The Securities and Exchange Commission today instituted a public administrative proceeding pursuant to Section 12(j) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 against twenty public companies to determine whether the registration of each company’s securities should be revoked or suspended for failing to comply with Section 13(a) of the Exchange Act and Rules 13a-1 and 13a-13 thereunder, which require the filing of periodic reports with the Commission. The proceeding was instituted against the following issuers:

The Division of Enforcement alleges that each of the above-listed companies is at least one year delinquent in its required periodic filings with the Commission and has failed to comply with Exchange Act Section 13(a) and Rules 13a-1 and 13a-13 thereunder. A hearing will be scheduled before an administrative law judge to determine whether the allegations contained in the Order are true, to provide each of the companies an opportunity to dispute the allegations, and to determine whether it is necessary and appropriate for the protection of investors to suspend or revoke the registration of each company’s securities.
