Clients receiving this service are encouraged to stay in contact with Fairhaven Financial. Fairhaven Financial offers quarterly or semiannual investment reviews to Clients. However, it is up to the Client to contact Fairhaven Financial to arrange for an investment review if it has not occurred at least semiannually. Clients should contact Fairhaven Financial promptly if there has been any change in their current financial status to determine if there needs to be a change in investment objectives or risk tolerance. Clients may call the office at any time during normal business hours to request an investment review as needed or to discuss directly with Joseph R. Brooks, Jonathan R. Brooks, Joshua Roberds or Rachel C. Anderson issues regarding their account, financial situation or investment needs. Limited Investment Advisory Services

Fairhaven Financial also offers a limited investment advisory service for clients that do not have a need for our Gold Medal Services. This service is offered on both a discretionary and non-discretionary basis. This service involves the creation of an investment portfolio based on the client's specific needs and situation. Clients should contact Fairhaven Financial promptly if there has been any change in their current financial status information to determine if there needs to be a change in investment objectives or risk tolerance. Retirement Plan Services

Investment Advisory Service - Fairhaven Financial also offers investment advisory services for certain qualified retirement plans. This covers the services described in “Investment Advisory Services” above, as well as the recommendation of a Third Party Administrator for the plan client, but does not include the services offered under Gold Medal Services.

Employer Sponsored Plan Advisor Services (“ESPAS”)- We offer non-discretionary consulting to 401(k) plans and their trustees with respect to such matters as:

- (1) Enrollment of employees into the plan;
- (2) Recommendation of 3(38) ERISA fiduciary for management of plan assets;
- (3) Recommendation of third party administrator for the plan;
- (4) Offer to meet with participants on an annual basis to address questions regarding their plan, not to provide investment advisory services.

All plans to which we provide ESPAS are regulated under the Employee Retirement Income Securities Act ("ERISA"). The plan fiduciary is free to seek independent advice about the appropriateness of any recommended services for the plan.

General Consultation and Financial Planning Services

Fairhaven Financial offers General Consultation and Financial Planning Services on an hourly or flat fee basis. Consultations can be general or focused in nature, depending upon the needs of the Client. General Consultation and Financial Planning Services to be provided to the Client will be outlined on the “Financial Services Agreement” signed by the Client. After completion/delivery of the General Consultation and/or Financial Planning Services there is no further obligation for implementation or monitoring.

As the Financial Statement is established, recommendations may be offered in relation to the Client’s needs.

The Financial Planning process may include the following:

1. Initial Client Meeting to review and determine which financial planning services are applicable.
2. Obtain financial data and discuss applicable issues for preparation of the report from the selected financial planning service(s).

Client Tailored Services and Client Imposed Restrictions

We offer the same suite of services to all of our clients. However, specific client services and their implementation are dependent upon a client's current situation (income, tax levels, investment objectives, and risk tolerance). This is used to construct a client specific portfolio that matches restrictions and needs.

Wrap Fee Programs

We do not participate in wrap fee programs.

Fairhaven Financial may conduct seminars and/or teach classes on various financial topics. Fees for seminars and/or classes range from $0-$100 per person. Fees are not negotiable. Fees may be modified for groups based upon the number of attendees and the complexity of the seminar or class content. Seminar or class fees will be due prior to or on the day of the seminar or class as set forth in the seminar or class invitation or announcement.

Other Types of Fees and Expenses

Our fees are exclusive of brokerage commissions, transaction fees, and other related costs and expenses that may be incurred by the client. Clients may incur certain charges imposed by custodians, brokers, and other third parties such as custodial fees, deferred sales charges, odd-lot differentials, wire transfer and electronic fund fees, and other fees and taxes on brokerage accounts and securities transactions. Mutual funds also charge internal management fees, which are disclosed in a fund's prospectus. Such charges, fees and commissions are exclusive of and in addition to our fee, and we shall not receive any portion of these commissions, fees, and costs.

Item 12 further describes the factors that we consider in selecting or recommending broker-dealers for client's transactions and determining the reasonableness of their compensation (e.g., commissions).

We do not accept compensation for the sale of securities or other investment products including asset-based sales charges or service fees from the sale of mutual funds.

Item 6: Performance-Based Fees and Side-By-Side Management

We are not compensated on the basis of a share of capital gains upon or capital appreciation of the funds or any portion of the funds of the client.

Item 7: Types of Clients

Clients are individuals, defined benefit pension plans, defined contribution plans, trusts, estates, charitable organizations, corporations and other business entities.

Minimum Account Sizes

Fairhaven Financial requires a minimum account size of $100,000 for Clients receiving our Gold Medal Services. Often, IRA's, Inherited IRA's and Roth IRA Conversions are under the minimum account size of $100,000. Fairhaven Financial has the ability to waive the minimum portfolio size at its discretion. There is no minimum portfolio size for Limited Investment Advisory Services.

Item 8: Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

Clients are asked their investment objectives and risk tolerance upon establishment of an account. This information is documented via the New Account Form ("NAF") at the opening of the account. Based on this information, an asset allocation based portfolio is created for the client.

Subject to suitability requirements, we generally advise the long-term purchase of mutual funds to our Clients. Long-term purchases are typically defined as the purchase of securities held for at least a year.

When pursuing our long-term purchases strategy, we are assuming the financial markets will go up in the long-term which may not be the case. There is also the risk that the segment of the market that you are invested in or perhaps just your particular investment will go down over time even if the overall financial markets advance. In addition, purchasing investments long-term may create an opportunity cost - "locking-up" assets that may be better utilized in the short-term in other investments.

Material Risks Involved

All investing strategies we offer involve risk and may result in a loss of your original investment which you should be prepared to bear. Material risks associated with our investment strategies are listed below.

Manager Risk: the risk that an actively managed mutual fund's investment adviser will fail to execute the fund's stated investment strategy.

Market Risk: the risk that the stock market will decline, decreasing the value of the securities contained within the mutual funds we recommend to you.

Industry Risk: the risk that a group of stocks in a single industry will decline in price due to adverse developments in that industry, decreasing the value of mutual funds that are significantly invested in that industry.

Inflation Risk: the risk that the rate of price increases in the economy deteriorates the returns associated with the mutual fund.

Listed above are some of the primary risks associated with the way we recommend investments to you, please do not hesitate to contact us to discuss these risks and others in more detail. Please refer to the mutual fund's prospectus for specific risks associated with the fund.

Risks Associated with Securities

Apart from the general risks outlined above which apply to all types of investments, specific securities may have other risks.

Common stocks may go up and down in price quite dramatically, and in the event of an issuer's bankruptcy or restructuring could lose all value. A slower-growth or recessionary economic environment could have an adverse effect on the price of all stocks.

Corporate Bonds are debt securities to borrow money. Generally, issuers pay investors periodic interest and repay the amount borrowed either periodically during the life of the security and/or at maturity. Alternatively, investors can purchase other debt securities, such as zero coupon bonds, which do not pay current interest, but rather are priced at a discount from their face values and their values accrete over time to face value at maturity. The market prices of debt securities fluctuate depending on such factors as interest rates, credit quality, and maturity. In general, market prices of debt securities decline when interest rates rise and increase when interest rates fall. The longer the time to a bond's maturity, the greater its interest rate risk.

Municipal Bonds are debt obligations generally issued to obtain funds for various public purposes, including the construction of public facilities. Municipal bonds pay a lower rate of return than most other types of bonds. However, because of a municipal bond's tax-favored status, investors should compare the relative after-tax return to the after-tax return of other bonds, depending on the investor's tax bracket. Investing in municipal bonds carries the same general risks as investing in bonds in general. Those risks include interest rate risk, reinvestment risk, inflation risk, market risk, call or redemption risk, credit risk, and liquidity and valuation risk.

Investment Companies Risk. When a client invests in open end mutual funds or ETFs, the client indirectly bears its proportionate share of any fees and expenses payable directly by those funds. Therefore, the client will incur higher expenses, many of which may be duplicative. In addition, the client's overall portfolio may be affected by losses of an underlying fund and the level of risk arising from the investment practices of an underlying fund (such as the use of derivatives). ETFs are also subject to the following risks: (i) an ETF's shares may trade at a market price that is above or below their net asset value; (ii) the ETF may employ an investment strategy that utilizes high leverage ratios; or (iii) trading of an ETF's shares may be halted if the listing exchange's officials deem such action appropriate, the shares are de-listed from the exchange, or the activation of market-wide "circuit breakers" (which are tied to large decreases in stock prices) halts stock trading generally. The Adviser has no control over the risks taken by the underlying funds in which clients invest.

Item 9: Disciplinary Information

- a) A criminal or civil action in a domestic, foreign or military court of competent jurisdiction, involving any of the following:

Joseph Brooks, Rachel Anderson, and Lara Hernandez are licensed as registered representatives of Innovation Partners, LLC , a FINRA Broker/Dealer. As such, in their separate capacity as registered representatives, they will be able to effect securities transactions for your account, for which they will receive separate and customary compensation. While they endeavor at all times to put the interest of our clients first as part of our firm's fiduciary duty, you should be aware that the receipt of additional compensation itself creates a conflict of interest and may affect their judgment when making recommendations.

No Fairhaven Financial employee is registered, or has an application pending to register, as a futures commission merchant, commodity pool operator or a commodity trading advisor.

Insurance products and financial planning services are provided to Clients for personal, estate and business needs. Joseph R. Brooks and Jonathan R. Insurance products are often recommended to help minimize Clients' exposure in identified risks. Clients are under no obligation to purchase insurance products or utilize the companies recommended by Fairhaven Financial. Clients are advised the commissions received for insurance products purchased by Clients are in addition to any advisory fees Clients may have paid Fairhaven Financial. Therefore, Fairhaven Financial has a conflict of interest in having Clients purchase insurance products through Fairhaven Financial.

Please note: Casualty insurance is an important coverage that requires review. However, Fairhaven Financial does not review casualty insurance issues. The Client should review these coverages with a casualty insurance professional of their choice.

Recommendations or Selections of Other Investment Advisers

Fairhaven Financial does not select other investment advisers for its clients. Fairhaven Financial does recommend other Investment Advisers as 3(38) fiduciaries to ERISA plan sponsors under their Employer Sponsored Plan Advisor Services, however the plan sponsor enters into a direct agreement with the other Investment Adviser and Fairhaven Financial does not receive any compensation from the other Investment Adviser.

Item 11: Code of Ethics, Participation or Interest in Client Transactions and Personal Trading

As a fiduciary, our firm and its associates have a duty of utmost good faith to act solely in the best interests of each client. Our clients entrust us with their funds and personal information, which in turn places a high standard on our conduct and integrity. Our fiduciary duty is a core aspect of our Code of Ethics and represents the expected basis of all of our dealings.

Code of Ethics Description

This code does not attempt to identify all possible conflicts of interest, and literal compliance with each of its specific provisions will not shield associated persons from liability for personal trading or other conduct that violates a fiduciary duty to advisory clients. A summary of the Code of Ethics' Principles is outlined below.

- Integrity - Associated persons shall offer and provide professional services with integrity.
- Objectivity - Associated persons shall be objective in providing professional services to clients.
- Competence - Associated persons shall provide services to clients competently and maintain the necessary knowledge and skill to continue to do so in those areas in which they are engaged.
- Fairness - Associated persons shall perform professional services in a manner that is fair and reasonable to clients, principals, partners, and employers, and shall disclose conflict(s) of interest in providing such services.

Our firm will provide of copy of its Code of Ethics to any client or prospective client upon request.

Investment Recommendations Involving a Material Financial Interest and Conflicts of Interest

Neither our firm, its associates or any related person is authorized to recommend to a client, or effect a transaction for a client, involving any security in which our firm or a related person has a material financial interest, such as in the capacity as an underwriter, adviser to the issuer, etc.

Advisory Firm Purchase of Same Securities Recommended to Clients and Conflicts of Interest

Our firm and its "related persons" may buy or sell securities similar to, or different from, those we recommend to clients for their accounts. In an effort to reduce or eliminate certain conflicts of interest involving the firm or personal trading, our policy may require that we restrict or prohibit associates' transactions in specific reportable securities transactions. Any exceptions or trading pre-clearance must be approved by the firm principal in advance of the transaction in an account, and we maintain the required personal securities transaction records per regulation.

Trading Securities at/Around the Same Time as Client's Securities

From time to time, our firm or its "related persons" may buy or sell securities for themselves at or around the same time as clients. We will not trade non-mutual fund securities prior to the same security for clients, on the same day.

Investment Advice Relating to Retirement Accounts

When we provide investment advice to you regarding your retirement plan account or individual retirement account, we are fiduciaries within the meaning of Title I of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act and/or the Internal Revenue Code, as applicable, which are laws governing retirement accounts. The way we make money creates some conflicts with your interests, so we operate under a special rule that requires us to act in your best interest and not put our interest ahead of yours. Under this special rule's provisions, we must:

- Meet a professional standard of care when making investment recommendations (give prudent advice);
- Never put our financial interests ahead of yours when making recommendations (give loyal advice);
- Avoid misleading statements about conflicts of interest, fees, and investments;
- Follow policies and procedures designed to ensure that we give advice that is in your best interest;
- Charge no more than is reasonable for our services; and
- Give you basic information about conflicts of interest.

In addition, and as required by this rule, we provide information regarding the services that we provide to you, and any material conflicts of interest, in this brochure and in your client agreement.

Item 12: Brokerage Practices

Fairhaven Financial does not maintain custody of your assets on which we advise, although we may be deemed to have custody of your assets if you give us authority to withdraw assets from your account (see Item 15—Custody, below). Your assets must be maintained in an account at a "qualified custodian," generally a broker-dealer or bank. We recommend that our clients use Charles Schwab & Co., Inc. (Schwab), a registered broker-dealer, member SIPC, as the qualified custodian. We are independently owned and operated and are not affiliated with Schwab. Schwab will hold your assets in a brokerage account and buy and sell securities when we instruct them to. While we recommend that you use Schwab as custodian, you will decide whether to do so and will open your account with Schwab by entering into an account agreement directly with them. We do not open the account for you, although we may assist you in doing so.

Factors Used to Select Custodians and/or Broker-Dealers

We seek to recommend a custodian that will hold your assets and execute transactions on terms that are, overall, most advantageous when compared with other available providers and their services. We consider a wide range of factors, including:

- Combination of transaction execution services and asset custody services (generally without a separate fee for custody)
- Capability to execute, clear, and settle trades (buy and sell securities for your account)
- Capability to facilitate transfers and payments to and from accounts (wire transfers, check requests, bill payment, etc.)
- Breadth of available investment products (stocks, bonds, mutual funds, exchange-traded funds, etc.)
- Availability of investment research and tools that assist us in making investment decisions
- Quality of services
- Competitiveness of the price of those services (commission rates, margin interest rates, other fees, etc.) and willingness to negotiate the prices
- Reputation, financial strength, and stability
- Prior service to us and our other clients
- Availability of other products and services that benefit us, as discussed below (see “Products and services available to us from Schwab”)

Brokerage and Custody Costs

For our clients’ accounts that Schwab maintains, Schwab generally does not charge you separately for custody services but is compensated by charging you commissions, 12b-1 fees (that we do not receive), or other fees on trades that it executes or that settle into your Schwab account. This commitment benefits you because the overall commission rates you pay are lower than they would be otherwise. We have determined that having Schwab execute your trades is consistent with our duty to seek “best execution” of your trades. Best execution means the most favorable terms for a transaction based on all relevant factors, including those listed above (see “Factors Used to Select Custodians and/or Broker-Dealers”).

Products and services available to us from Schwab

Schwab Advisor Services™ (formerly called Schwab Institutional®) is Schwab’s business serving independent investment advisory firms like us. They provide us and our clients with access to its institutional brokerage services (trading, custody, reporting, and related services), many of which are not typically available to Schwab retail customers. Schwab also makes available various support services. Some of those services help us manage or administer our clients’ accounts, while others help us manage and grow our business. Schwab’s support services are generally available on an unsolicited basis (we don’t have to request them) and at no charge to us. Following is a more detailed description of Schwab’s support services:

Services that benefit you. Schwab’s institutional brokerage services include access to a broad range of investment products, execution of securities transactions, and custody of client assets. The investment products available through Schwab include some to which we might not otherwise have access or that would require a significantly higher minimum initial investment by our clients. Schwab’s services described in this paragraph generally benefit you and your account.

Services that may not directly benefit you. Schwab also makes available to us other products and services that benefit us but may not directly benefit you or your account. These products and services assist us in managing and administering our clients' accounts. They include investment research, both Schwab's own and that of third parties. We may use this research to service all or a substantial number of our clients' accounts, including accounts not maintained at Schwab. In addition to investment research, Schwab also makes available software and other technology that:

- Provide access to client account data (such as duplicate trade confirmations and account statements)
- Facilitate trade execution and allocate aggregated trade orders for multiple client accounts
- Provide pricing and other market data
- Facilitate payment of our fees from our clients' accounts
- Assist with back-office functions, recordkeeping, and client reporting

Services that generally benefit only us. Schwab also offers other services intended to help us manage and further develop our business enterprise. These services include:

- Educational conferences and events
- Consulting on technology, compliance, legal, and business needs
- Publications and conferences on practice management and business succession
- Access to employee benefits providers, human capital consultants, and insurance providers

Schwab may provide some of these services itself. In other cases, it will arrange for third-party vendors to provide the services to us. Schwab may also discount or waive its fees for some of these services or pay all or a part of a third party's fees. Schwab may also provide us with other benefits, such as occasional business entertainment of our personnel.

Our interest in Schwab's services

The availability of these services from Schwab benefits us because we do not have to produce or purchase them. We do not have to pay for Schwab's services. These services are not contingent upon us committing any specific amount of business to Schwab in trading commissions or assets in custody. We may have an incentive to recommend that you maintain your account with Schwab, based on our interest in receiving Schwab's services that benefit our business rather than based on your interest in receiving the best value in custody services and the most favorable execution of your transactions. This is a potential conflict of interest. We believe, however, that our selection of Schwab as custodian and broker is in the best interests of our clients. Our selection is primarily supported by the scope, quality, and price of Schwab's services (see "Factors Used to Select Custodians and/or Broker-Dealers") and not Schwab's services that benefit only us.

1. Research and Other Soft-Dollar Benefits

We currently do not receive soft dollar benefits.

2. Brokerage for Client Referrals

We receive no referrals from a broker-dealer or third party in exchange for using that broker-dealer or third party.

3. Clients Directing Which Broker-dealer/Custodian to Use

We do recommend a specific custodian for clients to use, however, clients may custody their assets at a custodian of their choice. Clients may also direct us to use a specific broker-dealer to execute transactions. By allowing clients to choose a specific custodian, we may be unable to achieve most favorable execution of client transaction and this may cost clients' money over using a lower-cost custodian.

Aggregating (Block) Trading for Multiple Client Accounts

Investment advisers may elect to purchase or sell the same securities for several clients at approximately the same time when they believe such action may prove advantageous to clients. This process is referred to as aggregating orders, batch trading or block trading. We generally do not engage in block trading, however depending on the specific situation or the trade, we may aggregate trades on a limited basis. It should be noted that implementing trades on a block or aggregate basis might be less expensive for client accounts; however, our normal trading policy is to implement all client orders on an individual basis. Considering the types of investments we hold in advisory client accounts and the fact that we provide our investment advisory services on a non-discretionary basis, we do not believe clients are hindered in any way because we trade accounts individually. This is because we develop individualized investment strategies for clients, and holdings will vary. Our strategies are primarily developed for the long-term, and minor differences in price execution are not material to our overall investment strategy.

Item 13: Review of Accounts

Gold Medal and Retirement Plan Investment Advisory Services involve monitoring and review of portfolio assets upon client request during their investment review meetings. Fairhaven Financial offers quarterly or semiannual investment reviews to Clients. This review may be completed either in person or over the phone. However, it is up to the Client to contact Fairhaven Financial to arrange for an investment review if it has not occurred at least semiannually. The reviewers will be Joseph R. Brooks, President and Principal of Fairhaven Financial, Jonathan R. Brooks, Investment Adviser Representative, Joshua S. Roberds, Investment Adviser Representative or Rachel C. Anderson, Investment Adviser Representative. Reviews consist of an examination of investment account holdings. Fairhaven Financial does not provide investment supervisory services. Clients under these services are encouraged to stay in contact with Fairhaven Financial. Clients should contact Fairhaven Financial promptly if there has been any change in their current financial status to determine if there needs to be a change in investment objectives or risk tolerance. Clients may call the office at any time during normal business hours to request an investment review as needed or to discuss directly with Joseph R. Brooks, Jonathan R. Brooks, Joshua S. Roberds or Rachel C. Anderson issues regarding the Client's account, financial situation or investment needs.

Clients who retain Fairhaven Financial for Gold Medal and Retirement Plan Investment Advisory Services will receive quarterly reports from Fairhaven Financial of the assets held in the Client's account listing the securities held and their market value. Clients receive account statements from their qualified custodian monthly, quarterly, or as transactions occur. We urge clients to compare our reports against the account statements they receive from their custodian. Quarterly reports are not provided to clients in the Limited Investment Advisory Services.

Accounts under Limited Investment Advisory Services are reviewed on a periodic basis; reviews conducted by Joseph R. Brooks, Jonathan R. Brooks or Rachel C. Anderson, will consist of an examination of investment account holdings. Fairhaven Financial does not provide investment supervisory services. Clients should contact Fairhaven Financial promptly if there has been any change in their current financial status to determine if there needs to be a change in investment objectives or risk tolerance.

Clients may retain Fairhaven Financial for General Consultation or Financial Planning Services, which terminate upon the delivery of services; no reviews of the account or ongoing services are performed. It would be the Client's responsibility to update his or her financial goals or secure additional services of Fairhaven Financial.

Item 14: Client Referrals and Other Compensation

We do not receive any economic benefit, directly or indirectly from any third party for advice rendered to our clients. Nor do we directly or indirectly compensate any person who is not advisory personnel for client referrals.

We receive an economic benefit from Schwab in the form of the support products and services it makes available to us and other independent investment advisers whose clients maintain their accounts at Schwab. These products and services, how they benefit us, and the related conflicts of interest are described above (see Item 12—Brokerage Practices). The availability to us of Schwab's products and services is not based on us giving particular investment advice, such as buying particular securities for our clients.

Item 15: Custody

Fairhaven Financial does not accept custody of client funds, other than direct fee deduction from client accounts. Clients should receive at least quarterly statements from the broker dealer, bank or other qualified custodian that holds and maintains client's investment assets. We urge you to carefully review such statements and compare such official custodial records to the account statements or reports that we may provide to you. Our statements or reports may vary from custodial statements based on accounting procedures, reporting dates, or valuation methodologies of certain securities.

Item 16: Investment Discretion

Fairhaven Financial manages clients' portfolios on a continuous basis, offering both discretionary and non-discretionary services. Investment discretion is explained to clients in detail when an advisory relationship has commenced. At the start of the advisory relationship, the client will execute a Limited Power of Attorney, which will grant our firm discretion over the account. Additionally, the discretionary relationship will be outlined in the advisory contract and signed by the client. Clients may impose reasonable restrictions on investing in certain securities, types of securities, or industry sectors.

For non-discretionary services, Fairhaven Financial will give advance notice and seek the Client's consent for any changes to their portfolio.

Item 17: Voting Client Securities

We do not vote Client proxies. Therefore, Clients maintain exclusive responsibility for: (1) voting proxies, and (2) acting on corporate actions pertaining to the Client's investment assets. The Client shall instruct the Client's qualified custodian to forward to the Client copies of all proxies and shareholder communications relating to the Client's investment assets. If the client would like our opinion on a particular proxy vote, they may contact us at the number listed on the cover of this brochure.

In most cases, you will receive proxy materials directly from the account custodian. However, in the event we were to receive any written or electronic proxy materials, we would forward them directly to you by mail, unless you have authorized our firm to contact you by electronic mail, in which case, we would forward you any electronic solicitation to vote proxies.

Item 18: Financial Information

We do not have custody of client funds or securities or require or solicit prepayment of more than $1,200 in fees per client six months or more in advance.
