ITEM 5 METHODS OF ANALYSIS, INVESTMENT STRATEGIES AND RISK OF LOSS

- A. MPC's securities and analysis methods do not include traditional fundamental, technical and cyclical analysis. MPC is solely an investment consultant and does not, in its normal course of business, advise on specific securities. Clients typically utilize investment advisors to manage their portfolios which may be invested across a broad array of asset classes. Some clients may choose to implement certain investment programs with selected investment organizations utilizing vehicles regulated as securities, such as an investment company securities or limited partnership interests.

Other methods of analysis may include interviews and on-site visits with investment managers.

MPC's analytical focus is on recommending suitable investment managers for clients; MPC does not engage in analysis of individual equity or fixed income securities. These investment managers, in turn, select individual securities for each client based on the investment manager's stated investment strategy.

- B. Investing in securities involves risks of loss that clients should be prepared to bear. The principal risks associated with MPC's Consulting Services are:

General Investment Risk, i.e., the risk of deterioration in the financial markets in general;

Strategy Risk, i.e., the risk that MPC's investment asset allocation strategies and/or investment techniques may not work as intended;

Investment Manager Risk, i.e., the risks associated with the presentation of third-party investment management firms, such as fraud, deviation from defined strategies, human or system error and poor judgment.

General Investment Risk. All investments in securities and other financial instruments involves substantial risk of volatility (potentially resulting in rapid declines in market prices and significant losses) arising from any number of factors that are beyond the control of MPC and the investment managers that it recommends, such as changing market sentiment, changes in inflation, exchange or interest rates, changing domestic or international economic or political conditions or events or changes in tax laws and governmental regulation. Changes such as these, as well as innumerable other factors, are often unpredictable and unforeseeable, rendering it difficult or impossible to predict or foresee future market movements.

Strategy Risk. MPC will use its best efforts to present suitable investment managers for clients. MPC's investment strategies and/or investment techniques may not work as intended because of the results of the presented strategies to properly meet client objectives. MPC will also use its best efforts to ascertain significant details regarding the strategies used by the investment managers that it recommends. In many cases, however, MPC will not be given access to all required information.

Investment Manager Risk. MPC will not have custody or control over the assets managed by the investment managers. Clients are at risk if the investment manager fails to perform or exercises fraud, misrepresentation or simple bad judgment. Among other things, an investment manager could divert or abscond with the assets allocated to it, fail to follow its stated investment strategy and restrictions, issue false reports or engage in other misconduct. This could result in serious losses to the client.
