Confidential Information/Insider Trading

Whenever we believe that an employee has received confidential information, our Chief Compliance Officer abides by the following procedures:

- The security is placed on a restricted list if it is determined that confidential information was received, until such time as that information is made public.
- The Chief Compliance Officer reviews trading activity in our client's account.
- The Chief Compliance Officer reviews trading activity in employees' personal accounts.
- If the Chief Compliance Officer has reason to believe that any employee has received and traded on confidential information or has given such information to another person, the Chief Compliance Officer will conduct an investigation, and, if appropriate, can impose sanctions.

Restrictions on Trading for Our Client's Portfolio

- The Chief Compliance Officer reviews the trades in our client's account on a periodic basis for compliance with our client's investment objectives. If the Chief Compliance Officer finds that certain transactions violate our client's investment objectives, he will instruct that they be unwound or will provide other appropriate measures.
