Item 4 – Advisory Services

A. Firm Information

SeaCrest Investment Management, LLC (“SIM” or the “Advisor”) is a registered investment advisor with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (“SEC”). The Advisor is organized as a Limited Liability Company (“LLC”) under the laws of the State of Delaware, with a principal office location in the State of New York. SIM was founded in May 2006 and is a wholly-owned subsidiary of SeaCrest Management, LLC, which is owned by Ronald Lenihan (Managing Partner and Chief Compliance Officer) and Rajesh K. Gupta (Partner Emeritus). This Disclosure Brochure provides information regarding the qualifications, business practices, and the advisory services provided by SIM.

B. Advisory Services Offered

SIM offers investment advisory services to individuals, high net worth individuals, trusts, estates, organizations, corporations, businesses and insurance companies (each referred to as a “Client”).

The Advisor serves as a fiduciary to Clients, as defined under the applicable laws and regulations. As a fiduciary, the Advisor upholds a duty of loyalty, fairness and good faith towards each Client and seeks to mitigate potential conflicts of interest. SIM’s fiduciary commitment is further described in the Advisor’s Code of Ethics. For more information regarding the Code of Ethics, please see Item 11 – Code of Ethics, Participation or Interest in Client Transactions and Personal Trading.

SIM provides customized investment advisory solutions for its Clients. This is achieved through regular personal Client contact and interaction while providing discretionary investment management and related advisory services. SIM works closely with each Client to identify their investment goals and objectives as well as risk tolerance and financial situation in order to identify and place assets within one or more of SIM’s investment strategies as defined in Item 8 below. These strategies may consist of diversified mutual funds, exchange-traded funds (“ETFs”), individual stocks, bonds, master limited partnerships (“MLPs”), real estate investment trusts (“REITs”) and options to achieve the Client’s investment goals. The Advisor may retain certain types of investments based on a Client’s legacy portfolio construction.

SIM’s investment strategies are primarily long-term focused, but the Advisor may buy, sell or re-allocate positions that have been held less than one year to meet the objectives of the Client and strategy or due to market conditions. SIM will place assets within the strategies to ensure it meets the goals, objectives, circumstances, and risk tolerance agreed to by the Client. Each Client will have the opportunity to place reasonable restrictions on the types of investments to be held in their respective portfolio, subject to acceptance by the Advisor.

SIM evaluates and selects investments for inclusion in its strategy[ies] only after applying its internal due diligence process. SIM may recommend, on occasion, redistributing investment allocations to diversify the portfolio. SIM may recommend specific positions to increase sector or asset class weightings. The Advisor may recommend employing cash positions as a possible hedge against market movement. SIM may recommend selling positions for reasons that include, but are not limited to, harvesting capital gains or losses, business or sector risk exposure to a specific security or class of securities, overvaluation or overweighting of the position[s] in the portfolio, change in risk tolerance of the Client, generating cash to meet the Client needs, or any risk deemed unacceptable for the Client’s risk tolerance.

At no time will SIM accept or maintain custody of a Client’s funds or securities, except for the limited authority as outlined in Item 15 - Custody. All Client assets will be managed within the designated account[s] at the Custodian, pursuant to the terms of the agreement, please see Item 12 – Brokerage Practices.

Retirement Accounts – When the Advisor provides investment advice to Clients regarding ERISA retirement accounts or individual retirement accounts (“IRAs”), the Advisor is a fiduciary within the meaning of Title I of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act (“ERISA”) and/or the Internal Revenue Code (“IRC”), as applicable, which are laws governing retirement accounts. When deemed to be in the Client’s best interest, the Advisor will provide investment advice to a Client regarding a distribution from an ERISA retirement account or to roll over the assets to an IRA, or recommend a similar transaction including rollovers from one ERISA sponsored Plan to another, one IRA to another IRA, or from one type of account to another account (e.g. commission-based account to fee-based account). Such a recommendation creates a conflict of interest if the Advisor will earn a new (or increase its current) advisory fee as a result of the transaction. No client is under any obligation to roll over a retirement account to an account managed by the Advisor.

C. Client Account Management

Prior to engaging SIM to provide investment advisory services, each Client is required to enter into an agreement with the Advisor that defines the terms, conditions, authority and responsibilities of the Advisor and the Client.

These services may include:

- Establishing an Investment Strategy – SIM, in connection with the Client, will develop a strategy that seeks to achieve the Client's goals and objectives.
- Asset Allocation – SIM will develop a strategic asset allocation that is targeted to meet the investment objectives, time horizon, financial situation and tolerance for risk for each Client.
- Investment Management and Supervision – SIM will provide investment management and ongoing oversight of the Client's investment portfolio.

D. Wrap Fee Programs

SIM does not manage or place Client assets into a wrap fee program. Investment management services are provided directly by SIM.

E. Assets Under Management

As of December 31, 2021, SIM manages $121,755,063 in Client assets, all of which are managed on a discretionary basis. Clients may request more current information at any time by contacting the Advisor.

Item 5 – Fees and Compensation

The following paragraphs detail the fee structure and compensation methodology for services provided by the Advisor. Each Client engaging the Advisor for services described herein shall be required to enter into a written agreement with the Advisor.

A. Fees for Advisory Services

Investment advisory fees are paid quarterly, either at the beginning or end of the quarter, pursuant to the terms of the agreement. Investment advisory fees are based on the market value of assets under management at the end of the respective quarter, which is inclusive of accrued interest and dividends. Investment advisory fees range from 0.20% to 1.15% annually based on several factors, including: the complexity of the services to be provided, the level of assets to be managed, and the overall relationship with the Advisor. Relationships with multiple objectives, specific reporting requirements, restrictions and other complexities may be charged a higher fee.

The investment advisory fee in the first quarter of service is prorated from the inception date of the account[s] to the end of the first quarter. Fees are negotiable at the sole discretion of the Advisor. The Client's fees will take into consideration the aggregate assets under management with the Advisor. All securities held in accounts managed by SIM will be independently valued by the Custodian. SIM will conduct periodic reviews of the Custodian's valuations.

The Advisor's fee is exclusive of, and in addition to any applicable securities transaction and custody fees, and other related costs and expenses described in Item 5.C below, which may be incurred by the Client. However, the Advisor shall not receive any portion of these commissions, fees, and costs.

B. Fee Billing

Investment advisory fees are calculated by the Advisor or its delegate and deducted from the Client's account[s] at the Custodian. The Advisor or its delegate shall send an invoice to the Custodian indicating the amount of the fees to be deducted from the Client's account[s] at the end of each respective quarter-end. The amount due is calculated by applying the quarterly rate (annual rate divided by 4) to the total assets under management with SIM at the end of the quarter. The Advisor will incorporate accrued interest and dividends to determine the market value of assets at the end of the quarter. The Advisor will rely on a third party to calculate the Client's fees. Clients will be provided with a statement, at least quarterly, from the Custodian reflecting deduction of the investment advisory fee. It is the responsibility of the Client to verify the accuracy of these fees as listed on the Custodian's brokerage statement as the Custodian does not assume this responsibility. Clients provide written authorization permitting advisory fees to be deducted by SIM directly from their account[s] held by the Custodian as part of the investment advisory agreement and separate account forms provided by the Custodian.

C. Other Fees and Expenses

Clients may incur certain fees or charges imposed by third parties, other than SIM, in connection with investments made on behalf of the Client's account[s]. The Client is responsible for all custody and securities execution fees charged by the Custodian, if applicable. The Advisor's recommended Custodian does not charge securities transaction fees for ETF and equity trades in a Client's account, provided that the account meets the terms and conditions of the Custodian's brokerage requirements. However, the Custodian typically charges for mutual funds and other types of investments. The fees charged by SIM are separate and distinct from these custody and execution fees.

In addition, all fees paid to SIM for investment advisory services are separate and distinct from the expenses charged by mutual funds and ETFs to their shareholders, if applicable. These fees and expenses are described in each fund's prospectus. These fees and expenses will generally be used to pay management fees for the funds, other fund expenses, account administration (e.g., custody, brokerage and account reporting), and a possible distribution fee. A Client may be able to invest in these products directly, without the services of SIM, but would not receive the services provided by SIM which are designed, among other things, to assist the Client in determining which products or services are most appropriate for each Client's financial situation and objectives. Accordingly, the Client should review both the fees charged by the fund[s] and the fees charged by SIM to fully understand the total fees to be paid. Please refer to Item 12 – Brokerage Practices for additional information.

D. Advance Payment of Fees and Termination

SIM is compensated for its services either in advance or at the end of the quarter. Either party may terminate the investment advisory agreement, at any time, by providing advance written notice to the other party. The Client will incur charges for bona fide advisory services rendered to the point of termination and such fees will be due and payable by the Client. Advisor will refund any unearned, prepaid investment advisory fees from the effective date of termination to the end of the quarter. The Client's investment advisory agreement with the Advisor is non-transferable without the Client's prior consent.

E. Compensation for Sales of Securities

SIM does not buy or sell securities and does not receive any compensation for securities transactions in any Client account, other than the investment advisory fees noted above. However, certain advisory persons may earn additional compensation as described below.

Broker-Dealer Affiliation

Certain Advisory Persons are also registered representatives of Purshe Kaplan Sterling Investments ("PKS"). PKS is a registered broker-dealer (CRD No. 35747), member FINRA, SIPC. In one's separate capacity as a registered representative of PKS, an Advisory Person will implement securities transactions under PKS and not through SIM. In such instances, an Advisory Person will receive commission-based compensation in connection with the purchase and sale of securities, including 12b-1 fees for the sale of investment company products. Compensation earned by an Advisory Person in one's capacity as a registered representative is separate and in addition to SIM's advisory fees. This practice presents a conflict of interest because Advisory Persons who are registered representatives have an incentive to effect securities transactions for the purpose of generating commissions rather than solely based on the Client. Clients are not obligated to implement any recommendation provided by Advisory Persons. Neither the Advisor nor Advisory Persons will earn ongoing investment advisory fees in connection with any products or services implemented in the Advisory Person's separate capacity as a registered representative. Please see Item 10 - Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations.

Item 6 – Performance-Based Fees and Side-By-Side Management

SIM does not charge performance-based fees for its investment advisory services. The fees charged by SIM are as described in Item 5 above and are not based upon the capital appreciation of the funds or securities held by any Client.

SIM does not manage any proprietary investment funds or limited partnerships (for example, a mutual fund or a hedge fund) and has no financial incentive to recommend any particular investment options to its Clients.

Item 7 – Types of Clients

SIM offers investment advisory services to individuals, high net worth individuals, trusts, estates, organizations, corporations, businesses and insurance companies. The amount of each type of Client is available on the Advisor's Form ADV Part 1A. These amounts may change over time and are updated at least annually by the Advisor. SIM generally does not impose a minimum relationship size for establishing a relationship. However, certain strategies of SIM may require a minimum asset amount in order to achieve optimal returns based on the needs of the Client, which may be waived at the sole discretion of the Advisor.

Item 8 – Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

A. Methods of Analysis

SIM primarily employs fundamental analysis in developing and implementing investment strategies for its Clients. Research and analysis from SIM are derived from numerous sources, including financial media companies, third-party research materials, internet sources, and review of company activities, including annual reports, prospectuses, press releases and research prepared by others.

Fundamental analysis utilizes economic and business indicators as investment selection criteria. These criteria are generally ratios and trends that may indicate the overall strength and financial viability of the entity being analyzed. Assets are deemed suitable if they meet certain criteria to indicate that they are a strong investment with a value discounted by the market. While this type of analysis helps the Advisor in evaluating a potential investment, it does not guarantee that the investment will increase in value. Assets meeting the investment criteria utilized in the fundamental analysis may lose value and may have negative investment performance. The Advisor monitors these economic indicators to determine if adjustments to strategic allocations are appropriate. More details on the Advisor's review process are included below in Item 13 – Review of Accounts.

As noted above, SIM generally employs a long-term investment strategies. SIM will typically hold all or a portion of a security within their strategies for more than a year, but may hold for shorter periods for the purpose of rebalancing a portfolio or meeting the cash needs of Clients. At times, SIM may also buy and sell positions that are more short-term in nature, depending on the goals of the Client and/or the fundamentals of the security, sector or asset class. Following are the strategies employed by SIM:

Global Tactical Asset Allocation Strategy

Asset allocation is an investment strategy that seeks to balance risk versus reward by adjusting the percentage of each asset class in an investment portfolio according to investor's risk tolerance, goals and investment time frame. Our model culls from nine asset classes (primarily via Exchange Traded Funds) including cash. These asset classes include: Equities (U.S. and International), Fixed Income (U.S. and International High Grade, U.S. and International High Yield), Real Estate, Commodities and Cash. Client portfolios are rebalanced when our proprietary Global Tactical Asset Allocation model indicates an overvalued or undervalued asset class.

Risks - Investments in this strategy may fluctuate within a wide range, over short or even extended periods, due to fluctuations in interest rates and equity markets. In general, with prices rising if interest rates fall, and prices falling if interest rates rise. Debt securities are also often subject to call by their issuer, which means that they could be redeemed before maturity and at a price that is lower than the current market price. Even if not redeemed at a lower price, securities paying a favorable interest rate may be redeemed, resulting in the Advisor having to reinvest a portion of the client's funds at a lower interest rate than is currently being earned. Debt securities are also subject to the risk of a change in the creditworthiness of their issuer, which could lead to the issuer's default or a downgrading of the issuer's credit rating, which in turn, may reduce the market price of the security. In some cases, exchange traded funds and closed-end funds may employ leverage exacerbating losses.

There is no assurance that an investment will achieve its objective. Investments are subject to market risk, which is the possibility that the market values of securities owned by the investment will decline and that the value of the investment may therefore be less than what you paid for them. Accordingly, you can lose money.

Investments in foreign markets entail special risks such as currency, political, economic, and market risks. The risks of investing in emerging market countries are greater than the risks generally associated with foreign investments.

Global Fixed Income Strategy

This strategy seeks to maximize return by investing in select fixed income instruments of issuers globally. This may include sovereign, quasi-sovereign and supranational debt instruments of developed and developing nations. This may also include corporate obligations issued domestically or internationally, U.S. municipal obligations as well as fixed income obligations in non-U.S. currency(ies). The Advisor seeks to provide a rigorous qualitative risk/return process, which identifies macroeconomic themes, provides an in-depth evaluation of the sources of investment value, and performs an assessment of sustainability and return potential.

Risks - Investments in this strategy may fluctuate within a wide range, over short or even extended periods, due to fluctuations in interest rates and equity markets. In general, with prices rising if interest rates fall, and prices falling if interest rates rise. Debt securities are also often subject to call by their issuer, which means that they could be redeemed before maturity and at a price that is lower than the current market price. Even if not redeemed at a lower price, securities paying a favorable interest rate may be redeemed, resulting in the Advisor having to reinvest a portion of the client's funds at a lower interest rate than is currently being earned. In some cases, exchange traded funds and closed-end funds may employ leverage exacerbating losses.

If debt obligations are issued in currencies other than the U.S. dollar, holders of the instruments will be subject to the risk that such currency may decline in value in relation to the U.S. dollar, so that upon sale or maturity, the amount of the currency received will be convertible into fewer U.S. dollars than at the time the instrument was purchased. Interest payments received would also be worth less in U.S. dollars as a result of such a decline. It is often very difficult to predict fluctuations in the relative value of currencies, and adverse changes in such values could negatively affect a client's performance.

International Sovereign Debt Strategy

This strategy seeks to maximize return by investing in the sovereign, quasi-sovereign and supranational debt instruments of non-U.S. developed nations. The Advisor seeks to provide a rigorous qualitative risk/return process which identifies macroeconomic themes, provides an in-depth evaluation of the sources of investment value, and performs an assessment of sustainability and return potential.

Risks - Investments in foreign markets and foreign securities pose differing risks than investing in U.S. securities. Foreign securities are subject to, and could be adversely affected by, differing political, economic and regulatory environments, different accounting standards, possible currency controls or other adverse political circumstances, as well as ordinary market risks to which all investments are subject. In addition, the prices of debt instruments are potentially subject to wide fluctuations based on changes in interest rates, with market prices rising as interest rates fall, and prices declining as interest rates rise, and the prices of longer-term debt instruments more sensitive to such changes (and therefore more volatile) than those of short- or intermediate-term securities. Debt securities are also subject to the risk of a change in the creditworthiness of their issuer, which could lead to the issuer's default or a downgrading of the issuer's credit rating which, in turn, may reduce the market price of the security.

Debt securities are occasionally subject to call by their issuer, which means that they could be redeemed before maturity and at a price that is lower than the current market price. Even if not redeemed at a lower price, securities paying a favorable interest rate may be redeemed, resulting in the Advisor having to reinvest the client's funds at a lower interest rate than is currently being earned.

Interest payments received would also be worth less in U.S. dollars as a result of such a decline. It is often very difficult to predict fluctuations in the relative value of currencies, and adverse changes in such values could negatively affect a client's performance.

Intermediate Government Strategy:

This portfolio seeks returns that generally correspond to the performance of the U.S. Intermediate-term government bond market as defined by the Barclays Capital U.S. Government Intermediate Index. This strategy invests in intermediate-term (generally up to ten-year maturity) debt instruments guaranteed by the U.S. Government.

Risks - Investments in this strategy may fluctuate within a wide range, over short or even extended periods, due to fluctuations in interest rates in general, with prices rising if interest rates fall, and prices falling if interest rates rise. There also can be no assurance that the bonds selected by the Advisor in this strategy will accurately correspond to the returns of the benchmark index.

Diversified Income Strategy

Formerly known as the Hybrid Income Strategy, this strategy seeks to deliver a high level of income consistent with risk adjusted returns by investing in closed-end and exchange traded funds ("ETFs") which invest in any of the following securities: investment grade fixed-income instruments, high-yield fixed income instruments, master limited partnerships, high yield equities, preferred stocks, REITs and buy/write option strategies designed to generate income through the receipt of option premiums.

Risks - Investments in this strategy may fluctuate within a wide range, over short or even extended periods, due to fluctuations in interest rates and equity markets. In general, with prices rising if interest rates fall, and prices falling if interest rates rise. Debt securities are also often subject to call by their issuer, which means that they could be redeemed before maturity and at a price that is lower than the current market price. Even if not redeemed at a lower price, securities paying a favorable interest rate may be redeemed, resulting in the Advisor having to reinvest a portion of the client's funds at a lower interest rate than is currently being earned. Debt securities are also subject to the risk of a change in the creditworthiness of their issuer, which could lead to the issuer's default or a downgrading of the issuer's credit rating, which in turn, may reduce the market price of the security. See also the discussions below regarding mutual funds and exchange traded funds and options. There is no guarantee that projected returns from dividends will materialize. In some cases, ETFs' and closed-end funds may employ leverage exacerbating losses.

Global Clean Energy Strategy

The SeaCrest Global Clean Energy portfolio tracks the SeaCrest Global Clean Energy Index, a market capitalization weighted equity index designed to serve as a benchmark for global (i.e., both U.S. and international) stocks traded on major U.S. stock exchanges. This portfolio tracks the following clean energy sectors: bio-energy, clean power, energy efficiency, energy management, fuel cells, solar power, water management and wind power.

Risks - Since this strategy concentrates its investments in the clean energy sector to the exclusion of other sectors, this strategy may be subject to greater market risk and potential losses than if client investments were diversified among various sectors, and it may be likely to experience more volatility than a strategy which diversifies its investments. Further, this strategy is subject to the risk that the earnings, dividends, and securities prices of these types of companies will be adversely affected by changes in the prices and supplies of oil, natural gas and other energy fuels. Prices and supplies of energy may fluctuate significantly over any time period due to many factors, including international political developments; production and distribution policies of oil-producing countries; energy conservation; federal, state and foreign regulatory environments; tax policies; and the economic growth and political stability of the key energy-consuming and energy-producing countries.

In addition to the particular risks related to investments in this sector, many of the securities in which the Advisor invests in this strategy may be newer, less well-established, "small capitalization" securities, which tend to be more volatile and less liquid than those of larger, more well-established companies.

MLP Portfolio Strategy

This strategy seeks to deliver a high level of income consistent with risk adjusted returns by investing in publicly-traded master limited partnerships ("MLPs"), exchange-traded funds ("ETFs") and exchange-traded notes ("ETNs"), or debt and equity instruments, with a particular focus on investment opportunities related to the handling, processing and transportation of natural resources."

Risks - Investments in this strategy may fluctuate within a wide range, over short or even extended periods, due to fluctuations in interest rates and equity markets. Since this strategy concentrates its investments in the energy sector to the exclusion of other sectors, this strategy may be subject to greater market risk and potential losses than if client investments were diversified among various sectors, and it may be likely to experience more volatility than a strategy which diversifies its investments. Although the MLPs selected from time to time may be subject to some commodity and energy cycle risk, midstream MLP returns historically have had low correlations to natural gas and oil prices, given that their assets are largely focused in energy infrastructure, including (but not limited to) pipelines, terminals, storage facilities and oil or gas processing, and not energy production. In general, these midstream assets lack commodity price sensitivity and have generally stable fee based revenues. In addition, other risks include, among others, federal and state legal and regulatory risks, as well as the risk that the favorable tax treatment of MLPs could be eliminated.

B. Risk of Loss

Investing in securities involves certain investment risks. Securities may fluctuate in value or lose value. Clients should be prepared to bear the potential risk of loss. SIM will assist Clients in determining an appropriate strategy based on their tolerance for risk and other factors noted above. However, there is no guarantee that a Client will meet their investment goals.

While the methods of analysis help the Advisor in evaluating a potential investment, it does not guarantee that the investment will increase in value. Assets meeting the investment criteria utilized in these methods of analysis may lose value and may have negative investment performance. The Advisor monitors these economic indicators to determine if adjustments to strategic allocations are appropriate. More details on the Advisor's review process are included below in Item 13 – Review of Accounts.

Each Client engagement will entail a review of the Client's investment goals, financial situation, time horizon, tolerance for risk and other factors to develop an appropriate strategy for managing a Client's account. Client participation in this process, including full and accurate disclosure of requested information, is essential for the analysis of a Client's account[s]. The Advisor shall rely on the financial and other information provided by the Client or their designees without the duty or obligation to validate the accuracy and completeness of the provided information. It is the responsibility of the Client to inform the Advisor of any changes in financial condition, goals or other factors that may affect this analysis.

The risks associated with a particular strategy are provided to each Client in advance of investing Client accounts. The Advisor will work with each Client to determine their tolerance for risk as part of the portfolio construction process. Following are some of the risks associated with the Advisor's strategies:

Options Contracts

Investments in options contracts have the risk of losing value in a relatively short period of time. Option contracts are leveraged instruments that allow the holder of a single contract to control many shares of an underlying stock. This leverage can compound gains or losses.

Alternative Investments (Limited Partnerships)

The performance of alternative investments (limited partnerships) can be volatile and may have limited liquidity. An investor could lose all or a portion of their investment. Such investments often have concentrated positions and investments that may carry higher risks. Client should only have a portion of their assets in these investments.

ETF Risks

The performance of ETFs is subject to market risk, including the possible loss of principal. The price of the ETFs will fluctuate with the price of the underlying securities that make up the funds. In addition, ETFs have a trading risk based on the loss of cost efficiency if the ETFs are traded actively and a liquidity risk if the ETFs has a large bid-ask spread and low trading volume. The price of an ETF fluctuates based upon the market movements and may dissociate from the index being tracked by the ETF or the price of the underlying investments. An ETF purchased or sold at one point in the day may have a different price than the same ETF purchased or sold a short time later.

Mutual Fund Risks

The performance of mutual funds is subject to market risk, including the possible loss of principal. The price of the mutual funds will fluctuate with the value of the underlying securities that make up the funds. The price of a mutual fund is typically set daily therefore a mutual fund purchased at one point in the day will typically have the same price as a mutual fund purchased later that same day.

Bond Risks

Bonds are subject to specific risks, including the following: (1) interest rate risks, i.e. the risk that bond prices will fall if interest rates rise, and vice versa, the risk depends on two things, the bond's time to maturity, and the coupon rate of the bond. (2) reinvestment risk, i.e. the risk that any profit gained must be reinvested at a lower rate than was previously being earned, (3) inflation risk, i.e. the risk that the cost of living and inflation increase at a rate that exceeds the income investment thereby decreasing the investor's rate of return, (4) credit default risk, i.e. the risk associated with purchasing a debt instrument which includes the possibility of the company defaulting on its repayment obligation, (5) rating downgrades, i.e. the risk associated with a rating agency's downgrade of the company's rating which impacts the investor's confidence in the company's ability to repay its debt and (6) Liquidity Risks, i.e. the risk that a bond may not be sold as quickly as there is no readily available market for the bond.

Derivative Risks

Derivatives are difficult to define but are present in a wide variety of investments. In finance, derivatives refer to contracts whose value is derived from another asset, which include stocks, bonds, currencies, interest rates, commodities, and related indexes. Oftentimes derivatives are used as a hedge to protect against downside risk but derivatives can also be used to speculate. Purchasers of derivatives are essentially wagering on the future performance of that asset. Derivatives include such widely accepted products as futures and options. Due to the speculative nature of derivatives, even when they are being employed to hedge, unique risks are present including a party's misunderstanding of the contract, inability of the derivative to match or derive its value from the other asset, and the counter-party risk between the parties to the transaction.

Past performance is not a guarantee of future returns. Investing in securities and other investments involve a risk of loss that each Client should understand and be willing to bear. Clients are reminded to discuss these risks with the Advisor.

Item 9 – Disciplinary Information

There are no legal, regulatory or disciplinary events involving SIM or any of its management persons.

SIM values the trust Clients place in the Advisor. The Advisor encourages Clients to perform the requisite due diligence on any advisor or service provider that the Client engages. The backgrounds of the Advisor and its Advisory Persons are available on the Investment Adviser Public Disclosure website at www.adviserinfo.sec.gov by searching with the Advisor's firm name or CRD# 143670.

Item 10 – Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations

Broker-Dealer Affiliation

As noted in Item 5, certain Advisory Persons are also a registered representative of PKS. In one's separate capacity as registered representatives, Advisory Persons will receive commissions for the implementation of recommendations for commissionable transactions. Clients are not obligated to implement any recommendation provided by Advisory Persons. Neither the Advisor nor Advisory Persons will earn ongoing investment advisory fees in connection with any services implemented in an Advisory Persons' separate capacity as a registered representative.

SeaCrest Financial Services, LLC

The Advisor is affiliated, through common control, with SeaCrest Financial Services, LLC ("SFS"), an insurance company. Clients may be offered to implement insurance products through SFS, where an Advisory Person, through its affiliation with SFS, will benefit from any revenue generated and any subsequent distribution. This poses a conflict, where Advisory Persons are incentivized to implement insurance recommendations through SFS. Fees collected from any product implementation do not offset regular advisory fees. Clients are under no obligation to implement or purchase any insurance products through SFS. Please see additional disclosure regarding insurance agency affiliations below.

Insurance Agency Affiliations

Certain Advisory Persons are also licensed insurance professionals. Implementations of insurance recommendations are separate and apart from one's role with SIM. As an insurance professional, the Advisory Person receives customary commissions and other related revenues from the insurance companies whose products are sold. Advisory Persons are not required to offer the products of any particular insurance company. Commissions generated by insurance sales do not offset regular advisory fees. This practice poses a conflict of interest in recommending certain products of the insurance companies. Clients are under no obligation to implement any recommendations made by Advisory Persons or the Advisor.

SeaCrest Wealth Management, LLC

Certain Advisory Persons are also members of SeaCrest Wealth Management, LLC ("SWM"), an affiliated registered investment advisor (CRD# 147092). Advisory Persons may recommend that clients engage SWM to manage all or a portion of a Client's portfolio. Advisory Persons may receive compensation for referring Clients to SWM, which poses a conflict of interest. Clients are not obligated to implement any recommendation provided by SIM and its Advisory Persons.

American Century Kansas City Funds

Mr. Gupta, in his primary capacity, serves as a Board Member of the Independent Board of Directors for the American Century Kansas City Funds ("American Century"). This activity poses a conflict of interest where a majority of Mr. Gupta's income is related to this activity and Mr. Gupta is disengaged from all day-to-day activities at SIM. In order to mitigate this potential conflict of interest, Mr. Gupta will serve in a limited capacity as Partner Emeritus for SIM, where he may occasionally provide assistance for client relationship management purposes and operational concerns of the Advisor.

Item 11 – Code of Ethics, Participation or Interest in Client Transactions and Personal Trading

A. Code of Ethics

SIM has implemented a Code of Ethics (the "Code") that defines the Advisor's fiduciary commitment to each Client. This Code applies to all persons associated with SIM ("Supervised Persons"). The Code was developed to provide general ethical guidelines and specific instructions regarding the Advisor's duties to the Client. SIM and its Supervised Persons owe a duty of loyalty, fairness and good faith towards each Client. It is the obligation of SIM's Supervised Persons to adhere not only to the specific provisions of the Code, but also to the general principles that guide the Code. The Code covers a range of topics that address employee ethics and conflicts of interest. To request a copy of the Code, please contact the Advisor at (914) 502-1905.

B. Personal Trading with Material Interest

SIM allows Supervised Persons to purchase or sell the same securities that may be recommended to and purchased on behalf of Clients, subject to pre-approval by the Chief Compliance Officer ("CCO"). SIM does not act as principal in any transactions. In addition, the Advisor does not act as the general partner of a fund, or advise an investment company. SIM does not have a material interest in any securities traded in Client accounts.

C. Personal Trading in Same Securities as Clients

SIM allows Supervised Persons to purchase or sell the same securities that may be recommended to and purchased on behalf of Clients, subject to pre-approval by the CCO. Owning the same securities that are recommended (purchase or sell) to Clients presents a conflict of interest that, as fiduciaries, must be disclosed to Clients and mitigated through policies and procedures. As noted above, the Advisor has adopted the Code to address insider trading (material non-public information controls); gifts and entertainment; outside business activities and personal securities reporting. When trading for personal accounts, Supervised Persons have a conflict of interest if trading in the same securities. The fiduciary duty to act in the best interest of its Clients can be violated if personal trades are made with more advantageous terms than Client trades, or by trading based on material non-public information. This risk is mitigated by SIM requiring the pre-approval of transactions and the reporting of personal securities trades by its Supervised Persons for review by the CCO or delegate. The Advisor also adopted written policies and procedures to detect the misuse of material, non-public information.

D. Personal Trading at Same Time as Client

SIM allows Supervised Persons to purchase or sell the same securities that may be recommended to and purchased on behalf of Clients subject to pre-approval by the CCO. Such trades are typically aggregated with Client orders or traded afterward. At no time will SIM, or any Supervised Person of SIM, transact in any security to the detriment of any Client.

Item 12 – Brokerage Practices

A. Recommendation of Custodian[s]

SIM does not have discretionary authority to select the broker-dealer/custodian for custody and execution services. The Client will engage the broker-dealer/custodian (herein the "Custodian") to safeguard Client assets and authorize SIM to direct trades to the Custodian as agreed upon in the investment advisory agreement. Further, SIM does not have the discretionary authority to negotiate commissions on behalf of Clients on a trade-by-trade basis. The Client may also authorize the Advisor to trade securities away from the Custodian and arrange for delivery of these securities to the Client's account[s] at the Custodian or another broker-dealer/custodian designated by the Client. For such "trade-away" arrangements, the Custodian will charge a separate trade-away fee in addition to the securities commissions. These trade-away fees are in addition to any commissions and other brokerage fees charged by the executing broker-dealer. Please see Prime Brokerage Authorization below.

Where SIM does not exercise discretion over the selection of the Custodian, the Advisor will typically recommend the Custodian[s] to Clients for custody and execution services. Clients are not obligated to use the Custodian recommended by the Advisor and will not incur any extra fee or cost associated with using a custodian not recommended by SIM. However, the Advisor may be limited in the services it can provide if the recommended Custodian is not utilized. SIM may recommend the Custodian based on criteria such as, but not limited to, reasonableness of commissions charged to the Client, services made available to the Client, and its. SIM will generally recommend that Clients establish their account[s] at Charles Schwab & Co., Inc. ("Schwab"), a FINRA registered broker-dealer and member SIPC. SIM also recommends that that Clients establish their accounts at Interactive Brokers, LLC ("Interactive Brokers"), a FINRA registered broker-dealer and member SIPC. Schwab and Interactive Brokers will serve as the Client's "qualified custodian". SIM maintains an institutional relationship with Schwab and Interactive Brokers, whereby the Advisor receives economic benefits from the Custodian. Please see Item 14 below.

SIM may also recommend other broker-dealer/custodians based on the needs and overall relationship with the Client. The Advisor may receive additional economic benefits from the other broker-dealer/custodians. Please see Item 14 below.

Following are additional details regarding the brokerage practices of the Advisor:

1. Soft Dollars - Soft dollars are revenue programs offered by broker-dealers/custodians whereby an advisor enters into an agreement to place security trades with a broker-dealer/custodian in exchange for research and other services.

On a limited basis, SIM obtains third-party research products and services that are paid for by allocating a portion of SIM's trading activity through Bloomberg Tradebook, LLC, who provides soft dollar payments. While SIM uses these research products and services to benefit all Clients, certain Clients may receive the benefits of these services where their trading activity did not pay for such services.

2. Brokerage Referrals - SIM does not receive any compensation from any third party in connection with the recommendation for establishing an account.

3. Directed Brokerage - All Clients are serviced on a "directed brokerage basis", where SIM will place trades within the established account[s] at the Custodian designated by the Client. Further, all Client accounts are traded within their respective account[s] at the Custodian. The Advisor will not engage in any principal transactions (i.e., trade of any security from or to the Advisor's own account) or cross transactions with other Client accounts (i.e., purchase of a security into one Client account from another Client's account[s]). SIM will not be obligated to select competitive bids on securities transactions and does not have an obligation to seek the lowest available transaction costs. These costs are determined by the Custodian.

4. Prime Brokerage - The Advisor may execute securities transactions either through the Custodian or through another unaffiliated broker-dealer in connection with a prime brokerage relationship established with the Custodian. Should a Client's account[s] make use of prime brokerage, the Client is required to execute additional agreement[s] with the Custodian authorizing the Advisor to trade-away from and settle to the Client's established account[s] at the Custodian. The Custodian may charge an additional trade-away fee for these transactions in addition to the normal securities transaction costs.

B. Aggregating and Allocating Trades

The primary objective in placing orders for the purchase and sale of securities for Client accounts is to obtain the most favorable net results taking into account such factors as 1) price, 2) size of the order, 3) difficulty of execution, 4) confidentiality and 5) skill required of the Custodian. SIM will execute its transactions through the Custodian as authorized by the Client. SIM may aggregate orders in a block trade or trades when securities are purchased or sold through the Custodian for multiple (discretionary) accounts in the same trading day. If a block trade cannot be executed in full at the same price or time, the securities actually purchased or sold by the close of each business day must be allocated in a manner that is consistent with the initial pre-allocation or other written statement. This must be done in a way that does not consistently advantage or disadvantage any particular Client accounts.

Item 13 – Review of Accounts

A. Frequency of Reviews

Securities in Client accounts are monitored on a regular and continuous basis by one of SIM's Advisory Persons. Formal reviews are generally conducted at least annually or more frequently depending on the needs of the Client.

B. Causes for Reviews

In addition to the investment monitoring noted in Item 13.A. above, each Client account shall be reviewed at least annually. Reviews may be conducted more frequently at the Client's request. Accounts may be reviewed as a result of major changes in economic conditions, known changes in the Client's financial situation, and/or large deposits or withdrawals in the Client's account[s]. The Client is encouraged to notify SIM if changes occur in the Client's personal financial situation that might adversely affect the Client's investment plan. Additional reviews may be triggered by material market, economic or political events.

C. Review Reports

The Client will receive brokerage statements no less than quarterly from the Custodian. These brokerage statements are sent directly from the Custodian to the Client. The Client may also establish electronic access to the Custodian's website so that the Client may view these reports and their account activity. Client brokerage statements will include all positions, transactions and fees relating to the Client's account[s]. The Advisor may also provide Clients with periodic reports regarding their holdings, allocations, and performance.

Item 14 – Client Referrals and Other Compensation

A. Compensation Received by SIM

Participation in Institutional Advisor Platform - Schwab

SIM has established an institutional relationship with Schwab through its "Schwab Advisor Services" unit, a division of Schwab dedicated to serving independent advisory firms like SIM. As a registered investment advisor participating on the Schwab Advisor Services platform, SIM receives access to software and related support without cost because the Advisor renders investment management services to Clients that maintain assets at Schwab. Services provided by Schwab Advisor Services benefit the Advisor and many, but not all services provided by Schwab will benefit Clients. In fulfilling its duties to its Clients, the Advisor endeavors at all times to put the interests of its Clients first. Clients should be aware, however, that the receipt of economic benefits from a custodian creates a potential conflict of interest since these benefits may influence the Advisor's recommendation of Schwab over a Custodian that does not furnish similar software, systems support, or services.

Services that Benefit the Client – Schwab’s institutional brokerage services include access to a broad range of investment products, execution of securities transactions, and custody of Client’s funds and securities. Through Schwab, the Advisor may be able to access certain investments and asset classes that the Client would not be able to obtain directly or through other sources. Further, the Advisor may be able to invest in certain mutual funds and other investments without having to adhere to investment minimums that might be required if the Client were to directly access the investments.

Services that May Indirectly Benefit the Client – Schwab provides participating advisors with access to technology, research, discounts and other services. In addition, the Advisor receives duplicate statements for Client accounts, the ability to deduct advisory fees, trading tools, and back office support services as part of its relationship with Schwab. These services are intended to assist the Advisor in effectively managing accounts for its Clients, but may not directly benefit all Clients.

Services that May Only Benefit the Advisor – Schwab also offers other services to SIM that may not benefit the Client, including: educational conferences and events, consulting services and discounts for various service providers. Access to these services creates a financial incentive for the Advisor to recommend Schwab, which results in a potential conflict of interest. SIM believes, however, that the selection of Schwab as the Custodian is in the best interests of its Clients.

Participation in Other Institutional Advisor Platforms

SIM has established an institutional relationship with various broker-dealers/custodians to assist the Advisor in managing Client account[s] (the “Custodian”). Access to an institutional platform is provided at no charge to the Advisor. The Advisor receives access to software and related support without cost because the Advisor renders investment management services to Clients that maintain assets at the Custodian. The software and related systems support may benefit the Advisor, but not its Clients directly. In fulfilling its duties to its Clients, the Advisor endeavors at all times to put the interests of its Clients first. Clients should be aware, however, that the receipt of economic benefits from a Custodian creates a potential conflict of interest since these benefits may influence the Advisor’s recommendation of the Custodian over one that does not furnish similar software, systems support, or services.

B. Client Referrals from Solicitors

If a Client is introduced to SIM by either an unaffiliated party or by a SIM affiliate, SIM may pay that solicitor a referral fee in accordance with the requirements of Rule 206(4)-3 of the Investment Advisers Act of 1940 (the “Advisers Act”), and any corresponding state securities law requirements. The Solicitor will provide the Client with a copy of SIM’s Disclosure Brochure along with a Solicitor’s Disclosure Statement containing the terms and conditions of the solicitation arrangement including compensation. Any such referral fee shall be paid solely from the investment management fees earned by SIM, and shall not result in any additional charge to the Client.

Item 15 – Custody

All Clients must place their assets with a “qualified custodian”. Clients are required to engage the Custodian to retain their funds and securities and direct SIM to utilize that Custodian for the Client’s security transactions. Clients should review statements provided by the Custodian and compare to any reports provided by SIM to ensure accuracy, as the Custodian does not perform this review. For more information about custodians and brokerage practices, see Item 12 - Brokerage Practices.

If the Client gives the Advisor authority to move money from one account to another account, the Advisor may have custody of those assets. In order to avoid additional regulatory requirements in these cases, the Custodian and the Advisor have adopted safeguards to ensure that the money movements are completed in accordance with the Client’s instructions.

Item 16 – Investment Discretion

SIM has discretion over the selection and amount of securities to be bought or sold in Client accounts without obtaining prior consent or approval from the Client. However, these purchases or sales may be subject to specified investment objectives, guidelines, or limitations previously set forth by the Client and agreed to by SIM. Discretionary authority will only be authorized upon full disclosure to the Client. The granting of such authority will be evidenced by the Client's execution of an investment advisory agreement containing all applicable limitations to such authority. All discretionary trades made by SIM will be in accordance with each Client's investment objectives and goals.

Item 17 – Voting Client Securities

The Advisor has the authority to vote Client proxies. The Advisor has adopted proxy-voting guidelines to vote along side with the management of the companies, seeking to ensure votes are made in the best interest of the Advisor's Clients. Furthermore, it is understood that any material conflicts between the Advisor's interests and Clients with regard to proxy voting must be resolved before proxies are voted. Clients of the Advisor may obtain upon request a copy of our Proxy Voting Policies and Procedures and a record of how the Advisor voted a Client's securities by contacting the Advisor at (914) 502-1905.

Item 18 – Financial Information

Neither SIM, nor its management, have any adverse financial situations that would reasonably impair the ability of SIM to meet all obligations to its Clients. Neither SIM, nor any of its advisory persons, has been subject to a bankruptcy or financial compromise. SIM is not required to deliver a balance sheet along with this Disclosure Brochure as the Advisor does not collect fees of $1,200 or more for services to be performed six months or more in advance.
