Item 4 - Advisory Business

Cavan Capital Management LLC is a registered investment adviser based in Naples, Florida. We are a limited liability company formed under the laws of the State of Delaware. We have been providing investment advisory services since 2014. Jim Reilly is the CEO and Chief Compliance Officer, and primary owner of the firm. Currently, we offer portfolio management services for each client.

As used in this brochure, the words “we,” “our,” and “us” refer to Cavan Capital Management LLC and the words “you,” “your,” and “client” refer to you as either a client or prospective client of our firm.

Portfolio Management Services

Our firm offers discretionary portfolio management services to our clients through equity portfolios. Discretionary portfolio management means we will make investment decisions and place buy or sell orders in your account without contacting you. These decisions would be made based upon your stated investment objectives. If you wish, you may limit our discretionary authority by, for example, setting a limit on the type of securities that can be purchased for your account. Simply provide us with your restrictions or guidelines in writing.

Our investment advice is tailored to meet our clients’ needs and investment objectives. If you decide to hire our firm to manage your portfolio, we will gather your financial information, determine your goals, and help you decide how much risk you should take in your investments.

If you engage us for portfolio management services, we will monitor your portfolio’s performance on a continuous basis, and rebalance the portfolio whenever necessary, as changes occur in market conditions and/or your financial circumstances.

You will be required to sign an agreement with Cavan Capital Management LLC. You may terminate your advisory relationship with Cavan Capital Management LLC according to the terms of your agreement. You should review the brochure for specific information on how you may terminate your advisory relationship with Cavan Capital Management LLC and how you may receive a refund, if applicable. You should contact Jim Reilly directly for questions regarding your advisory agreement.

Note: Clients are instructed to contact their tax professionals or attorneys for tax or legal advice.

Types of Investments

Generally, we invest in equity securities, options contracts on securities, and exchange traded funds, among others.

You may impose restrictions on investments in particular securities or certain types of securities. You must provide these restrictions to our firm in writing.

Wrap Fee Programs

Cavan Capital Management LLC does not manage or sponsor any wrap fee programs.

Assets Under Management

As of October 18, 2023, Cavan Capital Management LLC had approximately $ $12,814,640 in discretionary regulatory assets under management. We did not have any non-discretionary regulatory assets under management.

Item 5 – Fees and CompensationPortfolio Management Fees

For portfolio management services, Cavan Capital Management LLC charges a 1% annual management fee regardless of asset size being managed. Our fee for portfolio/asset management services is set forth in the following fee schedule:

	Annualized Fee
Any Asset Size	1.0%

Portfolio management fees may be negotiable depending on factors such as the amount of assets under management, range of investments, and complexity of the client's financial circumstances, among others. The agreed upon fee to be paid by the client will be clearly stated in the agreement signed by the client and the firm. Management fees are payable on a biannual basis. Any unearned fees will be returned to clients. If the agreement is executed at any time other than the first day of a calendar month, our fees will apply on a pro rata basis, which means that the advisory fee is payable in proportion to the number of days in the month for which you are a client.

We will deduct our fee directly from your account through the qualified custodian holding your funds and securities provided that:

- The client provides written authorization permitting the fees to be paid directly from the client's account held by the custodian. Cavan Capital Management LLC does not have access to client funds for payment of fees without client consent in writing.
- Cavan Capital Management LLC sends the client an invoice showing the amount of the fee, the time period covered by the fee, the value of the client's assets on which the fee is based, and the specific manner in which the fee was calculated.
- Cavan Capital Management LLC discloses to the client that it is the client's responsibility to verify the accuracy of the fee calculation and that the custodian will not determine whether the fee is properly calculated.
- Cavan Capital Management LLC will send an invoice to the custodian indicating the amount of the fee to be paid by the custodian.
- The custodian agrees to send the client a statement, at least quarterly, indicating all amounts dispersed from the account, including the amount of the advisory fee paid directly to Cavan Capital Management LLC. Please review each statement for accuracy. Cavan Capital Management LLC will also receive a copy of your account statements from the custodian.

Fees are usually deducted from a single designated client asset account to facilitate billing. The client must consent in advance to direct debiting of any such account. In limited circumstances, at the sole discretion of Cavan Capital Management LLC, we may agree to invoice you directly for our advisory fee or we may negotiate other fee payment arrangements.

Our annual fee is exclusive of, and in addition to brokerage commissions, transaction fees, and other related costs and expenses which will be incurred by the client. However, we will not receive any portion of the commissions, fees, and costs. Please see Item 12 – Brokerage Practices for further information on brokerage and transaction costs.

Either party may terminate the agreement upon 30 days' prior written notice to the other party. Fees will be pro-rated for any partial month. Any prepaid, unearned fees (if any) will be promptly refunded to the client.

Additional Fees and Expenses

As part of our investment advisory services to you, we may invest, or recommend that you invest, in mutual funds and exchange traded funds. The fees that you pay to our firm for investment advisory services are separate and distinct from the fees and expenses charged by mutual funds or exchange traded funds (described in each fund's prospectus) to their shareholders. These fees will generally include a management fee and other fund expenses. You will also incur transaction charges and/or brokerage fees when purchasing or selling securities. These charges and fees are typically imposed by the broker-dealer or custodian through whom your account transactions are executed. We do not share in any portion of the brokerage fees/transaction charges imposed by the broker-dealer or custodian. To fully understand the total cost you will incur, you should review all the fees charged by mutual funds, exchange traded funds, our firm, and others. For information on our brokerage practices, please refer to the "Brokerage Practices" section of this Disclosure Brochure.

Item 6 - Performance-Based Fees and Side-By-Side Management

Performance based fees are based on a share of capital gains on or capital appreciate of the client's assets. Cavan Capital Management LLC does not accept performance based fees.

Item 7 - Types of Clients

We offer portfolio management services to individuals and high net worth individuals. Cavan Capital Management LLC does require a minimum account size or relationship size of $500,000 for an advisory relationship with our firm but may make exceptions to this minimum from time to time.

Item 8 - Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

Generally, Cavan Capital uses fundamental analysis to provide clients with equity portfolios. Fundamental analysis is a technique that attempts to determine a security's value by focusing on underlying factors that affect a company's actual business and its future prospects. The term refers to the analysis of historical valuation and the economic well-being of a financial entity as opposed to only its price movements. The primary risk of using fundamental analysis when providing investment advice is that the stock price of a company is not necessarily reflective of or otherwise directly correlated to such factors when determining value.

We may use one or more of the following investment strategies when advising you on investments:

- Long Term Purchases – securities held for over a year. When pursuing a long-term purchase strategy, the adviser assumes that financial markets will go up in the long-term, which may not be the case. There is also the risk that the segment of the market that clients are invested in, or perhaps just a client's particular investment, will go down over time even if the overall financial markets advance. In addition, purchasing investments long-term may create an opportunity cost by "locking-up" assets that may be better utilized in the short-term in other investments.

- Short Term Purchases – securities held for less than a year. The primary risk in using a short-term purchase strategy is the general assumption that we can predict how financial markets will perform in the short-term, which may be very difficult and will incur a disproportionately higher amount of transaction costs compared to long-term trading. There are many factors that can affect financial market performance in the short-term (such as short-term interest rate changes, cyclical earnings announcements, etc.) but may have a smaller impact over longer periods of times.
- Frequent Trading – securities are sold within 30 days. The principal type of risk associated with trading is market risk. There can be no assurance that a specific investment will achieve its investment objectives and past performance should not be seen as a guide to future returns. The value of investments and the income derived may fall as well as rise and investors may not recoup the original amount invested. Investments may also be affected by any changes in exchange control regulation, tax laws, withholding taxes, international, political and economic developments, and government, economic or monetary policies. Additionally, trading is speculative. Market movements are difficult to predict and are influenced by, among other things, government trade, fiscal, monetary and exchange control programs and policies; changing supply and demand relationships; national and international political and economic events; changes in interest rates; and the inherent volatility of the marketplace. In addition, governments from time to time intervene, directly and by regulation, in certain markets, often with the intent to influence prices directly. The effects of governmental intervention may be particularly significant at certain times in the financial instrument markets and such intervention (as well as other factors) may cause these markets to move rapidly.
- Options – an option is the right, but not the obligation, to buy or sell a particular security at a specified price before the expiration date of the option. When an investor sells an option, he or she must deliver to the buyer a specified number of shares if the buyer exercises the option. The seller pays the buyer a premium (the market price of the option at a particular time) in exchange for writing the option. Options are complex investments and can be very risky, especially if the investor does not own the underlying stock. In certain situations, an investor's risk can be unlimited.

The below section does not disclose all of the risks and other significant aspects of investing in financial markets. In light of the risks, you should fully understand the nature of the contractual relationship(s) into which you are entering and the extent of your exposure to risk. Certain investing strategies may not be suitable for everyone. You should carefully consider whether the strategies employed would be appropriate for you in light of your experience, objectives, financial resources and other relevant circumstances.

Investing in securities involves risk of loss that you should be prepared to bear.

General Investment Risk: All investments come with the risk of losing money. Investing involves substantial risks, including complete possible loss of principal plus other losses and may not be suitable for everyone. Investments, unlike savings and checking accounts at a bank, are not insured by the government to protect against market losses. Different market instruments carry different types and degrees of risk and you should familiarize yourself with the risks involved in the particular market instruments in which you intend to invest.

Loss of Value: There can be no assurance that a specific investment will achieve its investment objectives and past performance should not be seen as a guide to future returns. The value of investments and the income derived may fall as well as rise and investors may not recoup the original amount invested. Investments may also be affected by any changes in exchange control regulation, tax laws, withholding taxes, international, political, and economic developments, and government, economic, or monetary policies.

Interest Rate Risk: Fixed income securities and funds that invest in bonds and other fixed income securities may fall in value if interest rates change. Generally, the prices of debt securities rise when interest rates fall, and their prices fall when interest rates rise. Longer-term debt securities are usually more sensitive to interest rate changes.

Credit Risk: Investments in bonds and other fixed income securities are subject to the risk that the issuer(s) may not make required interest payments. An issuer suffering an adverse change in its financial condition could lower the credit quality of a security, leading to greater price volatility of the security. A lowering of the credit rating of a security may also offset the security's liquidity, making it more difficult to sell. Funds investing in lower quality debt securities are more susceptible to these problems and their value may be more volatile.

Foreign Exchange Risk: Foreign investments may be affected favorably or unfavorably by exchange control regulations or changes in the exchange rates. Changes in currency exchange rates may influence the share value, the dividends or interest earned and the gains and losses realized. Exchange rates between currencies are determined by supply and demand in the currency exchange markets, the international balance of payments, governmental intervention, speculation, and other economic and political conditions. If the currency in which a security is denominated appreciates against the US Dollar, the value of the security will increase. Conversely, a decline in the exchange rate of the currency would adversely affect the value of the security.

Risks Associated with Investing in Equities: Investments in equities generally refers to buying shares of stocks by an individual or firms in return for receiving a future payment of dividends and capital gains if the value of the stock increases. There is an innate risk involved when purchasing a stock that it may decrease in value and the investment may incur a loss.

Risks Associated with Investing in Exchange Traded Funds (ETF): Investing in stocks & ETF's carries the risk of capital loss (sometimes up to a 100% loss in the case of a stock holding bankruptcy). Investments in these securities are not guaranteed or insured by the FDIC or any other government agency.

Recommendation of Particular Types of Securities

As disclosed under the Advisory Business section in this brochure, we may provide advice on several types of securities and we do not necessarily recommend one particular type of security over another since each client has different needs and different tolerance for risk. Each type of security has its own unique set of risks associated with it and it would not be possible to list here all of the specific risks of every type of investment. Even within the same type of investment, risks can vary widely. However, in very general terms, the higher the anticipated return of an investment, the higher the risk of loss associated with that investment.

Item 9 - Disciplinary Information

Registered investment advisers are required to disclose all material facts regarding any legal or disciplinary events that would be material to your evaluation of us or of the integrity of our management. Neither Cavan Capital Management LLC nor Mr. Jim Reilly or Mr. Michael Reilly has a history of material legal or disciplinary events that are required to be reported in this section.

The Code includes Cavan Capital Management LLC policies and procedures developed to protect client's interests in relation to the following topics:

- The duty at all times to place the interests of clients first;
- The requirement that all personal securities transactions be conducted in such a manner as to be consistent with the code of ethics.

In addition, Cavan Capital Management LLC and its principals, including Mr. Jim Reilly and Mr. Michael Reilly, will take positions in the same securities as clients. This is considered a conflict of interest. We may also combine our orders to purchase securities with your orders to purchase securities ("block trading"). Please refer to the Brokerage Practices section below at Item 12 of this brochure for information on our block trading practices.

Cavan Capital Management LLC and its principals will generally be "last in" and "last out" when trading occurs in close proximity to client trades. However, at all times, we endeavor to uphold our fiduciary responsibilities to our clients. Front running (trading shortly ahead of clients) is prohibited. In the unlikely event should a conflict occur because of materiality (e.g., a thinly traded stock), disclosure will be made to the client(s) at the time of trading.
