B. Description of Advisory Services (including any specializations)

We offer advisory and investment services (as described in section C below) to high net worth individuals, families, and institutions, including tax-exempt entities, retirement plans and institutions. Advisory and investment services to individuals and families may include limited scope personal financial planning and continuous investment advice and portfolio management. Advisory and investment services to institutions may include fiduciary services related to qualified retirement plans, investment consulting and discretionary portfolio management. td

a. Portfolio Management Services

1. Discretionary and Non-Discretionary Investment Management Services for Individuals and Families

We provide continuous portfolio management services to individual clients based on their specific investment objectives. Through in-person meetings in which portfolio and investment goals and objectives are determined, a set of specific investment criteria and how the portfolio is managed are agreed upon. Client portfolios can be managed on both a discretionary or non-discretionary basis. This is determined solely by the client. Account supervision is guided by the client's stated objectives (i.e., maximum capital appreciation, growth, income, growth and income, etc.). This service is not available to employee participants to a qualified retirement plan where we serve as the ERISA fiduciary investment advisor or investment manager.

The core of our portfolio construction and management process is based on the tenants of Modern Portfolio Theory. The premise is to construct a portfolio that balances risks and expected return based on the client's investment criteria and over the client specified investment horizon. A generic portfolio is first constructed using benchmark indexes as proxies for asset and sub-asset classes. This generic portfolio offers a general framework for asset allocation and a guide for implementation. Open-end mutual funds and exchange traded vehicles (ETVs), to include exchange traded funds (ETFs) and exchange traded notes (ETNs) are used as the basic building blocks in portfolio implementation and management. Individual equity securities are used upon a client's request and specification. We use a core-satellite investment allocation approach where the core component is made up of primarily index tracking equity investments and actively managed bond strategies. The satellite component is made up of investments in alternative asset and sub-asset classes, sector investments, and alternative investment strategies. We rely on diversification as the primary method to control portfolio downside risk. Additionally, we may use certain alternative strategies to dampen volatility and to control downside risk. Finally, we also rely on tactical asset allocation to over or under weight asset and sub-asset classes in an attempt to lower portfolio volatility or to enhance expected return. Our tactical asset allocation decisions stem from our global macro view which represents a top down process in influencing our core and satellite asset allocation decisions cyclically.

In selecting and monitoring investment strategies, each mutual fund and ETV is screened and selected on the basis of any or all of the following criteria: performance history (both risk and return); the industry sector (broad or narrow) in which it invests, replicates or tracks an underlying index; the track record and tenure of the portfolio manager; its investment objectives; management style and philosophy; and the management fee and operational structure. We also take into consideration correlation among and between each investment option as an added screening factor to enhance diversification. As a part of our investment due diligence process, we visit with investment managers or team members to better understand and verify their strategies and to monitor them over time. Clients have the opportunity to place reasonable restrictions on the types of investments employed. Clients retain individual ownership of all securities at all times.

In the case of non-discretionary services, once the client has approved the generic investment portfolio, a list of recommended investments, current prospectuses for recommended mutual funds, and possibly other relevant information are made available to the client. Upon client's final approval, the agreed to investments are either immediately invested or invested over time through the process of dollar-cost-averaging, as agreed upon with the client. The client grants us the flexibility of exact time and date for making the investments and the exact dollar amount invested under the dollar-cost-averaging process. These minor authorizations are not considered or deemed by us as having discretionary authority over the portfolio or client accounts. Prior to taking action to rebalance, make tactical allocations, or sell or buy any securities in the portfolio, we make specific recommendations to the client and will not take any action until and unless approved by the client.

In the case of discretionary services, we make all investment selection, implementation and investment timing decisions without first informing or seeking approval from the client.

2. Discretionary Investment Management Services for Institutions

A. Institutional Assets Not Subject to Employee Retirement Income Security Act ("ERISA")

We provide continuous portfolio management services to institutional clients based on their specific investment objectives and investment guidelines specified in written investment policies. Investment criteria typically include liquidity needs, investment time horizon, expected annual return, maximum portfolio drawdown, cash flow (timing of contributions and distributions), limitations and restrictions, and tactical allocation bands. In compliance with the investment criteria, we construct an optimal generic portfolio using benchmark indexes as proxies for asset and sub-asset classes based on the tenants of Modern Portfolio Theory. Upon approval, the portfolio implementation is allocated on a core-satellite framework. The core component is typically made up of index tracking equity investments and actively managed bond strategies. The purpose of the core component is to primarily replicate market betas (taking on systemic market risks) in seeking market returns for the specific asset classes. The amount of allocation to this core component depends on investment criteria specified by the institutional client. The satellite component is comprised of investments in alternative asset and sub-asset classes, sector investments, and alternative investment strategies. Risk management on the portfolio level is primarily based on diversification achieved through asset allocation. Additionally, we may use certain alternative strategies to dampen volatility and to control downside risk. Finally, we also rely on tactical asset allocation, within the asset bands, to over or under weight asset and sub-asset classes in an attempt to lower portfolio volatility. Our tactical asset allocation decisions stem from our global macro view which represents a top down process in influencing our core and satellite asset allocation decisions cyclically.

Open-end mutual funds and exchange traded vehicles (ETVs), to include exchange traded funds (ETFs) and exchange traded notes (ETNs) serve as the basic building blocks in portfolio implementation and management. In selecting and monitoring investment strategies, each mutual fund and ETV is screened and selected on the basis of any or all of the following criteria: performance history (both risk and return); the industry sector (broad or narrow) in which it invests, replicates or tracks an underlying index; the track record and tenure of the portfolio manager; its investment objectives; management style and philosophy; and the management fee and operational structure. We also take into consideration correlation among and between each investment option as an added screening factor to enhance diversification. As a part of our manager research, we visit with the investment managers or team members to better understand and verify their strategies and to monitor them over time.

As a discretionary manager, we make all asset allocation, investment selection and implementation decisions without first informing or seeking approval from the client.

B. Institutional Assets Subject to Employee Retirement Income Security Act ("ERISA")

For ERISA plan sponsor for defined benefit plans, we serve as an ERISA § 3(38) investment fiduciary manager to deliver discretionary investment and portfolio management services. We follow the same investment process and approach as those summarized in section A above.

b. Financial Planning Services

We do not offer "comprehensive" personal financial planning services to the public. Accordingly, financial planning services are limited to issue-specific disciplines, such as our retirement planning advisory services. A client who engages us for retirement planning advisory services receives a written report designed to achieve the client's stated retirement financial goals and objectives. Retirement planning advisory services may include analysis of investments during the accumulation and distribution phases and their effect on a client's retirement portfolio.

We gather required information through in-depth personal interviews. Information gathered includes a client's current financial status, future goals, budget and known expenditures, and planning assumptions and attitudes towards investment, funding, longevity, inflation and other retirement savings and decumulation related risks. Related documents supplied by the client are reviewed. A final report is presented to the client, and implementation of the report recommendations is entirely at the client's discretion. In performing these services, we strictly rely on all information and data provided by the client and any designated professionals, and we will not take the time or effort to further confirm their validity or completeness.

c. Consulting Services

1. Personal Consulting Services

Clients may elect to obtain investment advice on a single episode or event basis. This may include advice on only an isolated area of concern, such as reviewing a client's existing portfolio, without managing the client assets on a regular or ongoing basis.

2. Business Consulting Services - Non-Investment Related

Institutional or business clients may retain us to deliver business consulting services in areas of concern including, but not limited to, the following: general business planning, non-qualified retirement planning, closely held business shareholder issues and employee benefit analysis. Such services are strictly non-investment and/or non-securities related.

d. Pension Consulting Services

1. Qualified Retirement Plan subject to ERISA

In the capacity of an ERISA § 3(21) investment co-fiduciary, we offer investment and investment related consulting services to qualified retirement plan sponsors in the following areas:

- Manage fee benchmarking process.
- Coordinate and consult regarding investment and participant communication materials.

Where we are serving as co-fiduciary to the retirement plan, we do not serve in as a ERISA § 3(38) investment fiduciary manager by providing asset allocation models or creating investment solutions to be one or more investment options for plan participants, and we also do not provide any investment advice to any plan participants. We do not serve in the capacity of a “fiduciary advisor” as so defined under the Pension Protection Act of 2006. We do not provide services generally provided by a record keeper, a third party plan administrator or an actuary to a qualified retirement plan.

Services provided to a plan sponsor are specified in a written agreement and we will disclose any change to the information in the agreement required to be disclosed by our firm under ERISA Regulation Section 2550.408b-2(c)(1)(iv).

2. Non-Qualified Retirement Plan or Executive Compensation Plans

We provide investment consulting services in the same manner as summarized in section 1 above except we are not subject to the ERISA standard and we are not co-fiduciaries.

e. Independent Manager Program

The Company may recommend, as a part of its Portfolio Management Services listed in section (a) above, that certain clients authorize in writing active discretionary management of a portion of their assets by independent money managers under the form of a separate account or limited partnership structure. Clients' funds will invest directly with the independent money managers and custodied via another custodian.

The terms and conditions under which a client shall engage the independent money manager is set forth in two separate written agreements - one between the client and the custodian and the other between the client and the designated independent money manager. The Company shall include the assets being managed by the independent money manager as a part of the Portfolio Management Services.

Factors that the Company will consider in recommending an independent money manager include the client's stated investment objective(s) and the investment strategy and process, manager history, structure, transparency, performance, reputation, financial strength, reporting, fee schedule and service of the independent money manager. In addition to the Company's firm brochure, the client shall also receive a copy of the designated independent money manager's firm brochure.

C. Availability of Tailored Services for Individual Clients

C. Additional Fees and Expenses

Mutual Fund, ETV and Separate Account Fees: All fees paid to us for investment advisory services are separate and distinct from the fees and expenses charged by mutual funds, and ETV and charges or expenses charged by separate account managers. These fees and expenses are described in each fund's prospectus in the case of a mutual fund or ETV and separate account management agreement for any outside separate account managers utilized. These fees generally include a management fee, trading costs, other fund expenses, short-term trading fees and a possible distribution fee. A client could invest in any of our recommended investment directly, without our services. In that case, the client would not receive the services provided by us which are designed, among other things, to assist the client in determining which investments are most appropriate to each client's financial condition and objectives as a part of a diversified portfolio. Under all circumstances, we will not be compensated or receive compensation of any kind payable by a third party.

Accordingly, the client should review both the fees charged for each investment product and the fees charged by us to fully understand the total amount of fees to be paid by the client and to thereby evaluate the advisory services being provided.

Trading and Other Costs:

All fees paid to the Company for investment advisory services are separate and distinct from transaction fees charged by broker-dealers or custodian(s) associated with the purchase and sale of mutual funds, Exchange Traded Vehicles, fixed-income and equity securities and options among other investments. In addition, fees do not include the services of any co-fiduciaries, accountants, custodians or attorneys.

Managers Fees and Expenses:

All fees paid to the Company for any of its Advisory Services are separate and distinct from the fees and expenses charged by independent money managers to their clients.

Each Independent Manager used involves different custodial, administrative, and fee arrangements, and may require certain minimum initial account investments. These fees and expenses are described in each Independent Manager's firm brochure. These fees will generally include a management fee and possibly other fees. The actual management fees may be higher or lower when compared to other Independent Managers employing similar strategies.

In certain circumstances, a client could invest with an Independent Manager directly, without the services of the Company. In that case, the client would not receive the services provided by the Company which are designed, among other things, to assist the client in determining which Independent Managers are most appropriate for the client's financial condition and objectives and to be a part of a diversified portfolio.

D. Termination and Refunds

Portfolio Management Services

A client has the right to terminate an advisory agreement without penalty within five (5) business days after entering into such an agreement. In addition, an advisory agreement may be terminated at any time, by either party, for any reason upon ten (10) business days prior written notice to the other party. If an account is terminated during a calendar quarter, fees will be adjusted pro rata based upon the number of calendar days in the calendar quarter that the advisory agreement was effective. Since the company does not require a retainer and assesses fees in arrears, there is no refund necessary.

Financial Planning/Consulting Services

If a client chooses to terminate financial planning or consulting services before they are completed, any work performed by the Company will be billed at the agreed to hourly rate of $400.00. In the case of a fixed fee arrangement, the fixed fee amount will be adjusted pro rata based upon the amount of work completed as of the date of termination.

Because the Company's fees are paid in arrears, the client will not be due any refund.

E. Additional Compensation and Conflicts of Interest.

For clients for whom we provide Pension Consulting Services using a life insurance company group annuity product, and if the insurance company is not able or willing to remove commissions payable, we will be paid monthly by the insurance company based on an annual fee typically ranging from 0.25% to 0.75% of plan assets under advisement. The negotiated fee assessed is based on the asset size of the plan, the expected future contribution flow, and the level of services agreed upon. This fee is described and fully disclosed in the insurance company's group insurance contract with the client.

We are not affiliated with any broker-dealer firms and we do not accept investment commissions on investment transactions. In the case of an insurance product where we are operating as a licensed insurance broker, commissions, if any, paid by the insurance carrier, is considered an additional compensation or remuneration for the agreed upon services. This is fully disclosed to the client. .

We do not buy or sell securities for our own proprietary account.

The Company and its associates are engaged for fee-only services. The Company does not accept commissions or compensation from any other source (e.g., mutual funds, insurance products or any other investment product) and does not charge a mark-up on clients' securities transactions.

Neither the Company nor its associated persons receive “trailer” or 12b-1 fees from an investment company that the firm recommends. Fees charged by issuers are detailed in prospectuses or product descriptions and clients are encouraged to read these documents before investing.

Clients always have the option to purchase recommended or similar investments through a service provider of their own choosing.

F. IRA Rollover Considerations

As part of our investment advisory services to you, we may recommend that you withdraw the assets from your employer's retirement plan and roll the assets over to an individual retirement account ("IRA") that we will manage on your behalf. If you elect to roll the assets to an IRA that is subject to our management, we will charge you an asset based fee as set forth in the agreement you executed with our firm. This practice presents a conflict of interest because persons providing investment advice on our behalf have an incentive to recommend a rollover to you for the purpose of generating fee based compensation rather than solely based on your needs. You are under no obligation, contractually or otherwise, to complete the rollover. Moreover, if you do complete the rollover, you are under no obligation to have the assets in an IRA managed by our firm.

Many employers permit former employees to keep their retirement assets in their company plan. Also, current employees can sometimes move assets out of their company plan before they retire or change jobs. In determining whether to complete the rollover to an IRA, and to the extent the following options are available, you should consider the costs and benefits of each.

An employee will typically have four options:

1. Leaving the funds in your employer's (former employer's) plan.
2. Moving the funds to a new employer's retirement plan.
3. Cashing out and taking a taxable distribution from the plan.
4. Rolling the funds into an IRA rollover account.

Each of these options has advantages and disadvantages and before making a change we encourage you to speak with your CPA and/or tax attorney.

If you are considering rolling over your retirement funds to an IRA for us to manage here are a few points to consider before you do so:

1. Determine whether the investment options in your employer's retirement plan address your needs or whether you might want to consider other types of investments.
 - a) Employer retirement plans generally have a more limited investment menu than IRAs.
 - b) Employer retirement plans may have unique investment options not available to the public such as employer securities, or previously closed funds.
2. Your current plan may have lower fees than our fees.
 - a) If you are interested in investing only in mutual funds, you should understand the cost structure of the share classes available in your employer's retirement plan and how the costs of those share classes compare with those available in an IRA.
 - b) You should understand the various products and services you might take advantage of at an IRA provider and the potential costs of those products and services.
3. Our strategy may have higher risk than the option(s) provided to you in your plan.
4. Your current plan may also offer financial advice.

5. If you keep your assets titled in a 401k or retirement account, you could potentially delay your required minimum distribution beyond age 70.5.
6. Your 401k may offer more liability protection than a rollover IRA; each state may vary. Generally, federal law protects assets in qualified plans from creditors. Since 2005, IRA assets have been generally protected from creditors in bankruptcies. However, there can be some exceptions to the general rules so you should consult with an attorney if you are concerned about protecting your retirement plan assets from creditors.
7. You may be able to take out a loan on your 401k, but not from an IRA.
8. IRA assets can be accessed any time; however, distributions are subject to ordinary income tax and may also be subject to a 10% early distribution penalty unless they qualify for an exception such as disability, higher education expenses or the purchase of a home.
9. If you own company stock in your plan, you may be able to liquidate those shares at a lower capital gains tax rate.
10. Your plan may allow you to hire us as the manager and keep the assets titled in the plan name.

It is important that you understand the differences between these types of accounts and to decide whether a rollover is best for you.

Item 6. Performance-Based Fees and Side-by-Side Management

This item is inapplicable since we do not charge performance based fees on any accounts.

Item 7. Type of Clients

A. Clients

We provide investment advice and portfolio management services to retail clients such as high net worth individuals, families and personal trusts; institutional clients such as endowments, tax-exempts and institutions; and benefit plans such as 401(k), 403(b), defined benefit pension plans, non-qualified plans.

B. Engaging the Services of the Company

All clients wishing to engage us for investment advisory services must first enter into the applicable advisory agreement and sign/complete any other document or questionnaire required by us. The advisory agreement describes our services and the terms, conditions, and responsibilities thereunder. It also outlines our fee, fixed and/or variable, in detail.

In addition, clients may need to complete certain broker-dealer/custodial documentation. Upon completion of all required documents, we will be considered engaged by you. You will be responsible for ensuring that we are informed in a timely manner of changes in circumstances that may affect your investment objectives and risk tolerance.

C. Conditions for Managing Accounts

For retail or institutional (non ERISA retirement plan) clients, a portfolio minimum of $1,000,000 is required. For institutions, a portfolio minimum of $5,000,000 is required. The minimum account size may be negotiable under certain circumstances. We may group certain related client accounts for the purposes of achieving the minimum account size and determining the annualized fee. We retain the sole discretion to make any exceptions to the account minimum and fee schedule on a client-by-client basis. There is no minimum asset value for qualified retirement plans.

Item 8. Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

A. Methods of Analysis and Investment Strategies.

In designing a client's portfolio, we first develop a global macroeconomic view, which represents a top down process in asset allocation as well as establishing forward looking expected return per traditional asset class (cash, stocks and bonds). In expressing the global macro view, we use a "core and satellites" approach in designing a client's portfolio. Through a bottom up manager and investment selection process, a set of primarily index tracking, or broad market mutual funds or ETVs are used to represent the "core" portion of the portfolio. The purpose of the "core" is to capture market returns by taking market risks (betas). The "satellites" portion is comprised of investments in alternative assets classes (any asset or sub-asset class that is not considered a traditional asset class) and alternative investment strategies (typically defined as non-traditional or long-only investment strategies). In the case of alternative asset classes, index tracking and broad market mutual funds or ETVs are used. The purpose of the "satellites" is to enhance overall portfolio diversification (lowering asset class correlation in an attempt to lower portfolio volatility) and/or increase expected portfolio returns over time.

On an ongoing basis, we use tactical and dynamic asset allocation strategies to balance the portfolio. Tactical allocation allows the portfolio to take advantage in short term opportunities by over weighting one or more sectors of the global economy, investment styles, or asset classes or underweighting certain segments of the portfolio to minimize risks and volatility. Dynamic allocation allows the portfolio to adjust over a longer period of time to better express our global macro views. The overriding theme of our investment approach is to minimize portfolio volatility through diversification while reaching for the expected portfolio return over a market cycle.

B. Material Risks (Including Significant, or Unusual Risks) Relating to Investment Strategies.

Every investment involves a certain risk of loss which the client should be prepared to bear, including the risk of a total loss of an investment. Our primary method for managing investment risk is asset diversification. Under normal market conditions, various asset classes, sub-asset classes, investment styles and market sectors to varying degrees offset each other's up or down price movements to minimize extremes. However, in extreme market conditions historically, the benefit of diversification is often diminished and results in uniform movement of all assets to the downside. Although we attempt to minimize the impact of such uniform movements to the downside within a portfolio we manage, there is no assurance that in extreme or abnormal market conditions those significant losses would not occur.

C. Risks Associated With Types of Securities that are Primarily Recommended (Including Significant or Unusual Risks).

Alternative Investments

Certain alternative asset classes involve a greater degree of volatility. Clients invested in certain alternative asset classes should expect a higher level of volatility. However, when such assets are introduced to a diversified portfolio made up of other (low or non correlated) asset and sub-asset classes, the portfolio volatility is often lowered over time.

Exchange Traded Vehicles (ETVs)

Equity-based ETVs are subject to risks similar to those of stocks. If the stocks invested within an ETV decline due to weakening fundamentals, crumbling technical support, global events, or any other market fluctuations, the value of the ETV will go down. Fixed income-based ETVs are subject to risks similar to those of bonds such as increasing interest rates or increasing credit risks; and in the case of non US$ denominated bonds would be subject to currency and political risks. Investment returns will fluctuate and are subject to market volatility, so that an investor's ETV shares, when redeemed or sold, may be worth more or less than their original cost.

Item 9. Disciplinary Information

This Item is inapplicable since we and our employees do not have any disciplinary record.

Item 10. Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations

We are a SEC registered investment adviser. We are also a licensed insurance agent or broker for one or more insurance companies. Philip S.L. Chao, Principal, in his individual capacity, is also an insurance agent or broker for one or more insurance companies. Thus, we and our executive officers will be able to purchase products for clients for which they may receive separate, yet customary compensation. The implementation of any or all recommendations is solely at the client's discretion.

In addition to providing the advisory services described above, we also provide non-investment related business consulting services. The majority of these services are provided under Financial Planning or Consulting agreements where an hourly or fixed fee is payable by the client for the services rendered. Mr. Chao may spend as much as 20% of his time with these related activities.

Through the common ownership of Philip S.L. Chao, Experiential is affiliated with Independent Fiduciary Services, LLC, an independent directed trustee to health & welfare trusts associated with health & welfare plans covered under the McNamara O'Hara Service Contract Act of 1965, as amended. While Independent Fiduciary Services, LLC may also provide services to clients of Experiential, Experiential's clients are not solicited to use the services of Independent Fiduciary Services, LLC (or vice versa).

Through the common ownership of Philip S.L. Chao, Experiential is also affiliated with Nexus338 LLC, an investment adviser registered with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission. Nexus338, LLC provides investment advisory services exclusively to qualified retirement plans that may or may not be subject to Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974. Both Experiential and Nexus338 can serve as ERISA 3(38) fiduciary investment managers to qualified retirement plans. However, only Nexus338 provides ERISA 3(38) work to Pooled Plan Providers and as a fiduciary to managed accounts on a glidepath and separately on the individual participant portfolio level. Therefore, while there may be some overlap, Experiential and Nexus338 primarily serve different client bases which reduces any potential conflict of interest.

Through the common ownership of Philip S.L. Chao, Experiential is also affiliated with Syngularity LLC ("Syngularity"), a pooled plan provider ("PPP") for pooled employer plans (PEP) pursuant to the Setting Every Community Up for Retirement Enhancement Act of 2019 (commonly known as the SECURE Act). In cases where Syngularity is the PPP and Nexus338 would be appointed as the ERISA 3(38) fiduciary investment manager to the PEP, Nexus338 will waive all fees in delivering investment services to avoid any duplication of compensation and conflicts of interest. Experiential Wealth will not be a service provider to any PEP where Syngularity is the PPP.

Item 11. Code of Ethics, Participation or Interest in Client Transactions and Personal Trading

A. Code of Ethics.

We have adopted a Code of Ethics pursuant to SEC Rule 204A-1 that obligates us and our employees to put the interests of our clients before our own interests and to act honestly and fairly in all respects in dealings with clients. All of our personnel are also required to comply with applicable federal securities laws.

Our Code of Ethics describes the firm's fiduciary duties and responsibilities to our clients and sets forth our practice of supervising the personal securities transactions of our employees with access to client information. Our employees may buy or sell securities for their personal accounts identical to or different from those recommended to you. It is our expressed policy that our employees must put the interests of our clients ahead of their personal interests.

To supervise compliance with our Code of Ethics, we require that anyone associated and has access to advisory recommendations provide annual securities holdings reports and quarterly transaction reports to the firm's Assistant Compliance Officer. We require such employees to also receive approval from the Assistant Compliance Officer prior to investing in any initial public offerings (IPOs) or private placements (limited offerings). Our Code of Ethics further includes our policy prohibiting the use of material non-public information.

Any individual not in observance of the above may be subject to discipline.

We will provide a complete copy of our Code of Ethics to any client upon request to our Assistant Compliance Officer at 703.847.4380 or by making a written request to our principal address as set forth on the cover page to this disclosure brochure.

B. Client Transactions in Securities where Adviser has a Material Financial Interest.

We have no affiliation with any individual or institution that carries a material financial interest. Further, we do not buy or sell securities of any kind for our firm's own account for the purpose of reselling to clients. We do not conduct any trades between our own account and a client account.

C. Investing in Securities Recommended to Clients.

Under our firm's 401(k) plan, employee participants are given the opportunity to self direct investments into a wide range of securities, including ETFs., mutual funds, individual stocks and bonds. Individual employees may also, from time to time, own interests in mutual funds and ETVs that are also recommended to our clients.

Since mutual funds and ETVs are broadly diversified and our firm and our employees have no direct control over the purchase or sale of any individual security there under, this is deemed to be free of conflict of interest for our firm's 401(k) plan and/or individual employees to purchase, hold or sell ETVs or mutual fund shares that have been recommended to our clients or held by them. Due to the scale of an ETV or a mutual fund, the timing of the purchase or sale by our firm's 401(k) plan and/or employees will not in any manner affect the price of the mutual fund. Moreover, employee-participant trading in the ETFs under the 401(k) plan is limited to once a day and each trade is bundled with others by the third party administrator to our firm's 401(k) Plan and our firm and employees have no control, influence or discretion regarding the timing of each trade.

D. Conflicts of Interest Created by Contemporaneous Trading.

We primarily use mutual funds and ETVs and infrequently separate accounts in building and managing client portfolios. If an individual security is to be purchased, and an employee is also interested in purchasing the same individual security, we will always execute the purchase for the client account first. In the case of selling an individual security in a client's portfolio, the same priority preference is afforded to the client. All transactions for clients are executed before any employee's personal security transaction.

Item 12. Brokerage Practices

A. Factors Considered in Selecting or Recommending Broker-Dealers for Client Transactions.

We participate in the Schwab Advisor Services program (Schwab Advisor Services) offered to independent investment advisers by Charles Schwab & Company, Inc., ("Schwab") a FINRA registered broker dealer, Member SIPC/NYSE. Clients in need of brokerage and custodial services will have Schwab recommended to them.

While there is no direct link between our use of Schwab Advisor Services and the investment advice we give to our clients we do receive certain economic benefits through our participation in the program that are typically not available to Schwab retail investors.

As a user of Schwab Advisor Services, Schwab makes available to us other products and services that benefit us, but may not benefit its clients' accounts. Some of these other products and services assist us in managing and administering clients' accounts, including:

- Receipt of duplicate client confirmations and bundled duplicate statements;
- Access to a trading desk serving Schwab Advisor Services participants exclusively;
- Access to block trading which provides the ability to aggregate securities transactions and then allocate the appropriate shares to client accounts;
- Ability to have investment advisory fees deducted directly from client accounts;
- Access to an electronic communication network for client order entry and account information;
- Receipt of compliance publications; and
- Access to mutual funds which generally require significantly higher minimum initial investments or are generally available only to institutional investors.

Schwab Advisor Services also makes available to us other services intended to help us manage and further develop our advisory business. These services may include consulting, publications and conferences on practice management, information technology, business succession, regulatory compliance and marketing. In addition, Schwab Advisor Services may make available, arrange and/or pay for these types of services rendered to us by independent third parties.

Additional benefits received because of our use of Schwab Advisor Services may depend upon the amount of transactions directed to, or amount of assets custodied by, Schwab. We are required to maintain a minimum level of client assets with Schwab Advisor Services to avoid a quarterly service fee. While as a fiduciary we endeavor to act in our clients' best interests, our recommendation that clients maintain their assets in accounts at Schwab may be based in part on the benefit to us of the availability of some of the foregoing products and services and not solely on the nature cost or quality of custody and brokerage provided by Schwab which may create a conflict of interest.

1. Research and Other Soft Dollar Benefits.

We reserve the right to participate in soft dollar arrangements under the Section 28(e) safe harbor provisions of the Exchange Act. The only services we currently receive that could potentially be considered "soft dollar" services are the research and market data provided by Schwab under the Schwab advisor program. However, we do not have any commission requirements to receive the research and market data benefits. The only requirement is the $10 million in advisory assets as stated in Item 12A above.

2. Brokerage for Client Referrals.

We do not and have not received any referrals from a broker-dealer and this factor is not a part of the consideration in selecting or recommending broker-dealers to clients.

3. Directed Brokerage.

We participate in the Schwab Advisory Services program offered to independent investment advisers by Charles Schwab & Company, Inc. Clients in need of brokerage and custodial services will have Charles Schwab & Company recommended to them. We do not participate in any transaction fees or commissions paid to the broker dealer or custodian and we do not receive any fees or commissions for the opening or maintenance of client accounts at recommended brokers.

Not all investment advisers require their clients to direct brokerage. By directing brokerage, we may not be able to achieve most favorable execution of client transactions and that this practice may cost clients more money.

Clients are free to select a broker-dealer of their choice when we manage portfolios and investment assets. We reserve the right to decline any client account that directs the use of a broker dealer other than Schwab if we believe that the broker dealer would adversely affect our fiduciary duty to the client and/or ability to effectively service the client portfolio. When clients designate specific brokers or dealers through which transactions are to be effected, orders for such directed brokerage clients will be placed after orders for clients that leave the selection of brokers to our discretion. For these accounts, it may not be possible for us to obtain the lower commission rates which might be attainable if we had full discretion in the selection of the executing firm. Clients directing brokerage may also incur other transaction costs or greater spreads or receive less favorable net prices on transactions for their accounts than might otherwise be the case.

B. Order Aggregation.

From time to time, we aggregate trades for ETVs if the volume or the number of client accounts create an economic advantage to them from a pricing or trading cost standpoint.

Item 13. Review of Accounts

The underlying securities within a client's account are continuously monitored by Eileen Huang, Senior Analyst at our firm. Philip SL Chao, Principal and Chief Investment Officer conducts formal quarterly portfolio level reviews.

Accounts are reviewed in the context of each client's stated investment objectives and guidelines.

Amanda Pagenhardt, Assistant Compliance Officer, reviews transactions in each client portfolio on a monthly basis to verify that transactions have been executed according to the order entry instructions from Mr. Chao.

A. Frequency and Nature of Review.

Accounts are reviewed on a on an ongoing, but no less frequent than quarterly, as stated above. Clients receive written reports from both our firm quarterly and their independent custodian monthly. We encourage our clients to compare the reports received from our firm with those of their custodian.

B. Factors Prompting a Non-Periodic Review of Accounts.

Client portfolios and accounts are reviewed on an ongoing basis by Eileen Huang, Senior Analyst, in an effort to identify any unusual performance issues for a client portfolio as compared with specific benchmark.

Significant changes in global macro variables such as market, political or economic circumstances, or changes in a client's individual financial objectives or circumstances may trigger more frequent reviews.

C. Content and Frequency of Regular Account Reports.

In addition to the monthly and annual written account statement sent to clients by the broker-dealer custodian, we send clients a performance report at the end of each calendar quarter. The report details the performance of each account and the performance of the portfolio against one or more benchmarks and provides a detailed gain/loss report for the reporting period.

For 401(k) retirement plan clients where we serve as a co-investment fiduciary, a comprehensive monitoring report is prepared by us. This report measures each investment option against a set of criteria established under the 401(k) plan investment policy statement and provides recommendations regarding the investment choices that failed to meet the stated criteria. This written report is sent to the client quarterly. On a monthly basis, in assisting our plan sponsor clients in meeting their duty to prudently monitor plan investment options, we provide an investment-by-investment report based on data provided by Morningstar.

Item 14. Client Referrals and Other Compensation

A. Economic Benefits Received from Non-Clients for Providing Services to Clients.

We do not accept or receive any benefits (cash or non-cash) other than our agreed to advisory and/or consulting fee in relation to our investment advisory business.

B. Compensation to Non-Supervised Persons for Client Referrals.

We do not directly or indirectly compensate anyone or any entity for client referrals.

Item 15. Custody

Custody of client assets will be maintained in almost all cases with Charles Schwab and Company. We will not have custody of any assets in the client's account. Clients will be solely responsible for paying all fees or charges of the custodian. Clients typically authorize us to give the custodian instructions for the purchase, sale, conversion, redemption, exchange or retention of any security, cash or cash equivalent or other investment for the client's account.

Clients will receive directly from the custodian a monthly statement showing all transactions occurring in the client's account during the period covered by the account statement, and the funds, securities and other property in the client's account at the end of each reporting period. Clients are urged to carefully review the account statement sent by the broker-dealer/custodian and to compare the account statement provided by the broker-dealer/custodian with any statements that we provide. Further, a soft or hard (based on each client's preference and election) copy confirmation is generated and forwarded to the client for each buy or sell transaction that was effected in the client account. Please note that the value of each security is provided to us by the custodian on a daily basis, but the portfolio value or security value within an account listed in our quarterly client report may vary from those sent by the broker-dealer/custodian based on accounting procedures, reporting dates and valuation methodologies of certain securities.

Item 16. Investment Discretion

Under written authorization from the client we may manage client portfolios on a discretionary basis. This written trading authorization by the client is also provided to the broker-dealer custodian. Based on the client's investment criteria, we will first offer the client, in writing, a general asset allocation recommendation. After we receive client consent to the asset allocation recommendation, we will have full and complete discretion as to the timing, amount and priority of implementation and selecting the specific investments to be purchased and sold, subject to any restrictions set in writing by the client.

Item 17. Voting Client Securities

We do not vote proxies on behalf of our clients. Therefore, although we may provide discretionary investment advisory services relative to client investment assets, it is the client that maintains exclusive responsibility for: (i) directing the manner in which proxies solicited by issuers of securities beneficially owned by the client shall be voted and (ii) making all elections relative to any mergers, acquisitions, tender offers, bankruptcy proceeding or other type events pertaining to the client's investment assets. We and/or the client shall correspondingly instruct each custodian of the assets to forward to the client copies of all proxies and shareholder communications relating to the client's investment assets. Clients can contact Amanda Pagenhardt (703.847.4380) if they have questions regarding a particular solicitation.

Although we have discretion over client accounts, we will not be responsible for handling client claims in class action lawsuits or similar settlements involving securities owned by the client. Clients will receive the paperwork for such claims directly from their account custodians. Each client should verify with their custodian or other account administrator whether such claims are being made on the client's behalf by the custodian or if the client is expected to file such claims directly.

Item 18. Financial Information

Prepayment of Fees

Because we do not require or accept prepayment of more than $1,200 in fees six months or more in advance, we are not required include a balance sheet with this disclosure brochure.

Financial Condition

We do not have any adverse financial conditions to disclose.

Bankruptcy

We have never been the subject of a bankruptcy petition.

Important Information about the Certified Financial Planner (CFP®) Designation:

The CFP certification is a voluntary certification; no federal or state law or regulation requires financial planners to hold CFP certification. It is recognized in the United States and a number of other countries for its (1) high standard of professional education; (2) stringent code of conduct and standards of practice; and (3) ethical requirements that govern professional engagements with clients.

CFP Board’s financial planning subject areas include insurance planning and risk management, employee benefits planning, investment planning, income tax planning, retirement planning, and estate planning;*

The Standards prominently require that CFP® professionals provide financial planning services at a fiduciary standard of care. This means CFP® professionals must provide financial planning services in the best interests of their clients.*

CFP® professionals who fail to comply with the above standards and requirements may be subject to CFP® Board's enforcement process, which could result in suspension or permanent revocation of their CFP® certification.
