This applies both in the static sense of the overall standing risk-return profile that has been agreed with the client (this is not solely a quantitative function of the prospectus limits but is also influenced by what has been agreed orally and in writing on a qualitative basis) and in the dynamic sense such as cash inflows and outflows that are different for any one portfolio at any one particular time. The firm maintains and adheres to the investment parameters and compliance requirements for each account.

For certain of its accounts, Philip von Gontard, CFA, LLC has authority to determine the following without obtaining specific Client consent:
