ITEM 4 ADVISORY BUSINESS

GENERAL INFORMATION

Fortunatus Investments, LLC (Fortunatus) is an SEC-registered investment advisor with its principal place of business located in Brighton, MI. Fortunatus began conducting business as a registered investment advisor in 2014. Fortunatus is owned by EWM Capital, LLC, a Michigan Limited Liability Company. EWM Capital, LLC is managed by a Board of Managers consisting of Albert P. Herzog III, Michael Chechel Jr., Gregory Barber, Adam Kulesza and Michael Lay.

Fortunatus offers model asset allocation portfolios to third party investment advisors. Each model portfolio is designed to meet a particular investment goal. It is the responsibility of the investment advisor engaging Fortunatus to determine each of its end-user client's financial goals and objectives and to determine which model portfolio is best suited to those needs.

We neither provide nor offer investment advice directly to any retail client. Therefore, unless the context implies otherwise, "client" or "advisor-client" as used throughout this Brochure will refer to the investment advisers that directly engage us to receive our model portfolios, whereas "end-user client" will generally refer to the clients of any advisor that engages us and is enrolled by such advisor in one or more of our model portfolios.

FORTUNATUS PROTACTICAL™ PORTFOLIOS

Our process, trademarked 'Protactical', utilizes tactical asset allocation and research to help third party investment advisors take an active role in client portfolio management. Based on portfolio objectives, our proactive approach pursues opportunities within each asset class to further exploit situations in which the risk for executing the strategy is rewarded. After the appropriate risk/reward opportunities are identified, fundamental research is used to determine the investments that are best positioned to capitalize on these opportunities. Fortunatus utilizes individual equities, mutual funds, ETFs, ETNs and, from time to time, UITs or fixed income instruments within our model portfolios. Relative strength and trend-following research is utilized to indicate entry and exit points, inter-quarter tactical moves and downside protection strategies.

For each of our model portfolios, the Fortunatus Investment Policy Committee meets regularly to review global marketplace trends and how to position the portfolios to take advantage of those trends. The ongoing assessment of the portfolios includes performance reviews, a fundamental review of the positions held and relative strength reviews of asset classes and individual sectors. Advisor-clients engaging Fortunatus gain access to our model portfolios and regular communications.

ASSETS

Fortunatus does not directly manage any client portfolio, but rather, offers model asset allocation portfolios to third party investment advisors to assist these advisors in the management of their client accounts; we have no assets under management.

ITEM 5 FEES AND COMPENSATION

FORTUNATUS PROTACTICAL™ PORTFOLIOS

For our ProTactical™ Portfolios, Fortunatus will charge an annual fee to our advisor-clients of up to .50% of an advisor's end-user clients' assets invested through the models as agreed with the advisor-client. Advisor-clients are typically invoiced quarterly or monthly in advance or arrears as agreed in writing.

As our fee is only part of the total fee charged to end-user clients, end-user clients should refer to their advisor's Disclosure Brochure (Form ADV, Part 2A) for detailed information regarding the total management fee charged, the advisor's billing practices, account minimums and/or minimum annual advisory fee requirements established, as applicable. Fortunatus does not control the billing processes of our advisor-clients.

GENERAL INFORMATION

NEGOTIABILITY OF FEES:

In certain circumstances, all fees may be negotiable. In addition, certain affiliates of Fortunatus may receive advisory services at a discounted rate which is not available to advisory clients generally.

TERMINATION:

A "master" advisor-client agreement may be canceled at any time, by either party, for any reason upon receipt of 30 days written notice. End-user agreements may be cancelled as agreed between the end-user client and his/her advisor. As disclosed above, certain fees may be paid in advance of services provided. Upon termination of any account, any prepaid, unearned fees will be promptly refunded. In calculating a client's reimbursement of fees, we will pro rate the reimbursement according to the number of days remaining in the billing period.

FUND FEES AND EXPENSES:

All fees paid to Fortunatus for investment advisory services are separate and distinct from the fees and expenses charged by mutual funds, ETFs and ETNs to their shareholders. In the case of mutual funds, these fees and expenses are described in each fund's prospectus. These fees will generally include a management fee, other fund expenses, and a possible distribution fee. If the fund also imposes sales charges, a client may pay an initial or deferred sales charge.

ADDITIONAL FEES AND EXPENSES:

In addition to Fortunatus' advisory fees, our clients or end-user clients, as appropriate, are also responsible for the fees and expenses charged by custodians and imposed by broker dealers. Such fees may include, but are not limited to, any transaction charges, fees for duplicate statements and transaction confirmations, and fees for electronic data feeds and reports. See section 12 for additional information on Brokerage practices.

ADVISORY FEES IN GENERAL:

Clients should note that similar advisory services may (or may not) be available from other registered (or unregistered) investment advisors for similar or lower fees.

ITEM 6 PERFORMANCE-BASED FEES AND SIDE-BY-SIDE MANAGEMENT

Fortunatus does not charge performance-based fees to any client.

ITEM 7 TYPES OF CLIENTS

Fortunatus offers advisory services to investment advisors registered at either the state or federal level.

We do not currently impose minimum account balance requirements for providing Fortunatus Protactical™ Model Portfolios to third party advisors.

ITEM 8 METHODS OF ANALYSIS, INVESTMENT STRATEGIES AND RISK OF LOSS

METHODS OF ANALYSIS

We use the following methods of analysis in formulating our investment advice and/or managing client assets:

FUNDAMENTAL ANALYSIS

We attempt to measure the intrinsic value of a security by looking at economic and financial factors (including the overall economy, industry conditions, and the financial condition and management of the company itself) to determine if the company is underpriced (indicating it could be a good time to buy) or overpriced (indicating it could be a good time to sell).

Fundamental analysis does not attempt to anticipate market movements. This presents a risk, as the price of a security can move up or down along with the overall market regardless of the economic and financial factors considered in evaluating the stock. Fundamental analysis places importance on the historical performance of a company which creates risk should that company not be able to continue or repeat that performance.

TECHNICAL ANALYSIS.

We analyze past market movements and apply that analysis to the present in an attempt to recognize recurring patterns of investor behavior and potentially predict future price movement. Technical analysis employed by Fortunatus includes trend following and relative strength analysis.

TREND FOLLOWING:

Trend following is a method of analysis that objectively determines whether our client portfolios should have exposure to a rising asset class or attempt to preserve capital during unfavorable market environments.

RELATIVE STRENGTH:

This method of analysis seeks to objectively identify market strength within market segments, investing or holding those positions, while underweighting or avoiding the segments identified as weaker.

Technical analysis does not consider the underlying financial condition of a company. This presents a risk in that, regardless of market trends or relative strength measured, a poorly managed or financially unsound company will still underperform. Though technical analysis is mathematically driven, there is the risk that the trend proves fleeting leading to whipsaw risk. This is a change in a securities trend, triggering buy or sell action, followed quickly by another change in the opposite direction. It is impactful to account performance should our trends not trigger exit or re-entry.

MUTUAL FUND AND/OR ETF ANALYSIS

We look at the experience and track record of the manager of the mutual fund or ETF in an attempt to determine if that manager has demonstrated an ability to invest over a period of time and in different economic conditions. We look at the underlying assets in a mutual fund or ETF in an attempt to determine if there is significant overlap in the underlying investments held in the client's portfolio. We also monitor the funds or ETFs in an attempt to determine if they are continuing to follow their stated investment strategy.

A risk of mutual fund and/or ETF analysis is that, as in all securities investments, past performance does not guarantee future results. A manager who has been successful may not be able to replicate that success in the future. We do not control the underlying investments in a fund or ETF. Managers of different funds held by the client, in some cases, hold the same security. This increases the risk to the client if that security were to fall in value. There is also a risk that a manager deviates from the stated investment mandate or strategy of the fund or ETF, which could make the fund or ETF less suitable of the client's portfolio.

RISKS FOR ALL FORMS OF ANALYSIS

Our securities analysis methods rely on the assumption that the companies whose securities we purchase and sell, the rating agencies that review these securities, and other publicly available sources of information about these securities, are providing accurate and unbiased data. While we are alert to indications that data is incorrect, there is always a risk that our analysis be compromised by inaccurate or misleading information.

INVESTMENT STRATEGIES

Fortunatus models are developed by an Investment Policy Committee comprised of the EWM Capital, LLC Board of Managers, the firm's Chief Investment Officer and, from time to time, independent third party consultants. We use the following strategy(ies) in managing client accounts:

ASSET ALLOCATION.

The primary investment strategy used by Fortunatus is based on diversification of the model assets among a variety of investment vehicles and asset classes, popularly termed "Asset Allocation." The focus of the Fortunatus' models then is primarily to achieve a diversified portfolio of investment assets with risk and return characteristics similar to those desired by Fortunatus' clients. This strategy includes, as appropriate, evaluation of the current percentage allocation of assets among or within various broad categories with recommendations to reposition assets to work toward the client's desired results.

Fortunatus' Investment Policy Committee meets regularly to evaluate new and reevaluate existing portfolio positions and opportunities. During these meetings Fortunatus will deliberate issues regarding the proper allocation of model portfolios based on the current economic conditions.

LONG-TERM PURCHASES.

Fortunatus implements within its models' certain securities with the idea that they be held in a client's account for a year or longer. Typically, we employ this strategy when:

- Fortunatus believes the securities to be currently undervalued; and/or
- Fortunatus desires to maintain exposure to a particular asset class over time, regardless of the current projection for this class.

A risk in a long-term purchase strategy is that by holding the security for this length of time, we may not take advantages of short-term gains that could be profitable to a client. Moreover, if our predictions are incorrect, a security may decline sharply in value before we make the decision to sell.

SHORT-TERM PURCHASES.

When utilizing this strategy, we include in models certain securities with the intention of removing them from portfolio allocation within a relatively short time (typically a year or less). We do this in an attempt to take advantage of conditions that we believe will soon result in a price swing in the securities we purchase.

A short-term purchase strategy poses risks should the anticipated price swing not materialize; we are then left with the option of having a long-term investment in a security that was designed to be a short-term purchase, or potentially taking a loss. In addition, this strategy involves more frequent trading than does a longer-term strategy and will result in increased brokerage and other transaction-related costs, as well as less favorable tax treatment of short-term capital gains.

RISK OF LOSS.

There are no guarantees when investing in securities of any kind. Anyone can lose money; in some cases, more than you originally invested, even the most experienced investor. We ask that you, as a Registered Investment Advisor evaluating the use of Fortunatus Investments for your clients, understand our portfolio risk structures and strategy.

ITEM 9 DISCIPLINARY INFORMATION

We are required to disclose any legal or disciplinary events that are material to a client's or prospective client's evaluation of our advisory business or the integrity of our management.

Our firm and our management personnel have no reportable disciplinary events to disclose.

ITEM 10 OTHER FINANCIAL INDUSTRY ACTIVITIES AND AFFILIATIONS

The principal executive officers and some other employees of Fortunatus also separately provide brokerage and related investment services as registered representatives of Private Client Services, LLC (PCS) Member FINRA/SIPC. PCS is not affiliated with Fortunatus through common ownership or control, however, under applicable regulations, it is required to supervise certain activities of their registered persons who may separately be associated with Fortunatus.

Fortunatus does not have any associated persons that are involved with the futures commission, commodity pool operators, commodity trading advisors or are associated persons of those entities.

Investment advisor representatives of Fortunatus may provide investment advisory and related services separate from those offered through Fortunatus through other firms with which such persons are associated and in so doing, may recommend the use of other investment advisors. Other firms include affiliated and, from time to time, unaffiliated entities.

Fortunatus is related, through common ownership and control to Executive Wealth Management, LLC (EWM) a registered investment advisor and Executive Financial Planning, Inc a licensed insurance agency. EWM provides portfolio management services to clients through a wrap fee program that utilizes the Fortunatus Protactical™ model portfolios.

Fortunatus is related through common control to EWM Tax Solutions, LLC (herein after "EWMTS"). This entity prepares and files federal income tax returns, and applicable tax returns for the state and local taxing authorities in which individuals declare residency. Though not owned by EWM Capital, LLC, certain Fortunatus officers act in a separate capacity for this entity. Use of the EWMTS requires separate engagement with this company. Fees are based on the complexity of the return.

Fortunatus is related to EWM Legal Services, LLC (doing business as "EWM Legal Solutions", hereinafter "EWMLS"). Though not owned by EWM Capital, LLC, the indirect owners of EWM Capital, LLC are also primary owners of EWMLS, and the entity is under common control. This entity provides legal services for estate preparation, wills, trusts and other services which are often needed as a part of a larger financial picture. Certain EWM officers, Private Wealth Advisors, and employees act in a separate capacity for this entity. Use of EWMLS requires separate engagement with this company. The fee is based on the complexity of the arrangement.

Certain associated persons of Fortunatus are also insurance agents or brokers for one or more insurance companies that are not affiliated with Fortunatus. The independent insurance activities of these associated persons will typically be provided through Executive Financial Planning, Inc. a licensed insurance agency that is related to Fortunatus through common ownership and control. Certain principal executive officers of Fortunatus are also officers of Executive Financial Planning, Inc. Fortunatus currently shares its principal office and primary place of business with EWM and Executive Financial Planning, Inc.

Officers and employees of Fortunatus, in their separate capacities as registered representatives and/or insurance agents or brokers, are able to effect securities transactions and/or purchase insurance and insurance-related investment products, including interests in limited partnerships, real estate investment trusts (REITs), and other securities, for which they will receive separate, yet customary compensation. Neither Fortunatus nor any related person of Fortunatus serves as General Partner to or has any ownership stake in any limited partnership recommended to clients or otherwise utilized in the Fortunatus Protactical™ model portfolios. No affiliated person of Fortunatus receives commission or other transaction-based compensation in connection with trades placed in any portfolio model managed by Fortunatus.

Fortunatus does not make any recommendation or referral of these affiliated services, or any similar unaffiliated services. While the officers, directors and employees of Fortunatus endeavor at all times to put the interests of clients first as part of our fiduciary duty, clients should be aware that the receipt of additional compensation for outside activities itself creates an inherent conflict of interest, which may unknowingly affect the judgment of these individuals when making recommendations. However, our firm maintains policies and procedures aimed at addressing these conflicts as outlined in Item 11 below.

ITEM 11 CODE OF ETHICS, PARTICIPATION OR INTEREST IN CLIENT TRANSACTIONS AND PERSONAL TRADING

Our firm has adopted a Code of Ethics which sets forth high ethical standards of business conduct that we require of our employees, including compliance with applicable federal securities laws. Fortunatus and our personnel owe a duty of loyalty, fairness and good faith towards our clients, and have an obligation to adhere not only to the specific provisions of the Code of Ethics but to the general principles that guide the Code.

Our Code of Ethics includes policies and procedures for the review of quarterly securities transactions reports as well as initial and annual securities holdings reports that must be submitted by the firm's access persons. Among other things, our Code of Ethics also requires the prior approval of any acquisition of securities in a limited offering (e.g., private placement) or an initial public offering. Our code also provides for oversight, enforcement and recordkeeping provisions.

Fortunatus' Code of Ethics further includes the firm's policy prohibiting the use of material non-public information. While we do not believe that we have any particular access to non-public information, all employees are reminded that such information may not be used in a personal or professional capacity.

A copy of our Code of Ethics is available to our advisory clients and prospective clients. You may request a copy by email sent to Kyrstin.ritsema@fortunatusinv.com, or by calling us at 810-229-6446.

Our Code of Ethics is designed to assure that the personal securities transactions, activities and interests of our employees will not interfere with (i) making decisions in the best interest of advisory clients and (ii) implementing such decisions while, at the same time, allowing employees to invest for their own accounts. Our firm and/or individuals associated with our firm may buy or sell for their personal accounts securities identical to or different from those recommended to our clients. In addition, any related person(s) may have an interest or position in a certain security(ies) which may also be recommended to a client.

It is the expressed policy of our firm that no person employed by us may purchase or sell any security prior to a transaction(s) being implemented for an advisory account, thereby preventing such employee(s) from benefiting from transactions placed on behalf of advisory accounts.

As these situations present actual or potential conflicts of interest to our clients, we have established the following policies and procedures for implementing our firm's Code of Ethics, to ensure our firm complies with its regulatory obligations and provides our clients and potential clients with full and fair disclosure of such conflicts of interest:

- No principal or employee of our firm may put his or her own interest above the interest of an advisory client.
- No principal or employee of our firm may buy or sell securities for their personal portfolio(s) where their decision is a result of information received as a result of his or her employment unless the information is also available to the investing public.
- It is the expressed policy of our firm that no person employed by us may purchase or sell any security prior to a transaction(s) being implemented for an advisory account. This prevents such employees from benefiting from transactions placed on behalf of advisory accounts.
- Our firm requires prior approval for any IPO or private placement investments by related persons of the firm.
- We maintain a list of all reportable securities holdings for our firm and anyone associated with this advisory practice that has access to advisory recommendations (access person). These holdings are reviewed on a regular basis by our firm's Chief Compliance Officer or his/her designee.
- All our principals and employees must act in accordance with all applicable Federal and State regulations governing registered investment advisory practices.
- We require delivery and acknowledgement of the Code of Ethics by each supervised person of our firm.

We have established policies requiring the reporting of Code of Ethics violations to our senior management. Any individual who violates any of the above restrictions may be subject to disciplinary action up to and including termination.

As disclosed in Item 10 of this Brochure, related persons of our firm are separately registered as securities representatives of a broker-dealer, investment advisor representatives of another registered investment advisor, and/or licensed as an insurance agent/broker of various insurance companies. Please refer to the preceding section for a detailed explanation of these relationships and important conflict of interest disclosures.

Fortunatus and individuals associated with our firm are prohibited from engaging in principal or agency cross transactions. (A principal transaction occurs when our firm or individuals associated with our firm may buy securities for the firm or for themselves from our advisory clients; or sell securities owned by the firm or the individual(s) to our advisory clients. An agency cross transaction occurs where our firm acts as an investment advisor in relation to a transaction in which any person controlled by or under common control with our firm, acts as broker for both the advisory client and for another person on the other side of the transaction).

ITEM 12 BROKERAGE PRACTICES

FORTUNATUS PROTACTICAL™ PORTFOLIOS

Fortunatus does not enter trades on behalf of any advisor-client. Instead, Fortunatus provides its Protactical™ Model Portfolios and regular updates to third party investment advisors that then place trades based on the appropriate model(s) in end-user client accounts. Advisor-clients are solely responsible for selecting the broker dealer with which to enter trades in end-user client accounts and for evaluating the execution performance of those brokers. Due to the nature of its business, therefore, Fortunatus does not systematically evaluate broker dealers, enter or block trades or negotiate commissions with broker dealers. As appropriate and upon request, Fortunatus may recommend certain broker dealers and custodians to advisor-clients. Any recommended broker must be independently evaluated by advisor-clients. Factors considered by Fortunatus when making such recommendations are the broker's ability to provide professional services, compatibility of the broker's platform with the delivery of the Protactical™ Portfolio models, Fortunatus' experience with the broker, the broker's reputation, and the broker's financial strength, among other factors. End-user clients should review its advisor's Form ADV, Part 2A for detailed information regarding its brokerage recommendations, practices and policies regarding brokerage practices.

ITEM 13 REVIEW OF ACCOUNTS

FORTUNATUS PROTACTICAL™ PORTFOLIOS

The Fortunatus Investment Policy Committee meets regularly to review global marketplace trends and how to position the portfolios to take advantage of those trends for each of our model portfolios. The ongoing assessment of the portfolios includes performance reviews, a fundamental review of the positions held, and relative strength reviews of asset classes and individual sectors.

In addition to the monthly statements and confirmations of transactions that end-user clients receive from their custodian, Fortunatus will provide our advisor-clients with written monthly reports summarizing the performance of the Protactical™ models.

ITEM 14 CLIENT REFERRALS AND OTHER COMPENSATION

Except as already described in this Brochure, neither our firm nor any of our related persons receives compensation or any other economic benefit from a third party in connection with the provision of investment advice to our clients.

Fortunatus does not have any arrangements under which it compensates any person, whether a third party or affiliate, directly or indirectly, for client referrals. Though not specifically for client referrals, Fortunatus is party to an arrangement with EWM to offer marketing reimbursement for costs associated with marketing the Fortunatus Separately Managed Account Program sponsored by EWM. This indirectly benefits Fortunatus as the marketing program is in direct relation to assets with EWM that are managed through the Fortunatus Model Portfolios. This potential conflict of interest is mitigated through EWM's internal processes.

ITEM 15 CUSTODY

We do not have actual or constructive custody of any client's funds or other assets in connection with the provision of advisory services.

ITEM 16 INVESTMENT DISCRETION

FORTUNATUS PROTACTICAL™ PORTFOLIOS

Fortunatus does not accept investment discretion with respect to, or otherwise enter trades in any end-user-client account. Instead, Fortunatus provides its Protactical™ Portfolios and regular updates to third party investment advisors that then place trades based on the appropriate model(s) in end-user client accounts that have directly engaged those advisors.

ITEM 17 VOTING CLIENT SECURITIES

As a matter of firm policy, we do not vote proxies on behalf of end-user-clients. Therefore, although our firm may provide investment advisory services relative to end user-client investment assets, advisor-clients maintain exclusive responsibility for: (1) directing the manner in which proxies solicited by issuers of securities beneficially owned by the end user-client shall be voted, and (2) making all elections relative to any mergers, acquisitions, tender offers, bankruptcy proceedings or other type events pertaining to the client's investment assets. Advisor-clients are responsible for instructing each custodian of the assets to forward to the advisor-client (or the end-user client depending on the advisor-client's proxy voting policies) copies of all proxies and shareholder communications relating to the client's investment assets.

ITEM 18 FINANCIAL INFORMATION

Fortunatus has no additional financial circumstances to report.

Under no circumstances do we require or solicit payment of fees in excess of $1,200 per client more than six months in advance of services rendered. Therefore, we are not required to include a financial statement.

Fortunatus has not been the subject of a bankruptcy petition at any time during the past ten years.
