The principal owners are Nicholas Kolbensschlag, Tyler Kolbensschlag and Steven Lindgren.

B. Types of Advisory Services

Portfolio Management Services

CWG offers discretionary and non- discretionary ongoing portfolio management services based on the individual goals, objectives, time horizon, and risk tolerance of each client. CWG creates an Investment Policy Statement for each client, which outlines the client’s current situation (income, tax levels, and risk tolerance levels) and then constructs a plan to aid in the selection of a portfolio that matches each client's specific situation. Portfolio management services include, but are not limited to, the following:

- Investment strategy
- Asset allocation
- Risk tolerance
- Personal investment policy
- Asset selection
- Regular portfolio monitoring

CWG evaluates the current investments of each client with respect to their risk tolerance levels and time horizon. Risk tolerance levels are documented in the Investment Policy Statement, which is given to each client.

CWG seeks to provide that investment decisions are made in accordance with the fiduciary duties owed to its accounts and without consideration of CWG’s economic, investment or other financial interests. To meet its fiduciary obligations, CWG attempts to avoid, among other things, investment or trading practices that systematically advantage or disadvantage certain client portfolios, and accordingly, CWG’s policy is to seek fair and equitable allocation of investment opportunities/transactions among its clients to avoid favoring one client over another over time. It is CWG’s policy to allocate investment opportunities and transactions it identifies as being appropriate and prudent among its clients on a fair and equitable basis over time.

Selection of Other Advisers

CWG may direct clients to third-party investment advisers. Before selecting other advisers for clients, CWG will verify that all recommended advisers are properly licensed, notice filed, or exempt in the states where CWG is recommending the adviser to clients.

On-going Financial Planning/ Personal CFO (“Chief Financial Officer”) Services

CWG provides On-going Financial Planning/ Personal CFO Services to clients. The Financial Planning/ Personal CFO Services will include creating a financial plan and the on-going monitoring of the plan progress along with factors described below. These services may include but are not limited to:

Goals-Based Planning & Investing

We believe that each of your goals should be approached independently when it comes to building an investment plan and allocating resources to that plan. As we continue to grow your wealth, we will benchmark the performance of each pool of dollars against the actual goal. This allows us to demonstrate to you how the growth is having a material impact on your life plan. Our Investment Committee has the experience needed to navigate all markets and ensure your portfolio goals are met.

Generational Wealth Planning

An area of advice that is typically siloed outside of the wealth management industry is the management of real estate assets within an overall portfolio. With real estate playing an integral part of most family wealth pictures, Tyler Kolbensschlag, through his affiliation with Berkshire Hathaway HomeServices Carolinas Realty, is able to represent our clients in the acquisition and sale of their primary homes, vacation properties, and investment holdings.

Real Estate

An area of advice that is typically siloed outside of the wealth management industry is the management of real estate assets within an overall portfolio. With real estate playing an integral part of most family wealth pictures, Tyler Kolbensschlag, through his affiliation with Berkshire Hathaway HomeServices Carolinas Realty, is able to represent our clients in the acquisition and sale of their primary homes, vacation properties, and investment holdings.

Lifestyle Services

There are many transactions in life that require careful planning and detailed follow through to ensure you are making the right decision and that all the important pieces come together. We quarterback the process from start to finish for major purchases like boats, cars, homes, and life's other fun toys. Other concierge services include travel planning, club memberships, and entertainment experiences, just to name a few.

Wealth Transfer

Unfortunately, life can be unpredictable and we want to always be prepared for any situation that may arise. Our team of advisors will build and implement a wealth transfer strategy that ensures what you've built moves smoothly to the next generation or generations. We do this in the most tax efficient way possible to ensure you're making the greatest impact. This includes properly written Wills, Trusts, and Powers of Attorney, followed by ensuring your account beneficiaries match those decisions. For business owners, this can include long-term succession planning often accompanied by Buy/Sell Agreements, at times, funded by Key-Man life insurance.

Organize & Simply Your Financial Life

Utilizing our industry leading technology, we are able to aggregate all of your assets, liabilities, income, and expenses in one place, in real time. We then organize and keep up-to-date your most important documents in your digital vault so you never have to search for that crucial piece of paper again.

Executive Compensation Planning

Stock option and equity award plans offer a tremendous opportunity to create additional wealth that, if properly utilized, can speed you to your life/wealth goals. Our team first educates you on your plan specifics, then builds an on-going strategy to ensure you're maximizing the benefit you receive, all while being cautious of the potential tax consequences. We proactively reach out to you when a vesting occurs providing details, recommendations, and an execution plan.

Business Strategy/Mergers and Acquisitions

A key strength of our team is bringing together your business and personal life into one congruent picture. We understand that owning and running a business may be your key wealth creation strategy, like it is ours, and our team can help you take full advantage of the opportunity that it presents.

We can help you take your business full cycle, from start-up to exit, all while incorporating it into your family's life plan. When ready to make your exit or transition, we ensure our clients recognize the full value of their business while implementing a proper tax strategy to keep more of what you make. Our team has run point on a growing number of business acquisitions to include coordinating contract negotiation, legal, tax, lending, accounting, and operational transition.

Cash Flow Analysis

Utilizing that same technology, we are able to identify where your dollars are being utilized and determine the most effective way to prioritize spending vs. saving. Through our systematized review process, we will collaboratively create the discipline needed to achieve your most important life goals.

Tax Planning

It's not about what you make, it's about what you keep. Our team works with your CPA, or ours, to build a plan before the year starts to ensure we are executing for 365 days every year, minimizing your taxes to the largest degree possible. There are many advanced strategies that can be implemented to lower your tax bill and put more dollars in your pocket and/or into your investments.

Risk Management

Growing your wealth is a priority, but protecting and preserving that wealth is equally as important. Our team will analyze multiple areas of risk to ensure you have the proper coverage and/or asset protection structures in place. This includes advice on life, disability, health, personal lines and various specialty insurance policies, as well as asset protection strategies through property entity structuring.

Strategic Giving Strategies

Most families don't have a dedicated strategy for making charitable contributions, and simply donate cash when asked or are feeling compelled to help. By creating a strategic gifting strategy, the impact of your dollars can be compounded greatly. While cash is a good option, donating highly appreciated, non-cash assets like stock or private business interests can save you even more on taxes, and provide additional dollars for you to save, invest, or donate. Our team can show you how to properly utilize a Donor Advised Fund, set up an Employee Assistance or Scholarship Program, and even donate a portion of your business before you exit, which in return creates massive tax savings and significant giving impact

Financial Planning

Financial plans and financial planning may include, but are not limited to: cash flow planning, tax planning, debt/ credit planning, retirement planning, college planning, investment planning; insurance planning; and estate planning.

As part of the financial planning process, CWG will have a discovery call with client which generally can range from 60 to 120 minutes. The client then provides CWG with their documentation and the assessment build generally takes CWG's team 2 to 3 weeks. The assessment delivery generally takes 120 to 180 minutes to complete. CWG meets clients every 3 to 6 months to provide a comprehensive review of the actions completed, the actions that remain outstanding and to check back in on the client's major goals as a part of regularly updating the plan.

For financial planning clients that choose not to execute the recommendations with CWG, clients can request a financial plan update. A new fee will be charged to the client for an updated plan. The cost of the updated plan is the same as a new financial plan.

Services Limited to Specific Types of Investments

CWG generally limits its investment advice to ETFs, mutual funds, individual equities, fixed income securities, options trading, alternative investments and insurance products including annuities, although CWG primarily recommends low cost, fully diversified ETF and mutual fund portfolios. CWG may use other securities as well to help diversify a portfolio when applicable.

Written Acknowledgement of Fiduciary Status

When we provide investment advice to you regarding your retirement plan account or individual retirement account, we are fiduciaries within the meaning of Title I of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act and/or the Internal Revenue Code, as applicable, which are laws governing retirement accounts. The way we make money creates some conflicts with your interests, so we operate under a special rule that requires us to act in your best interest and not put our interest ahead of yours. Under this special rule's provisions, we must:

- Meet a professional standard of care when making investment recommendations (give prudent advice);
- Never put our financial interests ahead of yours when making recommendations (give loyal advice);
- Avoid misleading statements about conflicts of interest, fees, and investments;
- Follow policies and procedures designed to ensure that we give advice that is in your best interest;
- Charge no more than is reasonable for our services; and
- Give you basic information about conflicts of interest.

C. Client Tailored Services and Client Imposed Restrictions

CWG will tailor a program for each individual client. This will include a discovery session to get to know the client's specific needs and requirements as well as a plan that will be executed by CWG on behalf of the client. CWG's investment philosophy is built around goals-based investing. Each client goal is separately analyzed to determine the funding need, return need, appropriate risk level and investment time horizon. The asset allocation is determined by these factors. The portfolio holdings are then customized in this framework. CWG may use model allocations together with a specific set of recommendations for each client based on their personal restrictions, needs, and targets. Clients may impose restrictions in investing in certain securities or types of securities in accordance with their values or beliefs. However, if the restrictions prevent CWG from properly servicing the client account, or if the restrictions would require CWG to deviate from its standard suite of services, CWG reserves the right to end the relationship.

A wrap fee program is an investment program where the investor pays one stated fee that includes management fees, transaction costs, and certain other administrative fees. CWG does not participate in wrap fee programs.

Item 8: Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies, & Risk of Loss

A. Methods of Analysis and Investment Strategies

Methods of Analysis

CWG's methods of analysis include Charting analysis, Cyclical analysis, Fundamental analysis, Modern portfolio theory, Quantitative analysis and Technical analysis.

Charting analysis involves the use of patterns in performance charts. CWG uses this technique to search for patterns used to help predict favorable conditions for buying and/or selling a security.

Cyclical analysis involves the analysis of business cycles to find favorable conditions for buying and/or selling a security.

Fundamental analysis involves the analysis of financial statements, the general financial health of companies, and/or the analysis of management or competitive advantages.

Modern portfolio theory is a theory of investment that attempts to maximize portfolio expected return for a given amount of portfolio risk, or equivalently minimize risk for a given level of expected return, each by carefully choosing the proportions of various asset.

Quantitative analysis deals with measurable factors as distinguished from qualitative considerations such as the character of management or the state of employee morale, such as the value of assets, the cost of capital, historical projections of sales, and so on.

Technical analysis involves the analysis of past market data; primarily price and volume.

Investment Strategies

CWG uses long term trading.

Investing in securities involves a risk of loss that you, as a client, should be prepared to bear.

B. Material Risks Involved

Methods of Analysis

Charting analysis strategy involves using and comparing various charts to predict long and short-term performance or market trends. The risk involved in using this method is that only past performance data is considered without using other methods to crosscheck data. Using charting analysis without other methods of analysis would be making the assumption that past performance will be indicative of future performance. This may not be the case.

Cyclical analysis assumes that the markets react in cyclical patterns which, once identified, can be leveraged to provide performance. The risks with this strategy are two-fold: 1) the markets do not always repeat cyclical patterns; and 2) if too many investors begin to implement this strategy, then it changes the very cycles these investors are trying to exploit.

Fundamental analysis concentrates on factors that determine a company's value and expected future earnings. This strategy would normally encourage equity purchases in stocks that are undervalued or priced below their perceived value. The risk assumed is that the market will fail to reach expectations of perceived value.

Modern portfolio theory assumes that investors are risk averse, meaning that given two portfolios that offer the same expected return, investors will prefer the less risky one. Thus, an investor will take on increased risk only if compensated by higher expected returns. Conversely, an investor who wants higher expected returns must accept more risk. The exact trade-off will be the same for all investors, but different investors will evaluate the trade-off differently based on individual risk aversion characteristics. The implication is that a rational investor will not invest in a portfolio if a second portfolio exists with a more favorable risk-expected return profile – i.e., if for that level of risk an alternative portfolio exists which has better expected returns.

Quantitative analysis Investment strategies using quantitative models may perform differently than expected as a result of, among other things, the factors used in the models, the weight placed on each factor, changes from the factors' historical trends, and technical issues in the construction and implementation of the models.

Technical analysis attempts to predict a future stock price or direction based on market trends. The assumption is that the market follows discernible patterns and if these patterns can be identified then a prediction can be made. The risk is that markets do not always follow patterns and relying solely on this method may not take into account new patterns that emerge over time.

Investment Strategies

Long term trading is designed to capture market rates of both return and risk. Due to its nature, the long-term investment strategy can expose clients to various types of risk that will typically surface at various intervals during the time the client owns the investments. These risks include but are not limited to inflation (purchasing power) risk, interest rate risk, economic risk, market risk, and political/regulatory risk.

Selection of Other Advisers: Although CWG will seek to select only money managers who will invest clients' assets with the highest level of integrity, CWG's selection process cannot ensure that money managers will perform as desired and CWG will have no control over the day-to-day operations of any of its selected money managers. CWG would not necessarily be aware of certain activities at the underlying money manager level, including without limitation a money manager's engaging in unreported risks, investment "style drift" or even regulator breach or fraud. In monitoring and analyzing the third-party advisers, CWG uses benchmarking analysis, assessing whether the adviser's performance has met, exceeded, or fallen short of comparable benchmarks (e.g., Russell 2000, S&P 500, etc.), together with comparison against any stated benchmarks the adviser has set for itself.

Investing in securities involves a risk of loss that you, as a client, should be prepared to bear.

C. Risks of Specific Securities Utilized

CWG's use of options trading generally holds greater risk of capital loss. Clients should be aware that there is a material risk of loss using any investment strategy. The investment types listed below are not guaranteed or insured by the FDIC or any other government agency.

Mutual Funds: Investing in mutual funds carries the risk of capital loss and thus you may lose money investing in mutual funds. All mutual funds have costs that lower investment returns. The funds can be of bond “fixed income” nature (lower risk) or stock “equity” nature.

Fixed income investments generally pay a return on a fixed schedule, though the amount of the payments can vary. This type of investment can include corporate and government debt securities, leveraged loans, high yield, and investment grade debt and structured products, such as mortgage and other asset-backed securities, although individual bonds may be the best known type of fixed income security. In general, the fixed income market is volatile and fixed income securities carry interest rate risk. (As interest rates rise, bond prices usually fall, and vice versa. This effect is usually more pronounced for longer-term securities.) Fixed income securities also carry inflation risk, liquidity risk, call risk, and credit and default risks for both issuers and counterparties. The risk of default on treasury inflation protected/inflation linked bonds is dependent upon the U.S. Treasury defaulting (extremely unlikely); however, they carry a potential risk of losing share price value, albeit rather minimal. Risks of investing in foreign fixed income securities also include the general risk of non-U.S. investing described below.

Exchange Traded Funds (ETFs): An ETF is an investment fund traded on stock exchanges, similar to stocks. Investing in ETFs carries the risk of capital loss (sometimes up to a 100% loss in the case of a stock holding bankruptcy). Areas of concern include the lack of transparency in products and increasing complexity, conflicts of interest and the possibility of inadequate regulatory compliance.

Options are contracts to purchase a security at a given price, risking that an option may expire out of the money resulting in minimal or no value. An uncovered option is a type of options contract that is not backed by an offsetting position that would help mitigate risk. The risk for a “naked” or uncovered put is not unlimited, whereas the potential loss for an uncovered call option is limitless. Spread option positions entail buying and selling multiple options on the same underlying security, but with different strike prices or expiration dates, which helps limit the risk of other option trading strategies. Option writing also involves risks including but not limited to economic risk, market risk, sector risk, idiosyncratic risk, political/regulatory risk, inflation (purchasing power) risk and interest rate risk.

Equity investment generally refers to buying shares of stocks in return for receiving a future payment of dividends and capital gains if the value of the stock increases. The value of equity securities may fluctuate in response to specific situations for each company, industry market conditions and general economic environments.

Alternative investments are illiquid investments and do not trade on a national securities exchange. Alternative investments typically include investments in direct participation program securities (partnerships, limited liability companies, business development companies or real estate investment trusts), commodity pools, private equity, private debt or hedge funds. Alternative investments are subject to various risks, such as illiquidity and property devaluation based on adverse economic and real estate market conditions.

Alternative investments are not suitable for all investors. Investors considering an investment strategy utilizing alternative investments should understand that alternative investments are generally considered speculative in nature and may involve a high degree of risk, particularly if concentrating investments in one or few alternative investments. These risks are potentially greater and substantially different than those associated with traditional equity or fixed income investments.

Past performance is not indicative of future results. Investing in securities involves a risk of loss that you, as a client, should be prepared to bear.

D. Selection of Other Advisers or Managers and How This Adviser is Compensated for Those Selections

CWG may direct clients to third-party investment advisers. CWG will be compensated via a fee share from the advisers to which it directs those clients. The fees shared will not exceed any limit imposed by any regulatory agency. This creates a conflict of interest in that CWG has an incentive to direct clients to the third-party investment advisers that provide CWG with a larger fee split. CWG will always act in the best interests of the client, including when determining which third party investment adviser to recommend to clients. CWG will verify that all recommended advisers are properly licensed, notice filed, or exempt in the states where CWG is recommending the adviser to clients.

Item 11: Code of Ethics, Participation or Interest in Client Transactions and Personal Trading

A. Code of Ethics

CWG has a written Code of Ethics that covers the following areas: Prohibited Purchases and Sales, Insider Trading, Personal Securities Transactions, Exempted Transactions, Prohibited Activities, Conflicts of Interest, Gifts and Entertainment, Confidentiality, Service on a Board of Directors, Compliance Procedures, Compliance with Laws and Regulations, Procedures and Reporting, Certification of Compliance, Reporting Violations, Compliance Officer Duties, Training and Education, Recordkeeping, Annual Review, and Sanctions. CWG's Code of Ethics is available free upon request to any client or prospective client.

B. Recommendations Involving Material Financial Interests

CWG permits its employees to engage, on a limited basis, in personal securities transactions. To avoid any potential conflicts of interest involving personal trades, The Code includes formal insider trading, information barriers, and personal security transactions policies and procedures. CWG's Code of Ethics also requires employees to: (1) pre-clear certain personal securities transactions, (2) report personal securities transactions on at least a quarterly basis, and (3) provide CWG with a detailed summary of holdings (both initially upon commencement of employment and annually thereafter) over which the employee has a direct or indirect beneficial interest.

CWG, its employees, management persons, or other supervised or related persons do not currently: (1) buy or sell securities, as principal, to or from any clients, (2) solicit client investments into any related entity, or (3) act as an investment advisor to any investment company which we recommend to clients.

C. Investing Personal Money in the Same Securities as Clients

From time to time, representatives of CWG may buy or sell securities for themselves that they also recommend to clients. This may provide an opportunity for representatives of CWG to buy or sell the same securities before or after recommending the same securities to clients resulting in representatives profiting off the recommendations they provide to clients. Such transactions would create a conflict of interest. CWG will always document any transactions that could be construed as conflicts of interest and will never engage in trading that operates to the client's disadvantage when similar securities are being bought or sold.

D. Trading Securities At/Around the Same Time as Clients' Securities

From time to time, representatives of CWG may buy or sell securities for themselves at or around the same time as clients. This may provide an opportunity for representatives of CWG to buy or sell securities before or after recommending securities to clients resulting in representatives profiting off the recommendations they provide to clients. Such transactions would create a conflict of interest; however, CWG will never engage in trading that operates to the client's disadvantage if representatives of CWG buy or sell securities at or around the same time as clients.

Item 12: Brokerage Practices

A. Factors Used to Select Custodians and/or Broker/Dealers

Custodians will be recommended based on CWG's duty to seek "best execution," which is the obligation to seek to execute securities transactions for a client on terms that are the most favorable to the client under the circumstances. The client will not necessarily pay the lowest commission or commission equivalent, and CWG may also consider the market expertise and research access provided by the payment of commissions, including but not limited to access to written research, oral communication with analysts, admittance to research conferences and other resources provided by the custodian to aid in the research efforts of CWG. CWG will never charge a premium or commission on transactions, beyond the actual cost imposed by the custodian.

CWG recommends Charles Schwab & Co., Inc. Advisor Services. Member FINRA/SIPC.

1. Research and Other Soft-Dollar Benefits

While CWG has no formal soft dollars program in which soft dollars are used to pay for third party services, CWG may receive research, products, or other services from custodians in connection with client securities transactions ("soft dollar benefits"). CWG may enter into soft-dollar arrangements consistent with (and not outside of) the safe harbor contained in Section 28(e) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended. There can be no assurance that any particular client will benefit from soft dollar research, whether or not the client's transactions paid for it, and CWG does not seek to allocate benefits to client accounts proportionate to any soft dollar credits generated by the accounts. CWG benefits by not having to produce or pay for the research, products or services, and CWG will have an incentive to recommend a based on receiving research or services. Clients should be aware that CWG's acceptance of soft dollar benefits may result in higher commissions charged to the client.

2. Brokerage for Client Referrals

CWG receives no referrals from a custodian or third party in exchange for using that custodian or third party.

3. Clients Directing Which Broker/Dealer/Custodian to Use

CWG will require clients to use a specific broker-dealer to execute transactions. By directing brokerage, CWG may be unable to achieve most favorable execution of client transactions, and this practice may cost clients more money.

B. Aggregating (Block) Trading for Multiple Client Accounts

If CWG buys or sells the same securities on behalf of more than one client, it might, but would be under no obligation to, aggregate or bunch, to the extent permitted by applicable law and regulations, the securities to be purchased or sold for multiple Clients in order to seek more favorable prices, lower brokerage commissions or more efficient execution. In such case, CWG would place an aggregate order with the broker on behalf of all such clients in order to ensure fairness for all clients; provided, however, that trades would be reviewed periodically to ensure that accounts are not systematically disadvantaged by this policy. CWG would determine the appropriate number of shares to place with brokers and will select the appropriate brokers consistent with CWG's duty to seek best execution, except for those accounts with specific brokerage direction (if any).

Item 14: Client Referrals and Other Compensation

A. Economic Benefits Provided by Third Parties for Advice Rendered to Clients (Includes Sales Awards or Other Prizes)

To address this conflict, CWG will always act in the best interest of its clients consistent with its fiduciary duty as an investment adviser.
