Brokerage fees/commissions charged to you for securities trade executions may be billed to you by the broker-dealer or custodian of record for your account, not us. Upon receipt of a proper notice of termination (“Termination Notice”) as described in the Agreement, we will calculate a prorata refund of any fees not yet earned by us after the effective termination date of the Agreement. The prorata refund will equal the total number of calendar days remaining in the billing period after the date of the termination of the Agreement to the end of that billing period divided by the total number of calendar days in that billing period. The result of that calculation will be multiplied by the total fee already paid for that billing period. The result of that calculation will represent the refund owed to you. Refunds of advance payments owed back to you shall be paid as

IV.(C). Customization of Advisory Services

To the fullest extent possible, we will endeavor to tailor our advisory services to meet the specific needs of each and every client. In order to determine a suitable course of action for an individual client, we will perform a review of our clients' financial circumstances and other factors that may influence the investment recommendations we may make to you from time to time. Such review may include, but would not necessarily be limited to, investment objectives, consideration of a client's overall financial condition, income and tax status, personal and business assets, risk profile, and other factors unique to a client's particular circumstances.

In making investment recommendations on behalf of a client, we will rely on a data gathering document or other questionnaire, which would be completed based on information provided by a client.

Our clients are free to impose any restrictions or other conditions with regard to how we provide our advisory services. If we agree to such restrictions and/or conditions, please be advised that restrictions and guidelines that you impose on our investment management functions may affect the composition and performance of custom portfolios (as a result, performance of custom portfolios within the same investment objective may differ and you should not expect that the performance of a custom portfolio will be identical to any other individual's portfolio performance) as well as any recommendations provided to you.

IRA Rollover Recommendations

Effective December 20, 2021 (or such later date as the US Department of Labor ("DOL") Field Assistance Bulletin 2018-02 ceases to be in effect), for purposes of complying with the DOL's Prohibited Transaction Exemption 2020-02 ("PTE 2020-02") where applicable, we are providing the following acknowledgment to you.

When we provide investment advice to you regarding your retirement plan account or individual retirement account, we are fiduciaries within the meaning of Title I of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act and/or the Internal Revenue Code, as applicable, which are laws governing retirement accounts. The way we make money creates some conflicts with your interests, so we operate under a special rule that requires us to act in your best interest and not put our interest ahead of yours. Under this special rule's provisions, we must:

- Meet a professional standard of care when making investment recommendations (give prudent advice);
- Never put our financial interests ahead of yours when making recommendations (give loyal advice);
- Avoid misleading statements about conflicts of interest, fees, and investments;
- Follow policies and procedures designed to ensure that we give advice that is in your best interest;
- Charge no more than is reasonable for our services; and
- Give you basic information about conflicts of interest.

We benefit financially from the rollover of your assets from a retirement account to an account that we manage or provide investment advice, because the assets increase our assets under management and, in turn, our advisory fees. As a fiduciary, we only recommend a rollover when we believe it is in your best interest.

IV.(D). Wrap Fee Program Participation

None of our investment advisory services involve the use of wrap programs.

IV. (E). Assets Under Management¹ ("AUM")

AUM (discretionary):	$ 580,261,113
AUM (non-discretionary):	$ 0
Total AUM:	$ 580,261,113
Date of AUM calculation:	December 31, 2022

¹ The term, "assets under management" shall carry the same meaning as that term is defined by Form ADV.

Neither we, nor any of our supervised persons are party to such arrangements.

V.(E).(1). Conflicts of Interest

The instructions in the Form ADV require us to tell you that the receipt or potential for the receipt of Additional Compensation gives our supervised persons an incentive to recommend investment products based on the Additional Compensation received, rather than on your specific needs. As described above in Item V.(E)., neither we nor any of our supervised persons are party to any such arrangement, therefore, no conflict in this regard is present.

V.(E).(2). Client-Directed Brokerage

You have the ability to purchase investment products that we recommend through any broker-dealer or other financial institution you choose. If you choose to use a firm other than the broker-dealer(s) we may normally recommend, we may not be able to properly monitor your assets and therefore we cannot be held responsible for the success or failure of any investment products or strategies that you implement at firms other than those we recommend. In other words, our services and responsibilities will not apply to transactions you effect on your own whether through firms you choose on your own or through any broker-dealer we may recommend.

V.(E).(3). Brokerage Compensation

We are not registered as a broker-dealer and thus, we do not receive transaction-based compensation for securities-related activities.

V.(E).(4). Advisory Fee Offset

Since none of our supervised persons receive compensation other than our advisory fees as described above in Item IV.(B), this issue does not apply to us.

VIII. Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

VIII.(A). Methods of Analysis

In the course of our management process and as appropriate on a case by case basis, we will employ some or all of the following methods of analysis. For a description of the risks related to each particular method of analysis, see the information following each analysis method description. A description of each key risk appears later in this section.

Charting / Technical

The terms “charting” and “technical” analysis are generally used synonymously and therefore, for the purpose of this document, we will use the term, “technical analysis.” In most cases, technical analysis involves the evaluation of historical market data such as price and volume of a particular security or investment instrument. Technical analysis often times involves the use of charts, graphs, and other tools to evaluate historical factors relating to the investment instrument and perhaps the market as a whole. The goal of technical analysis is to try to identify historical trading patterns that suggest future trading activity or price targets.

Key risk(s): Economic Risk, Financial Risk, Inflation Risk, Interest Rate Risk, Legal/Regulatory Risk, Market Risk, Operational Risk, and Strategy Risk.

Fundamental

Fundamental analysis is generally the considered the opposite approach to technical analysis. Fundamental analysis involves the attempt to identify the intrinsic value (i.e. the actual, true/real value) of an investment instrument by examining any related economic, financial, and other quantitative/qualitative factors relevant to that instrument. Fundamental analysis can take into account anything that may impact the underlying value of the instrument. Examples of such things may include large-scale economic issues such as the overall condition or current cycle of the economy, industry-specific or sector-specific conditions, etc. Other company/issuer-specific factors may also be taken into consideration such as the company’s/issuer’s current financial condition, management experience and capabilities, legal/regulatory matters, the overall type and volume of current and expected business, etc.

One of the goals of fundamental analysis is to attempt to derive a value that can be compared to the current market price for a particular financial instrument in hopes of determining whether the instrument is overpriced (time to sell) or underpriced (time to buy).

Key risk(s): Economic Risk, Financial Risk, Inflation Risk, and Interest Rate Risk.

Investing in securities or other investment products involves the risk of loss and you should be prepared to bear such losses.

VIII.(A). Investment Strategies

In the course of our management process and as appropriate on a case by case basis, we will employ any of the following investment strategies. For a description of the risks related to each particular investment strategy, see the information following each strategy description. The codes used below relate to risks described further below in this section.

Long-Term Purchases

Long-term purchases generally involve the acquisition of an investment instrument and holding it for a period of at least one year.

Key risk(s): Capital Risk, Economic Risk, Financial Risk, Inflation Risk, Interest Rate Risk, Legal/Regulatory Risk, Liquidity Risk, Market Risk, Operational Risk, Strategy Risk.

Short-Term Purchases

Short-term purchases generally involve the acquisition of an investment instrument and holding it for a period of not more than one year.

Key risk(s): Capital Risk, Economic Risk, Financial Risk, Higher Trading Costs, Interest Rate Risk, Legal/Regulatory Risk, Liquidity Risk, Market Risk, Operational Risk, Strategy Risk.

Margin Trading

Margin trading, or “trading on margin,” as it is generally stated, involves the ability to purchase a dollar value of securities that is greater than the dollar value of funds you have available for the purchase. Essentially, trading on margin means that you can borrow additional funds, generally from the firm that holds your brokerage account, to purchase investment instruments that exceed the amount with which you have funded your account.

Key risk(s): Capital Risk, Economic Risk, Financial Risk, Interest Rate Risk, Legal/Regulatory Risk, Liquidity Risk, Market Risk, Operational Risk, Strategy Risk.

Investing in securities or other investment products involves the risk of loss and you should be prepared to bear such losses.

VIII.(B). Risk Disclosures

Capital Risk

Capital risk is one of the most basic, fundamental risks of investing; it is the risk that you may lose 100 percent of your money. All investments carry some form of risk and the loss of capital is generally a risk for any investment instrument.

Credit Risk

Credit risk can be a factor in situations where an investment’s performance relies on a borrower’s repayment of borrowed funds. With credit risk, an investor can experience a loss or unfavorable performance if a borrower does not repay the borrowed funds as expected or required. Investment holdings that involve forms of indebtedness (i.e. borrowed funds) are subject to credit risk.

Currency Risk

Fluctuations in the value of the currency in which your investment is denominated may affect the value of your investment and thus, your investment may be worth more or less in the future. All currency is subject to swings in valuation and thus, regardless of the currency denomination of any particular investment you own, currency risk is a realistic risk measure. That said, currency risk is generally a much larger factor for investment instruments denominated in currencies other than the most widely used currencies (U.S. dollar, British pound, German mark, Euro, Japanese yen, French franc, etc.).

Economic Risk

The prevailing economic environment is important to the health of all businesses. Some companies, however, are more sensitive to changes in the domestic or global economy than others. These types of companies are often referred to as cyclical businesses. Countries in which a large portion of businesses are in cyclical industries are thus also very economically sensitive and carry a higher amount of economic risk. If an investment is issued by a party located in a country that experiences wide swings from an economic standpoint or in situations where certain elements of an investment instrument are hinged on dealings in such countries, the investment instrument will generally be subject to a higher level of economic risk.

Financial Risk

Financial risk is represented by internal disruptions within an investment or the issuer of an investment that can lead to unfavorable performance of the investment. Examples of financial risk can be found in cases like Enron or many of the dot com companies that were caught up in a period of extraordinary market valuations that were not based on solid financial footings of the companies.

Higher Trading Costs

For any investment instrument or strategy that involves active or frequent trading, you may experience larger than usual transaction-related costs. Higher transaction-related costs can negatively affect overall investment performance.

Inflation Risk

Inflation risk involves the concern that in the future, your investment or proceeds from your investment will not be worth what they are today. Throughout time, the prices of resources and end-user products generally increase and thus, the same general goods and products today will likely be more expensive in the future. The longer an investment is held, the greater the chance that the proceeds from that investment will be worth less in the future than what they are today. Said another way, a dollar tomorrow will likely get you less than what it can today.

Interest Rate Risk

Certain investments involve the payment of a fixed or variable rate of interest to the investment holder. Once an investor has acquired or has acquired the rights to an investment that pays a particular rate (fixed or variable) of interest, changes in overall interest rates in the market will affect the value of the interest-paying investment(s) they hold. In general, changes in prevailing interest rates in the market will have an inverse relationship to the value of existing, interest paying investments. In other words, as interest rates move up, the value of an instrument paying a particular rate (fixed or variable) of interest will go down. The reverse is generally true as well.

Legal/Regulatory Risk

Certain investments or the issuers of investments may be affected by changes in state or federal laws or in the prevailing regulatory framework under which the investment instrument or its issuer is regulated. Changes in the regulatory environment or tax laws can affect the performance of certain investments or issuers of those investments and thus, can have a negative impact on the overall performance of such investments.

Liquidity Risk

Certain assets may not be readily converted into cash or may have a very limited market in which they trade. Thus, you may experience the risk that your investment or assets within your investment may not be able to be liquidated quickly, thus, extending the period of time by which you may receive the proceeds from your investment. Liquidity risk can also result in unfavorable pricing when exiting (i.e. not being able to quickly get out of an investment before the price drops significantly) a particular investment and therefore, can have a negative impact on investment returns.

Market Risk

The market value of an investment will fluctuate as a result of the occurrence of the natural economic forces of supply and demand on that investment, its particular industry or sector, or the market as a whole. Market risk may affect a single issuer, industry or sector of the economy or may affect the market as a whole. Market risk can affect any investment instrument or the underlying assets or other instruments held by or traded within that investment instrument.

Operational Risk

Operational risk can be experienced when an issuer of an investment product is unable to carry out the business it has planned to execute. Operational risk can be experienced as a result of human failure, operational inefficiencies, system failures, or the failure of other processes critical to the business operations of the issuer or counter party to the investment.

Past Performance

Charting and technical analysis are often used interchangeably. Technical analysis generally attempts to forecast an investment's future potential by analyzing its past performance and other related statistics. In particular, technical analysis often times involves an evaluation of historical pricing and volume of a particular security for the purpose of forecasting where future price and volume figures may go. As with any investment analysis method, technical analysis runs the risk of not knowing the future and thus, investors should realize that even the most diligent and thorough technical analysis cannot predict or guarantee the future performance of any particular investment instrument or issuer thereof.

Strategy Risk

There is no guarantee that the investment strategies discussed herein will work under all market conditions and each investor should evaluate his/her ability to maintain any investment he/she is considering in light of his/her own investment time horizon. Investments are subject to risk, including possible loss of principal.

VIII.(C). Investment-Specific Risks

There is no single type of investment instrument that we predominantly recommend, however, please be mindful that all investments carry some form and degree of risk. Certain types of investments carry greater types and levels of risk than others and you should make sure that you fully understand not only the investment product itself but also the attendant risk factors associated with such products.

On occasion, we may invest for our own accounts or have a financial interest in the same securities or other investments that we recommend or acquire for the accounts of our clients. Further, we may also engage in transactions that are the same as or different than transactions recommended to or made for our client's accounts. Such transactions are permitted if effected, pre-cleared and reported in compliance with our policy on personal securities transactions. Generally, personal securities transactions will not be pre-cleared when an order for the same or a related security is pending for the account of a client. Our Designated Supervisor reviews reports of personal transactions in securities by all of our associated persons quarterly or more frequently if required.

Investment Policy

None of our associated persons may effect for himself/herself or for accounts in which he/she holds a beneficial interest, any transactions in a security which is being actively recommended to any of our clients, unless in accordance with the following procedures.

Firm Procedures

In order to implement our Investment Policy, the following procedures have been put into place.

- 1) If we are recommending that any of our clients buy any security, no associated person may purchase that security prior to a client's purchase of that security; and
- 2) If we are recommending that any of our clients sell any security, no associated person may sell that security prior to a client's sale of that security.

As an alternative to the procedures described in the preceding points, we may included our own order(s) in a batch order with other client orders that would involve average pricing for the entire batch such that we would receive the same pricing as all other clients participating in the batch.

It is the primary intent of these procedures to ensure that the best interests of our clients are always served over that of our own. Trading on our own behalf that results in our own interests being served over that of our clients could be considered a breach of our fiduciary duty and thus, is aggressively discouraged.

XI.(D) Trading Around the Same Time as Clients

The information in this item is intended to address situations in which we or any of our related persons may invest in the investment instruments we may recommend to you. Since we do not make recommendations as to specific securities instruments, no such arrangements exist.

Transactions for the client's account generally will be effected independently, unless we decide to purchase or sell the same securities for several clients at the same or approximately the same time. We may (but are not obligated to) combine or "batch" such orders in order to obtain best execution or to negotiate more favorable transaction rates. To the extent that we elect to aggregate client orders for the purchase or sale of securities, including securities in which our associated persons may invest, we will generally do so in accordance with the parameters set forth in SEC No-Action Letter, SMC Capital, Inc. We will not receive any additional compensation or remuneration as a result of a batched order.

XII. Brokerage Practices

The purpose of this Item is to present to you the factors that we take into consideration when (1) selecting or recommending broker-dealers to you for the purpose of effecting transactions on your behalf and (2) for determining the reasonableness of such broker-dealers' compensation related to such transactions.

BIG will select brokers based on a number of factors, including, but not limited to:

- Speed and accuracy of order execution,
- Cost of services rendered,
- Research and statistical assistance made available to BIG.

Other factors may include such entity's financial strength, reputation, pricing, and service. In return for effecting securities transactions through certain broker-dealers/custodians, BIG or certain of its representatives may receive certain investment research products and/or services. Such investment research products and/or related services may assist BIG in its investment decision-making process for all of BIG's clients.

In seeking best execution, the determinative factor is not always the lowest possible cost, but whether the transaction represents the best qualitative execution, taking into consideration the full range of a broker-dealer services, including factors such as the value of research provided, execution capability, commission rates, and responsiveness. Accordingly, although BIG will seek competitive rates, it may not necessarily obtain the lowest possible commission rates for client account transactions. Although the investment research products and/or services that may be obtained by BIG will generally be used to service all of BIG's clients, a brokerage commission paid by a specific client may be used (indirectly and in part) to pay for research that is not used in managing that specific client's account.

The reasonableness of brokerage commissions will be evaluated through objective comparison with rates charged for comparable services by other brokers and subjective estimates by the principals of the appropriate cost of such services. Research services received from brokers will consist of primarily historical information about companies being evaluated and their market environment, general tax, business information, and economic trend information. Selection of brokers will be based on each clients' best interests, and, in many instances, a broker with a higher commission rate than another broker will be selected where the importance to the clients of other factors, such as execution reliability and research service availability, outweighs the additional costs. To the extent that these other factors affect BIG's brokerage selections, clients may bear disproportionately more of the costs of these other factors, including research services.

XII.(A).(1). Research and Soft Dollar Benefits

Soft dollar benefits are items such as research or other products or services (other than the typical execution and other brokerage services available to all other investment advisers) that an investment adviser may receive from a broker-dealer(s) or other party in connection with the client securities transactions are directed to that particular broker-dealer(s).

We do not participate in soft dollar arrangements.

XII.(A).(2). Brokerage for Client Referrals

In certain circumstances, firms like ours may receive client referrals as a result of recommending particular broker-dealers or other service providers. We, however, do not participate in any formal arrangements wherein we receive client referrals from any particular broker-dealer in return for selecting or recommending such broker-dealer.

XII.(A).(3). Directed Brokerage

This item is intended to address situations where we may recommend, request, or require you to provide us instructions as to how to direct brokerage activity on your behalf.

XII.(A).(3)(a). Directed Brokerage – Recommended, Requested, or Required

Not all investment advisers require their clients to direct brokerage activity through any particular broker-dealer. We do not routinely recommend, request, or require that you direct us as to how to execute brokerage transactions on your behalf (i.e. using a particular broker-dealer for execution purposes).

XII.(A).(3)(b). Directed Brokerage – Permitted

Not all investment advisers require their clients to direct brokerage activity through any particular broker-dealer, however, you may direct us to use a particular broker-dealer (subject to our right to decline such a request) to execute some or all transactions for your account or otherwise on your behalf. In such an event, we will not negotiate terms and arrangements for the account with the other broker-dealer, and we will not seek better execution services or prices from other broker-dealers or be able to “batch” the transactions for execution through other broker-dealers with orders for other accounts we manage. As a result, you may pay higher commissions or other transaction costs or greater spreads, or receive less favorable net prices, on transactions for the account than would otherwise be the case.

XII.(B). Order Batching

Transactions for the client’s account generally will be effected independently, unless we decide to purchase or sell the same securities for several clients at the same or approximately the same time. We may (but are not obligated to) combine or “batch” such orders in order to obtain best execution or to negotiate more favorable transaction rates. Reasoning for attempting to effect a batch order is that we may need to trade in the same security for multiple accounts at or around the same time and batching may allow us to achieve a more favorable price on average for all clients. Batching, however, doesn’t guarantee the lowest possible price for execution, however, it is intended to reduce the overall volatility in execution price for a large # of orders that if not batched together, may experience significantly different execution prices. Conversely, in the event that we do not batch a group of orders that otherwise may be a prime candidate for a batched order, the resulting cost for some clients may be higher or lower than what we might be able to achieve by processing a batched order for the benefit of those same clients.

On most occasions BIG utilizes block trades to allocate a particular stock purchase or sale over multiple clients accounts. In these instances, proprietary trades are not included, Commission rates are the same for all clients participating in each block trade, and the criteria for including or excluding certain accounts in a block trade is solely based on the needs and objectives of any singular client. Clients are not excluded if the block trade is or can be advantageous to any particular clients.

XIII. Review of Accounts

XIII.(A). Review of Accounts or Financial Plans

Review of client accounts.

We will review your accounts on an ongoing basis, but no less frequently than a quarterly basis. The Designated Supervisor (i.e. the person named in our written supervisory procedures as the responsible party for this function) will review your accounts for best execution, suitability, and service. The Designated Supervisor will review the performance and cost basis for your transactions. Your investment objectives are used to review for suitability. Quarterly, transactions are reviewed referencing your investment objectives for any transaction that may not fit your stated objectives, or our understanding of your investment objectives will be flagged and reviewed with the investment adviser representative placing the trade.

Name and title of Designated Supervisor: Dale R. Hajost, EVP/CCO. Mr. Hajost will employ the procedures noted above for the client's accounts subject to BIG's investment advisory services.

Review of Financial Plans.

Since we do not offer financial planning, this section is not applicable to us.

XIII.(B). Non-Periodic Account Reviews

Events that may trigger further client account reviews in addition to the standard quarterly review process may include, but would not be limited to, a notable increase in the volume of requests by the client to effect transactions in his/her accounts, where such transactions may appear to be inconsistent with the client's previously stated investment objectives. Other factors may include requests by the client to liquidate certain securities positions/contracts where such transactions may appear to be inconsistent with the client's previously stated investment objectives. Additional triggering factors could be the performance on an individual account being an outlier to the performance of accounts with similar investment objectives, and a very important trigger would be customer complaints. This last trigger would be a prime example of a trigger for an intermittent review of a client account.

XIII.(C). Reports to Clients

Account statements will be provided no less frequently than quarterly by the custodian, not by us.

Account statements will identify account positions, balances, and transaction details. Upon your request, a quarterly account appraisal (written or electronic) may be created for you as well as an annual year-end statement.

In the event we also send account statements to you in addition to those provided by the qualified custodian, you are urged to compare any account statements provided by us to those provided by the custodian.

XIV. Client Referrals and Other Compensation

XIV.(A). Compensation we Receive

Other than the compensation arrangements described above in Item IV.(B), BIG does not receive any other compensation in connection with the investment advisory services provided to our clients.

XIV.(B). Compensation we Pay

Under certain circumstances, firms like ours may compensate other parties for having referred clients or potential investment advisory clients to us. These sorts of arrangements are generally referred to as "referral" arrangements.

From time to time, we may enter into agreements with various independent parties who may refer prospective investment advisory clients to us. We do not charge clients referred by third-parties fees or costs greater than the fees or costs that we would normally charge any other clients who were not introduced by a referring third-party sources, and have similar portfolios under management with us. Any such agreements will be handled in accordance with the provisions of Rule 206(4)-1 under the Investment Advisers Act of 1940. The specific compensation arrangements vary from situation to situation but can be found in the specific solicitor disclosure document relating to each such solicitor arrangement. For more information on our solicitor arrangements, please call 404-233-9341

In the event that we also provide you information related to your accounts, you are urged to review that information to the information contained on the account statements or other statements received from the qualified custodian.

In connection with our investment advisory services, we will generally seek and obtain your authorization to carry out part of our services on a purely discretionary basis. We will memorialize your authorization of our discretionary authority in our investment advisory agreement.

If you have authorized us to do so, we will exercise discretion over the following areas.

- 1) The specific securities to be bought or sold on the client's behalf
- 2) The amount of securities to be bought or sold on the client's behalf
- 3) Timing as to when such securities are to be bought or sold
- 4) The particular broker or dealer to be used for arranging client securities transactions

We will have authority to exercise complete discretion with regard to the above named factors without restriction. If done so on a non-discretionary basis, we will make certain recommendations that must be authorized by you prior to our facilitation of any such transactions. As may be separately agreed to in writing, we will observe any other specific limitations that may be imposed by you in relation to this discretionary authority.

XVII. Voting Client Securities

XVII.(A). Proxy Voting

Proxy Voting Policies and Procedures and Client Instruction

We do not vote proxies on behalf of any securities you own.

In the event that you have authorized (via the Agreement) us to vote proxies on your behalf, we will perform the voting process for you subject to the following information and procedures. Alternatively, if you provide us with other, specific instructions as to how we are to carry out the proxy voting process on your behalf, we will do so. Such instructions must be written and included in or as part of our Agreement.

In an effort to assure that clients' proxy votes are carried out in our clients' best interests and not affected by any conflicts of interest that may exist, we have adopted the following elements as part of our proxy voting policy.

Regardless of the nature of the issue up for vote, we thoroughly and objectively research the voting options and the corporate landscape in order to arrive at a decision that we believe meets the best interests of the client as a shareholder of the company in question. The overriding theme of our policy is to vote client proxies in the manner that we believe is most consistent with the following:

- The client's stated investment objectives
- The client's desired voting interests
- The long-term well-being of the company soliciting the proxy
- An increase in shareholder value

Conflicts of Interest...

We recognize that conflicts of interest may arise when voting your proxies. A conflict of interest exists when your best interests are contrary to our best interests due to some relationship between the us and/or our associated persons and a company that is soliciting a proxy. Some examples may include:

- The spouse of one of our associated persons is a board member of a company whose management is soliciting proxies to vote on a salary increase for the board.
- We are an affiliated company of a company that has issued a proxy notice to individuals who are our clients.
- We or one or more of our affiliates may manage a pension plan, administer employee benefit plans, or provide brokerage, underwriting, insurance, or banking services to a company whose management is soliciting proxies.

It is our policy to vote proxies in the best interests of its clients regardless of the existence of any conflict of interest.

As authorized in our Agreement, we may exercise complete discretionary voting authority in relation to proxy notices that we receive on your behalf. If no apparent conflict of interest exists in relation to our exercise of our voting authority on your behalf, we shall vote all such proxies as we see fit and in your best interest.

Under certain circumstances, the most prudent action on our part may be NOT to vote a proxy(s). Under such circumstances, we shall ensure that appropriate records are maintained so as to justify not having voted such proxy(s).

How to obtain our proxy voting record...

We will ensure that a complete record is retained of the initial proxy notice and the subsequent vote that we cast on your behalf. For a copy of our proxy voting record on your behalf, please write or call us at:
