory restrictions sometimes limit the amount that one fund can invest in another, which means Strategic Advisers could be limited in the amount it can invest in any particular fund. Strategic Advisers will work closely with fund management to minimize the impact of its reallocation activity on acquired funds. In certain situations, liquidating positions in underlying funds will be accomplished over an extended period of time as a result of operational considerations, legal considerations, or input from underlying fund managers. To the extent that a Program Account already owns securities that directly or indirectly contribute to an ownership threshold being exceeded, securities held in such a Program Account could be sold to bring account-level and/or aggregate ownership below the relevant threshold. In the event that any such sales result in realized losses for a Program Account, that Program Account will bear such losses depending on the particular circumstances.

From time to time, Strategic Advisers and/or its affiliates can determine that, as a result of regulatory requirements that apply to Strategic Advisers and/or its affiliates due to investments in a particular country or in an issuer operating in a particular regulated industry, investments in the securities of issuers domiciled or listed on trading markets in that country or operating in that regulated industry above certain thresholds are impractical or undesirable. The foregoing limits and thresholds could apply at the Program Account level or in the aggregate across all accounts (or certain subsets of accounts) managed, sponsored, or owned by, or otherwise attributable to, Strategic Advisers and its affiliates. For investment risk management and other purposes, Strategic Advisers and its affiliates also generally apply internal aggregate limits on the amount of a particular issuer's securities owned by all such accounts, including funds managed by Strategic Advisers and its affiliates. In such instances, investment flexibility will be restricted, and Strategic Advisers could limit or exclude a client's investment in a particular issuer, which can also include investment in related derivative instruments.

Material Investment Risks

In general, all the portfolios managed by Strategic Advisers in the Programs are subject to the list of investment risks discussed below. However, investment strategies that have higher concentrations of equity will have greater exposure to the risks associated with equity investments, such as stock market volatility and foreign exposure. On the other hand, investment strategies that have higher exposure to fixed income will have greater exposure to the risks associated with those products, such as credit risk and bond investment risk.

Risk of Loss. The discretionary investment management strategies implemented by Strategic Advisers for clients in each of the Programs, including conservative investments, involve risk of loss. Investments in a Program Account are not a deposit of a bank and are not insured or guaranteed by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation ("FDIC") or any other government agency. You could lose money by investing in mutual funds. You could lose money by investing in a Program Account.

Many factors affect each investment's or Program Account's performance and potential for loss. Strategies that pursue investments in equities will be subject to stock market volatility, and strategies that pursue fixed income investments (such as bond or money market funds) will see values fluctuate in response to changes in interest rates. Developments that disrupt global economies and financial markets, such as wars, acts of terrorism, the spread of infectious illness or other public health issues, recessions, or other events can magnify factors that affect performance. All strategies are ultimately affected by impacts to the individual issuers, such as changes in an issuer's credit quality, or changes in tax, regulatory, market, or economic developments.

Nearly all investments or accounts are subject to volatility in non-U.S. markets, through either direct exposure or indirect effects in U.S. markets from events abroad. Those investments and accounts that are exposed to emerging markets are potentially subject to heightened volatility from greater social, economic, regulatory, and political uncertainties, as the extent of economic development, political stability, market depth, infrastructure, capitalization, and regulatory oversight can be less than in more developed markets.

In addition, investments in the mutual funds in a Program Account could be subject to the following risks:

Investing in Mutual Funds. Your Program Account bears all the risks of the investment strategies employed by the mutual funds held in your Program Account, including the risk that a mutual fund will not meet its investment objectives. For the specific risks associated with a mutual fund, please see its prospectus.

Money Market Funds. A client could lose money by investing in a money market fund. Although a money market fund seeks to preserve the value of a client's investment at $1.00 per share, it cannot guarantee it will do so. An investment in a money market fund is not insured or guaranteed by the FDIC or any other government agency. Fidelity, the sponsor of Fidelity's money market funds, has no legal obligation to provide financial support to a Fidelity money market fund, and a client should not expect that Fidelity will provide financial support to a Fidelity money market fund at any time.

Fidelity's government and U.S. Treasury money market funds will not impose a fee on the sale of shares or temporarily suspend an investor's ability sell shares, if a fund's weekly liquid assets fall below 30% of its total assets because of market conditions or other factors.

Quantitative Investing. Funds or securities selected using quantitative analysis can perform differently from the market as a whole as a result of the factors used in the analysis, the weight placed on each factor, changes to the factors' behavior over time, market volatility, or the quantitative model's assumption about market behavior. In addition, Strategic Advisers' quantitative investment strategies rely on algorithmic processes and therefore are subject to the risks described below under the heading "Operational Risks."

Stock Investments. Stock markets are volatile and can decline significantly in response to adverse issuer, political, regulatory, market, or economic developments. Different parts of the market can react differently to these developments. Value and growth stocks can perform differently from other types of stocks. Growth stocks can be more volatile. Value stocks can continue to be undervalued by the market for long periods of time. In addition, stock investments are subject to risk related to market capitalization as well as company-specific risk.

Bond Investments. In general, the bond market is volatile, and fixed-income securities carry interest rate risk. As interest rates rise, bond prices usually fall, and vice versa. This effect is usually more pronounced for longer-term securities. During periods of very low or negative interest rates, we could be unable to maintain positive returns on bond investments. Very low or negative interest rates can magnify interest rate risk for the markets as a whole and for individual bond investments. Changing interest rates, including rates that fall below zero, can also have unpredictable effects on markets and can result in heightened market volatility. The ability of an issuer of a bond to repay principal before a security's maturity can cause greater price volatility, and, if a bond is prepaid, a bond fund could have to invest the proceeds in securities with lower yields. Fixed-income securities also carry inflation risk, as well as credit and default risks for both issuers and counterparties. The interest payments of inflation-protected bonds are variable and usually rise with inflation and fall with deflation. Unlike individual bonds, most bond funds do not have a maturity date, so holding them until maturity to avoid losses caused by price volatility is not possible. In addition, investments in certain bond structures are less liquid than other investments, and therefore are more difficult to trade effectively.

Credit Risk. Changes in the financial condition of an issuer or counterparty, and changes in specific economic or political conditions that affect a particular type of security or issuer, can increase the risk of default by an issuer or counterparty, which can affect a security's or instrument's credit quality or value. Lower-quality debt securities and certain types of other securities involve greater risk of default or price changes due to changes in the credit quality of the issuer.

Municipal Bonds. The municipal market can be significantly affected by adverse tax, legislative, or political changes, and by the financial condition of the issuers of municipal securities. Municipal funds normally seek to earn income and pay dividends that are expected to be exempt from federal income tax. If a fund investor is a resident in the state of issuance of the bonds held by the fund, interest dividends could also be exempt from state and local income taxes. Income exempt from regular federal income tax (including distributions from municipal and money market funds) can be subject to state, local, or federal alternative minimum tax. Certain funds normally seek to invest only in municipal securities generating income exempt from both federal income taxes and the federal alternative minimum tax; however, outcomes cannot be guaranteed, and the funds sometimes generate income subject to these taxes. For federal tax purposes, a fund's distribution of gains attributable to a fund's sale of municipal or other bonds is generally taxable as either ordinary income or long-term capital gains.

Redemptions, including exchanges, can result in a capital gain or loss for federal and/or state income tax purposes. Tax code changes could impact the municipal bond market. Tax laws are subject to change, and the preferential tax treatment of municipal bond interest income could be removed or phased out for investors at certain income levels. Because many municipal bonds are issued to finance similar projects, especially those relating to education, health care, transportation, and utilities, conditions in those sectors can affect the overall municipal market. Budgetary constraints of local, state, and federal governments on which the issuers are relying for funding can also impact municipal bonds. In addition, changes in the financial condition of an individual municipal insurer can affect the overall municipal market, and market conditions can directly impact the liquidity and valuation of municipal bonds.

Foreign Exposure. Foreign securities are subject to interest rate, currency exchange rate, economic, regulatory, and political risks, all of which are likely to be greater in emerging markets. These risks are particularly significant for funds that focus on a single country or region or emerging markets. Foreign markets can be more volatile than U.S. markets and can perform differently from the U.S. market. Emerging markets can be subject to greater social, economic, regulatory, and political uncertainties and can be extremely volatile. Foreign exchange rates can also be extremely volatile. Foreign markets can also offer less protection to investors than U.S. markets. For example, foreign issuers are generally not bound by uniform accounting, auditing, and financial reporting requirements and standards of practice comparable to those applicable to U.S. issuers. Adequate public information on foreign issuers might not be available, and it could be difficult to secure dividends and information regarding corporate actions on a timely basis. Regulatory enforcement can be influenced by economic or political concerns, and investors could have difficulty enforcing their legal rights in foreign countries. Furthermore, investments in securities of foreign entities can result in clients owning an interest in a “passive foreign investment company” (a “PFIC”). Clients holding an interest in a PFIC could be subject to additional tax liabilities and filing requirements as a result of such investments. The rules regarding investments in PFICs are complex, and clients are urged to consult their tax advisors.

Derivatives. Certain funds used by Strategic Advisers, including the Flex Funds, contain derivatives. Generally speaking, a derivative is a financial contract whose value is based on the value of a financial asset (such as a stock, bond, or currency), a physical asset (such as gold, oil, or wheat), or a market index (such as the S&P 500® Index). Investments in derivatives subject these funds to risks different from, and possibly greater than, those of the underlying securities, assets, or market indexes. Some forms of derivatives, such as exchange-traded futures and options on securities, commodities, or indexes, have been trading on regulated exchanges for decades. These types of derivatives are standardized contracts that can easily be bought and/or sold, and whose market values are determined and published daily. Nonstandardized derivatives (such as swap agreements), on the other hand, tend to be more specialized or complex and can be more difficult to value. Derivatives could involve leverage because they can provide investment exposure in an amount exceeding the initial investment. As a result, the use of derivatives can cause these funds to be more volatile, because leverage tends to exaggerate the effect of any increase or decrease in the value of a fund’s portfolio securities.

Growth Investing. Growth stocks can react differently to issuer, political, market, and economic developments from the market as a whole and other types of stocks. Growth stocks tend to be more expensive relative to their earnings or assets compared with other types of stocks. As a result, growth stocks tend to be sensitive to changes in their earnings and more volatile than other types of stocks.

Value Investing. Value stocks can react differently to issuer, political, market, and economic developments from the market as a whole and other types of stocks. Value stocks tend to be inexpensive relative to their earnings or assets compared with other types of stocks. However, value stocks can continue to be inexpensive for long periods of time and might never realize their full expected value.

Legislative and Regulatory Risk. Investments in your Program Account could be adversely affected by new (or revised) laws or regulations. Changes to laws or regulations could impact the securities markets as a whole, specific industries, or individual issuers of securities. Generally, the impact of these changes will not be fully known for some time.

Cybersecurity Risks. With the increased use of technologies to conduct business, Strategic Advisers and its affiliates are susceptible to operational, information security, and related risks despite taking reasonable steps to mitigate them. In general, cyber incidents can result from deliberate attacks or unintentional events that can arise from external or internal sources. Cyberattacks include but are not limited to gaining unauthorized access to digital systems (e.g., through “hacking” or malicious software coding) for purposes of misappropriating assets or sensitive information; corrupting data, equipment, or systems; and causing operational disruption. Cyberattacks can also be carried out in a manner that does not require gaining unauthorized access, such as causing denial-of-service attacks on websites (i.e., efforts to make network services unavailable to intended users). Cyber incidents affecting Strategic Advisers, its affiliates, or any other service providers (including but not limited to custodians, transfer agents, and financial intermediaries used by Fidelity or by an issuer of securities) have the ability to cause disruptions and impact business operations, potentially resulting in financial losses, interference with the ability to calculate asset prices, impediments to trading, the inability to transact business, destruction to equipment and systems, violations of applicable privacy and other laws, regulatory fines, penalties, reputational damage, reimbursement or other compensation costs, or additional compliance costs. Similar adverse consequences could result from cyber incidents affecting issuers of securities in which an account invests, counterparties with which an account engages in transactions, governmental and other regulatory authorities, exchange and other financial market operators, banks, brokers, dealers, insurance companies and other financial institutions (including financial intermediaries and service providers), and other parties.

Operational Risks. Operational risks can include risk of loss arising from failures in internal processes, people, or systems, such as routine processing incidents or major systems failures, or from external events, such as exchange outages. Strategic Advisers uses algorithms in support of its discretionary portfolio management process, and such use contributes to operational risks. There is a risk that the algorithms and data input into the algorithms could have errors, omissions, imperfections, or malfunctions. Any decisions made in reliance on incorrect data expose Program Accounts to potential risks. Issues in the algorithm are often extremely difficult to detect and could go undetected for long periods of time or never be detected. These risks are mitigated by testing and human oversight of the algorithms and their output. We believe that the oversight and testing performed on our algorithms and their output will enable us to identify and address issues appropriately. However, there is no assurance that the algorithms will always work as intended. In general, we will not assess each Program Account individually, nor will we override the outcome of the algorithm with respect to any particular Program Account.

Not all incidents arising from operational failures, including those resulting from the mistakes of third parties, will be compensable by Strategic Advisers to you. Strategic Advisers maintains policies and procedures that address the identification and correction of errors, consistent with applicable standard of care, to ensure that clients are treated fairly when an error has been detected. The determination of whether an incident constitutes an error is made by Strategic Advisers or its affiliates, in their sole discretion. For example, computer, communications, data processing, networks, backup, business continuity or other operating, information, or technology systems, including those we outsource to other providers, may fail to operate properly or become disabled, overloaded or damaged as a result of a number of factors. These factors could include events that are wholly or partially beyond our control and may have a negative impact on our ability to conduct business activities. Though losses arising from operating, information, or technology systems failures could adversely affect the performance of a Program Account, such losses would likely not be reimbursable under Strategic Advisers' policies and procedures. In the event that Strategic Advisers or its affiliates make an error that has a financial impact on a Program Account, Strategic Advisers or its affiliates will generally return the Program Account to the position it would have held had no error occurred. Strategic Advisers will evaluate each situation independently, and unless prohibited by applicable regulation or a specific agreement with the client, we will net a client's gains and losses from the error or a series of related errors with the same root cause and compensate the client for the net loss. This corrective action could result in financial or other restitution to a Program Account, or in inadvertent gains being reversed out of a Program Account. Under certain circumstances, clients will not be reimbursed for errors where the loss is less than $10 per Program Account; in such cases, we have instituted procedures designed to prevent Fidelity from receiving economic benefits from limiting the correction of such errors.

Participating Affiliate

Fidelity Strategic Advisers Ireland, Limited (“Strategic Ireland”). Certain employees of Strategic Ireland may from time to time provide certain research services for Strategic Advisers, which Strategic Advisers may use for its customers.

Strategic Ireland is not registered as an investment adviser under the Advisers Act and is deemed to be a “Participating Affiliate” of Strategic Advisers (as this term has been used by the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission’s (“SEC”) Division of Investment Management in various no-action letters granting relief from the Advisers Act’s registration requirement for certain affiliates of registered investment advisers). Strategic Advisers deems Strategic Ireland and each of the Strategic Ireland associated employees as “associated persons” of Strategic Advisers within the meaning of Section 202(a)(17) of the Advisers Act. Strategic Ireland associated employees and Strategic Ireland, through such employees, may contribute to Strategic Advisers’ research process and may have access to information concerning securities that are being selected for clients prior to the effective implementation of such selections. As a participating affiliate of Strategic Advisers, Strategic Ireland has agreed to submit itself to the jurisdiction of United States courts for actions arising under United States securities laws in connection with investment advisory activities conducted for Strategic Advisers' customers. Strategic Advisers maintains a list of Strategic Ireland associated employees whom Strategic Ireland has deemed "associated persons," and Strategic Advisers will make this list available to its current U.S. clients upon request.

CODE OF ETHICS, PARTICIPATION OR INTEREST IN CLIENT TRANSACTIONS AND PERSONAL TRADING

Strategic Advisers has adopted a Code of Ethics for Personal Trading (the "Code of Ethics"). The Code of Ethics applies to all officers, directors, employees, and other supervised persons of Strategic Advisers and requires that they place the interests of Strategic Advisers' clients above their own. The Code of Ethics establishes securities transaction requirements for all covered employees and their covered persons, including their spouses. More specifically, the Code of Ethics contains provisions requiring the following:

- (i) Standards of general business conduct reflecting the investment advisers' fiduciary obligations
- (ii) Compliance with applicable federal securities laws
- (iii) Employees and their covered persons to move their covered accounts to FBS unless an exception has been granted
- (iv) Reporting and review of personal securities transactions and holdings for persons with access to certain nonpublic information
- (v) Prohibition of purchasing of securities in initial public offerings unless an exception has been approved
- (vi) Reporting of Code of Ethics violations
- (vii) Distribution of the Code of Ethics to all supervised persons, documented through acknowledgments of receipt

Core features of the Code of Ethics generally apply to all Fidelity employees. The Code of Ethics also imposes additional restrictions and reporting obligations on certain advisory personnel, research analysts, and portfolio managers. Such restrictions and reporting obligations include (i) the preclearing of transactions in covered securities, (ii) a prohibition on investments in limited offerings without prior approval, (iii) the reporting of transactions in covered securities on a quarterly basis, (iv) the reporting of accounts and holdings of covered securities on an annual basis, and (v) the disgorgement of profits from short-term transactions unless an exception has been approved. Violation of the Code of Ethics requirements can also result in the imposition of remedial action. The Code of Ethics will generally be supplemented by other relevant Fidelity policies, including the Policy on Inside Information, Rules for Broker-Dealer Employees, and other written policies and procedures adopted by Fidelity and Strategic Advisers. A copy of the Code of Ethics will be provided upon request.

From time to time, Strategic Advisers and its related persons purchase or sell securities for themselves and also recommend those securities to clients. The potential conflicts of interest involved in such activities are contemplated in the Code of Ethics and other relevant Fidelity policies. In particular, the Code of Ethics and other Fidelity policies are designed to make it clear to Fidelity personnel that they should never place their personal interests ahead of Fidelity's clients in an attempt to benefit themselves or another party. The Code of Ethics and other Fidelity policies impose sanctions if these requirements are violated.

From time to time, in connection with our business, certain supervised persons obtain material nonpublic information that is usually not available to other investors or the general public. In compliance with applicable laws, Strategic Advisers has adopted a comprehensive set of policies and procedures that prohibit the use of material nonpublic information by investment professionals or any other employees.

In addition, Fidelity has implemented a Business Entertainment and Workplace Gifts policy intended to set standards for business entertainment and gifts, to help employees make sound decisions with respect to these activities, and to ensure that the interests of Strategic Advisers' clients come first. Similarly, to ensure compliance with applicable "pay to play" laws, Fidelity has adopted a Political Contributions and Activities policy that requires all employees to preclear any political contributions and activities.

BROKERAGE PRACTICES

Transactions in Program Accounts

Strategic Advisers has a duty to seek best execution for transactions in client accounts. In determining a broker-dealer's ability for a transaction, Strategic Advisers or its affiliates evaluate a variety of criteria and use good-faith judgment; such criteria include the broker-dealer's execution capabilities, reputation, and access to the markets for the securities being traded. Other possibly relevant factors Strategic Advisers or its affiliates consider in the context of a trade include but are not limited to the following: price; costs; the size, nature, and type of the order; speed of execution; and financial condition and reputation of a broker-dealer. Strategic Advisers or its affiliates can choose to place trades for Program Accounts with affiliated or unaffiliated registered broker-dealers and to execute an order using electronic channels, including Fidelity order routing systems or broker-dealer sponsored algorithms, or by verbally working an order with a broker-dealer. To obtain best execution for a transaction, Strategic Advisers can select a broker-dealer that does not necessarily charge the lowest available commission rate; however, Strategic Advisers believes that its order routing policies, taking into consideration the factors stated above, are designed to result in transaction processing that is favorable to Program clients. Strategic Advisers regularly monitors the quality of the execution of transactions allocated to affiliated and unaffiliated broker-dealers. The Programs' advisory fee includes the cost of any commissions associated with Program Account transactions executed through broker-dealers affiliated with Strategic Advisers but does not include the cost of commissions associated with transactions executed through unaffiliated broker-dealers, provided, however, that Strategic Advisers or its affiliates can voluntarily assume the cost of commissions for Program Account transactions that are executed through unaffiliated broker-dealers, in which case clients will not be charged commissions for such transactions. As security transactions for Program Accounts will be limited to the sale of transferred securities, it is anticipated that Strategic Advisers will place all transactions for the sale of exchange-traded products ("ETPs") and individual securities imported into Program Accounts with its affiliate NFS, through FCM.

Strategic Advisers places ETP and individual security transactions for execution with NFS, through FCM, when Strategic Advisers reasonably believes that the quality of the execution of the transaction is comparable to what could be obtained through other qualified broker-dealers. NFS transmits orders received for execution through FCM to various exchanges or market centers based on a number of factors. These include the size of the order, trading characteristics of the security, favorable execution prices (including the opportunity for price improvement), access to reliable market data, availability of efficient automated transaction processing, and execution costs. Some market centers or broker-dealers execute orders at prices superior to the publicly quoted market prices. Where Strategic Advisers directs the market center to which an order is routed, FBS or NFS will route the order to such market center in accordance with Strategic Advisers' instructions without regard to its general order routing practices.

With respect to investments made by Fidelity mutual funds and ETPs, Strategic Advisers and its affiliates can allocate brokerage transactions to unaffiliated broker-dealers that have entered into commission recapture arrangements with Strategic Advisers or its affiliates under which the broker-dealer, using predetermined methodology, rebates a portion of the compensation paid by the fund to offset that fund's expenses, which can be paid to Strategic Advisers or its affiliates. Not all broker-dealers with whom Strategic Advisers trades have agreed to participate in brokerage commission recapture. Strategic Advisers expects that broker-dealers from whom Strategic Advisers or its affiliates purchase research products and services with "hard dollars" are unlikely to participate in commission recapture.

Please see the FPWA Program Fundamentals for further information about Program fees, brokerage commissions, and additional fees for transactions in a Program Account.

Trade Aggregation and Allocation

Strategic Advisers' policy is to treat each of its clients' accounts in a fair and equitable manner when allocating orders for the purchase and sale of securities. While Strategic Advisers is under no obligation to aggregate orders for Program Accounts, in general, Strategic Advisers will choose to aggregate trades of individual securities for Program Accounts and/or aggregate Program Account trades with trades for other client accounts when, in Strategic Advisers' judgment, aggregation is in the best interest of all clients involved and it is operationally feasible to do so. Orders are aggregated to facilitate seeking best execution, to negotiate more favorable commission rates, or to allocate equitably among clients the effects of any market fluctuations that might have otherwise occurred had these orders been placed independently. The transactions are averaged as to price and allocated as to amount according to the purchase and sale orders actually placed for each client account. Strategic Advisers has adopted trade allocation policies for Program Accounts and/or funds of funds managed by Strategic Advisers designed to achieve fairness and not to purposefully disadvantage comparable client accounts over time when allocating purchases and sales.

Cross Trades

To the extent permitted by law and applicable policies and procedures, Strategic Advisers can effect "agency cross trades" for Program Accounts. Agency cross trades are trades in which Strategic Advisers, or any person controlling, controlled by, or under common control with Strategic Advisers, acts as both investment adviser and broker for a client, and as broker for the party or parties on the other side of the trade. Agency cross trades will be executed in accordance with Section 206(3) of the Advisers Act, requiring written consent, confirmations of transactions, annual reporting, and compliance procedures. In addition, to the extent permitted by law and applicable policies and procedures, Strategic Advisers can effect "advisor cross trades" for Program Accounts when Strategic Advisers believes that such trades are in the best interest of all clients involved. Advisor cross trades are trades in which Strategic Advisers, or an affiliate, acts as investment adviser to both clients involved in the trade. Advisor cross trades will be done through a book-entry transfer, either directly or through a broker-dealer (including FBS or NFS), based on one or more third-party pricing services and/or actual market bids.

Account Transaction Information

When Strategic Advisers trades in a Program Account, clients will receive a confirmation of such transaction from NFS, except with respect to automatic investments, automatic withdrawals, dividend reinvestments, and transactions that involve the core Fidelity money market fund, where a client's account statement serves in lieu of a confirmation. Clients will receive monthly statements from NFS that will provide holdings and transaction information, including trades, contributions, withdrawals, advisory fees, and estimated gain/loss and tax basis information. Monthly statements and confirmations are also available online at Fidelity.com and by enrolling in the electronic delivery program. Clients should carefully review all statements and other communications received from FBS and NFS. Clients will also receive a prospectus for any new mutual fund not previously held. The routing details of a particular order will be provided upon request, and an explanation of order routing practices will be provided on an annual basis. In addition, from time to time, Fidelity will provide aggregated trade execution data to customers and prospective customers.

Strategic Advisers does not have a soft dollar program.

Client-Directed Brokerage Activities

Program Accounts are not available for brokerage activities outside of the activities directed by Strategic Advisers, including but not limited to margin trading or trading of securities by you or any of your designated agents.

REVIEW OF ACCOUNTS

Ongoing Review and Adjustments of Program Accounts

Strategic Advisers monitors Program Accounts and their investments periodically. Market conditions and/or an upturn or downturn in a particular security will at times cause a “drift” in your investment portfolio away from the long-term risk level associated with the Program Account. Strategic Advisers can choose to rebalance a Program Account to bring it back in line with your selected asset allocation strategy. The number of times your Program Account is rebalanced will vary based on economic and market conditions, as well as changes in the attractiveness or appropriateness of specific funds or managers. Strategic Advisers can also modify the funds held in a Program Account to accommodate new fund allocations and fund closures. As described earlier in this brochure, we will invest all Program Account assets in certain Flex Funds.

In managing Program Accounts, Strategic Advisers could decide to adjust allocations for a number of reasons, including but not limited to the following:

- The weighting of a particular asset class, sector, or individual security that Strategic Advisers believes has too much or too little representation in a Program Account
- Changes in the fundamental attractiveness or appropriateness of a particular mutual fund
- Changes in a client’s profile information and any consequent changes to an associated investment strategy
- Deposits/withdrawals of cash or securities into/from a Program Account
- Accommodating mutual fund closures or limitations

Strategic Advisers’ investment management team will make decisions regarding reallocations within the portfolio in which the Program Account is invested. These decisions are based on the investment management team’s assessment of market and economic conditions and potential investment opportunities. Strategic Advisers will generally trade a Program Account when the portfolio to which it is aligned is changed. In determining whether a Program Account requires trading on a given day, Strategic Advisers relies on the prior night’s closing values of the funds held in a Program Account. In general, Strategic Advisers does not attempt to conduct intraday account evaluations, and Strategic Advisers does not generally attempt to time intraday price fluctuations in its decisions to buy or sell securities.

In certain instances, a “do-not-trade” restriction will be placed on a Program Account for reasons including but not limited to processing a trade correction, client request, or to comply with a court order. For the period when a do-not-trade restriction is on a Program Account, Strategic Advisers will suspend management of the Program Account and will not monitor the Program Account for potential purchases and sales of securities. Additionally, in certain instances, deposits to a Program Account will not be invested and withdrawal requests will not be processed during a do-not-trade period. Strategic Advisers is not held responsible for any market loss experienced as a result of a do-not-trade restriction.

You also have access to information that details the performance of your Program Account and summarizes the market activity during the period. Industry standards are applied when calculating performance information.

CLIENT REFERRALS AND OTHER COMPENSATION

Strategic Advisers and its affiliates are compensated for providing services, including investment management, distribution, transfer agency, servicing, and custodial services, to certain Fidelity and non-Fidelity mutual funds, ETPs, and other investments. This includes FMRCo and its affiliates as the investment adviser for the Fidelity funds; FDC as the underwriter of the Fidelity funds; and Fidelity Investments Institutional Operations Company, Inc. ("FIIOC"), as transfer agent for the Fidelity funds, servicing agent for non-Fidelity funds, and recordkeeper of certain workplace savings plans. Strategic Advisers' affiliates also receive compensation and other benefits in connection with portfolio transactions effected on behalf of the Fidelity and non-Fidelity mutual funds, ETPs, and other investments. FMRCo and its affiliates also obtain brokerage or research services, consistent with Section 28(e) of the Exchange Act, from broker-dealers in connection with the execution of the Fidelity funds' portfolio security transactions.

FBS and NFS receive compensation for executing portfolio transactions and providing, among other things, clearance, settlement, custodial, and other services to Fidelity and non-Fidelity mutual funds, ETPs, and other investments, and NFS provides securities lending agent services to certain Fidelity funds for which it receives compensation. FBS, NFS, and FIIOC also offer Fidelity's mutual fund supermarket, FundsNetwork®, and provide shareholder and other services to participating mutual funds for which FBS, NFS, and FIIOC receive compensation. Neither FBS nor NFS receives any compensation in connection with directing equity trades for Program Accounts to market makers for execution. We can execute trades through alternative trading systems or national securities exchanges, including ones in which a Fidelity affiliate has an ownership interest, such as The Members Exchange, a registered national securities exchange. Any decision to execute a trade through an alternative trading system or exchange in which a Fidelity affiliate has an interest would be made in accordance with applicable law, including best execution obligations. For trades placed on certain national securities exchanges, not limited to ones in which a Fidelity affiliate has an ownership interest, Fidelity could receive exchange rebates from such trades for Program Accounts, and these rebates will be subject to the credit amount (as described below) and will be allocated, pro rata based on assets, among Program Accounts.

The compensation described above that is retained by Strategic Advisers or its affiliates as a result of investments by Program Accounts in Fidelity and non-Fidelity funds and ETPs will be included in a credit amount, which can reduce the Programs' advisory fee. However, to the extent that Strategic Advisers or its affiliates, including FBS, NFS, or FIIOC, retain compensation that is neither a direct result of, nor directly derived from, investments by the Program Accounts, such compensation is not included in the credit amount, does not reduce the advisory fee, and will be retained by Strategic Advisers or its affiliates. Receipt of compensation in addition to the advisory fee creates a financial incentive for FPWA and its affiliates to select investments that will increase such compensation. Strategic Advisers seeks to address this financial conflict of interest through the application of a credit amount, which will reduce the advisory fee, as applicable, and through personnel compensation arrangements (including those of Strategic Advisers' investment professionals and the Fidelity representatives) that are not differentiated based on the investments or share classes selected for Program Accounts. Strategic Advisers and its affiliates have also implemented controls reasonably designed to prevent the receipt of compensation from affecting the nature of the advice provided to Program Accounts. As described herein, Program Account assets will be invested in certain Flex Funds. The Flex Funds are available only to certain fee-based accounts offered by Fidelity, and compensation for management and expenses of Flex Funds is paid out of the fees charged by Fidelity fee-based accounts that include Flex Funds as underlying investments, including the Programs. FMRCo is compensated for its services out of such advisory fees. FMRCo receives no fee from the Flex Funds for handling the business affairs of the funds and pays the expenses of each fund, with limited exceptions.

See the FPWA Program Fundamentals included in your Program materials for additional information.

Client referrals are provided by affiliated entities, including FBS or other affiliates, pursuant to referral agreements where applicable. As noted in the FPWA Program Fundamentals under "Information about Representative Compensation,” some Fidelity representatives receive variable compensation or an annual bonus in addition to their base pay for distributing and supporting Program Accounts.

CUSTODY

Strategic Advisers does not maintain custody for the Programs’ clients’ assets in connection with the discretionary investment management services it provides to Program Accounts. To participate in either Program, clients must establish a Program Account with FBS, a registered broker-dealer and an affiliate of Strategic Advisers. NFS, an affiliate of FBS, FPWA, and Strategic Advisers, has custody of your assets and will perform certain Program Account services, including the implementation of trading instructions, as well as custodial and related services. Certain personnel of FPWA, Strategic Advisers, FBS, and NFS share premises and have common supervision. You should carefully review all statements and other communications received from FBS and NFS.

INVESTMENT DISCRETION

Strategic Advisers’ portfolio management services for Program Accounts include the discretionary authority to determine which securities to purchase or sell, the total amount of such purchases and sales, and the brokers or dealers through which transactions are effected in Program Accounts. Such discretionary authority is subject to certain limits, including each of the Program’s investment objectives and policies, regulatory constraints, and those investment restrictions we agree to impose based on a client’s request, in accordance with applicable laws.

VOTING CLIENT SECURITIES

Strategic Advisers does not acquire authority for, or exercise, proxy voting on a client’s behalf in connection with managing Program Accounts. Unless you direct us otherwise, you will receive proxy materials directly from the funds or NFS. Strategic Advisers will not advise you on the voting of proxies. You must exercise any proxy voting directly.

FINANCIAL INFORMATION

Clients of the Programs do not pay Strategic Advisers for the services it provides under the Programs. Strategic Advisers does not solicit prepayment of client fees.
