Further information about the CFP® designation:

The CFP® designation is granted by the Certified Financial Planner Board of Standards, Inc. Qualifications for the CFP® designation are discussed below.

Education: CFP® professionals must develop their theoretical and practical financial planning knowledge by completing a comprehensive course of study at a college or university offering a financial planning curriculum approved by CFP Board. Other options for satisfying the education component include submitting a transcript review or previous financial planning-related course work to CFP Board for review and credit, or showing the attainment of certain professional designations or academic degrees.

Examination: CFP® practitioners must pass a comprehensive two-day, 10-hour CFP® Certification Examination that tests their ability to apply financial planning knowledge in an integrated format. Based on regular research of what planners do, the exam covers the financial planning process, tax planning, employee benefits and retirement planning, estate planning, investment management and insurance.

Experience: CFP® professionals must have three years minimum experience in the financial planning process prior to earning the right to use the CFP® certification marks. As a result, CFP® practitioners possess financial counseling skills in addition to financial planning knowledge.

Ethics: As a final step to certification, CFP® practitioners agree to abide by a strict code of professional conduct, known as CFP Board's Code of Ethics and Professional Responsibility, that sets forth their ethical responsibilities to the public, clients and employers. CFP Board also performs a background check during this process, and each individual must disclose any investigations or legal proceedings related to their professional or business conduct.

Continuing Education: Each CFP® certificant, once certified, must complete a re-certification every two years. Those seeking to maintain their certifications must complete a minimum of 30 hours of continuing education, including two hours of study relating to the CFP® Board's Main Line Group Wealth Management, LLC is solely focused on the business of investment management. Its principal, Douglas Kobak, spends the majority of his professional time devoted to MLGWM. He has several complementary business activities described below.

Douglas is a licensed insurance agent and can affect transactions in insurance products for his clients and earn commissions for these activities. Main Line Group expects that clients to whom it offers advisory services may also be clients for whom Douglas acts as an insurance agent. Clients are instructed that the fees paid to Main Line Group for advisory services are separate and distinct from the commissions earned by Douglas for placing clients in insurance products. Clients to whom Douglas offers advisory services are informed that they are under no obligation to use Douglas' insurance services and may use the insurance brokerage firm and agent of their choice.

Main Line Group Wealth Management, LLC also provides investment management services on a discretionary basis to private investment fund(s). He serves as Managing Member of the respective General Partner(s). The General Partner receives a portion of overall profits (i.e., a performance-based fee) subject to terms described in the offering documents. This arrangement creates an incentive to favor those with a performance-based fee over other accounts. These conflicts are addressed in that any client considering such an investment will be given detailed information concerning the fee structure and risks of these investments.

Douglas serves as Principal of Main Line Group Consulting ("MLGC"). An entity where he and other insurance professionals aggregate areas of expertise to offer services to business owners (e.g., succession planning, employee benefits advisory, and financial planning). All investment advisory services will be provided by MLGWM and require a signed investment advisory agreement. Any recommendations pertaining to employee benefits are provided by licensed insurance professionals. Mr. Kobak does not receive any compensation from his association with MLGC.

Douglas serves as the Sole Member of a limited liability company ("LLC") that was created for a specific investment purpose and will be wound down in 2023.
