COMPLAINT

Plaintiff United States Securities and Exchange Commission (“SEC”)

alleges as follows:

NATURE OF ACTION

1. The SEC brings this action to stop an ongoing bond offering fraud by Defendants Matthew E. White, Rodney A. Zehner, Daniel J. Merandi, and several shell companies under their control.

2. For nearly a decade, the defendants tried unsuccessfully to develop a resort and amusement park complex outside of Atlanta, Georgia called “Grand Empire Palace and Resorts.” In 2013, they attempted to fund the project by issuing $1 billion in corporate bonds.

3. The defendants had significant difficulty selling the bonds, which were unrated and unsecured. They never came close to obtaining the funding necessary for their real estate project.

4. The defendants did, however, raise at least $5.6 million from investors. The defendants were supposed to use these investor funds to buy a securities portfolio, which would collateralize the bonds. But instead of using the proceeds to collateralize the bonds, as they were required to do, the defendants misappropriated the funds for their own personal use.

5. Among other things, the defendants used investor money to fund lavish shopping sprees at Saks Fifth Avenue, Gucci, Louis Vuitton, Prada, Versace, and Republic of Couture. The defendants also used investor funds to pay numerous personal expenses and provide gifts to family and friends.

6. None of the $5.6 million raised from investors went to secure the bonds.

7. The bonds expired in November 2015. Nevertheless, the defendants continue to seek investors to purchase the bonds.

8. The defendants are also currently engaged in a fraudulent scheme to artificially inflate the value of the bonds so that their brokerage firm will allow them to borrow against the bonds.

9. The defendants, by virtue of their conduct, directly or indirectly, have engaged and, unless enjoined, will continue to engage in violations of Section 17(a) of the Securities Act of 1933 (“Securities Act”) [15 U.S.C. § 77q(a)], and Section 10(b) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 (“Exchange Act”) [15 U.S.C. § 78j(b)] and Rule 10b-5 thereunder [17 C.F.R. § 240.10b-5]. The Commission seeks a temporary restraining order, preliminary and permanent injunctions, an accounting, disgorgement and pre-judgment interest, civil penalties, and an asset freeze as to each defendant.

JURISDICTION AND VENUE

10. The Commission brings this action pursuant to Sections 20 and 22 of the Securities Act [15 U.S.C. §§ 77t and 77v] and Sections 21(d) and 21(e) of the Exchange Act [15 U.S.C. §§ 78u(d) and 78u(e)] to enjoin Defendants from engaging in the transactions, acts, practices, and courses of business alleged in this complaint, and transactions, acts, practices, and courses of business of similar purport and object, for civil penalties and for other equitable relief.

11. This Court has jurisdiction over this action pursuant to Section 22 of the Securities Act [15 U.S.C. § 77v], Sections 21(d), 21(e), and 27 of the Exchange Act [15 U.S.C. §§ 78u(d), 78u(e), and 78aa], and 28 U.S.C. § 1331.

12. Venue is proper in this Court pursuant to Section 22(a) of the Securities Act [15 U.S.C. § 77v], Section 27(a) of the Exchange Act [15 U.S.C. § 78aa], and 28 U.S.C. § 1391. Defendants White and Zehner reside in this district.

13. Defendants, directly and indirectly, made use of the mails, and the means and instrumentalities of interstate commerce in connection with the transactions, acts, practices, and courses of business alleged in this complaint.

14. Certain of the transactions, acts, practices, and courses of business constituting violations of the Securities Act and the Exchange Act occurred within the jurisdiction of the United States District Court for the Northern District of Georgia.

15. Defendants, unless restrained and enjoined by this Court, will continue to engage in the transactions, acts, practices, and courses of business alleged in this complaint, and in transactions, acts, practices, and courses of business of similar purport and object.

STATEMENT OF FACTS

A. The GEPR Trust Bond Offering

25. In 2005, White and Zehner planned to create “Grand Empire Palace and Resorts.”

26. Grand Empire Palace and Resorts was a proposed $675 million resort and amusement park complex to be located outside of Atlanta, Georgia.

27. White’s and Zehner’s design included a water park, conference center, 6,500-seat performing arts center, hotels, restaurants, and retail shops.

28. Between 2005 and 2009, White and Zehner did not obtain the funding necessary for the Grand Empire Palace and Resorts project.

29. In 2009, the planned site for the resort complex entered foreclosure.

30. Following the 2009 foreclosure, White and Zehner began exploring alternative ways of funding the Grand Empire Palace and Resorts project.

31. White and Zehner eventually settled on a structured financing scheme that involved the sale of corporate bonds.

32. In 2012, White and Zehner formed GEPR Investments.

33. In 2012, GEPR Investments then formed GEPR Trust for the purpose of issuing the bonds (“the GEPR bonds”).

34. On March 1, 2013, GEPR Trust (as issuer) and U.S. Bank National Association (“U.S. Bank”) (as trustee) entered into a Trust Indenture.

35. Zehner signed the Trust Indenture on behalf of GEPR Trust and GEPR Investments.

36. GEPR Trust retained investment bank Stern Brothers & Company (“Stern Brothers”) to create a private placement memorandum (“PPM”) for its bond issuance.

37. On March 12, 2013, Stern Brothers issued the PPM for the bonds to be issued by GEPR Trust.

38. White, Zehner, and Merandi had the PPM and Trust Indenture created for GEPR Investments and/or GEPR Trust.

39. The PPM and Trust Indenture provide that the proceeds generated from the sale of the GEPR bonds will go toward purchasing a securities portfolio.

40. The securities portfolio would collateralize the GEPR bonds.

41. The financing structure for the GEPR bonds depended upon raising $1 billion within 30 days of the issuance to create a securities portfolio that collateralized the bonds.

42. Returns generated by the securities portfolio were supposed to be used to pay bondholders.

43. Any remaining excess profits above the payments to bondholders were supposed to go toward funding the Grand Empire real estate project.

44. In March 2013, GEPR Trust issued $1 billion (face value) of corporate bonds.

45. On March 14, 2013, GEPR Trust sold the $1 billion of its bonds to Grand Empire, LLC in return for a promissory note.

46. Matthew White signed the promissory note on behalf of Grand Empire, LLC.

47. Rodney Zehner signed the promissory note on behalf of GEPR Investments.

48. The GEPR bonds were not secured.

49. There has never been collateral backing the GEPR bonds.

50. The GEPR bonds have never been rated by Moody's, S&P, or any other comparable entity.

51. White and Zehner have attempted to get the GEPR bonds rated by Moody's and/or S&P, but were unable to do so.

52. Under the terms of the promissory note, Grand Empire, LLC had thirty business days to pay at least $953,846,154 in cash and/or escrowed securities for the GEPR bonds.

53. The cash and/or escrowed securities were to be used to collateralize the GEPR bonds.

54. Grand Empire, LLC did not deliver any cash or escrowed securities to GEPR Trust within 30 business days.

55. From April 2013 until November 2014, Grand Empire, LLC and GEPR Trust executed five amendments to the Trust Indenture that extended the deadline for Grand Empire, LLC to deliver the cash and/or escrowed securities as payment for the GEPR bonds.

56. White signed the five amendments to the Trust Indenture on behalf of Grand Empire, LLC.

57. Zehner signed the five amendments to the Trust Indenture on behalf of GEPR Investments.

58. The final deadline for Grand Empire, LLC to deliver payment for the GEPR bonds was November 15, 2015.

59. Grand Empire, LLC did not deliver payment for the GEPR bonds by November 15, 2015.

60. Grand Empire, LLC still has not delivered payment for the GEPR bonds.

61. According to Section 2.07(m) of the Trust Indenture and subsequent amendments, if Grand Empire, LLC did not provide payment for the GEPR Bonds by November 15, 2015, the sale of the GEPR Bonds would be null and void.

62. Grand Empire, LLC proposed a sixth amendment to the Trust Indenture that would extend the deadline beyond November 15, 2015. U.S. Bank, as the Trustee, did not sign a sixth amendment to the Trust Indenture.

63. GEPR Trust has not provided written notice to U.S. Bank that Grand Empire failed to deliver the required payment for the GEPR Bonds.

64. Grand Empire, LLC has not instructed the Depository Trust Company (“DTC”) to cancel Grand Empire, LLC’s beneficial interest in the GEPR bonds as required by section 2.07(m) of the Trust Indenture.

65. The GEPR bonds expired on November 15, 2015.

66. The GEPR bonds have been null and void since November 15, 2015.

B. The Defendants Misappropriated Investor Funds

67. White and Zehner never came close to raising the $1 billion in funding that they originally sought and needed for their real estate project.

68. White and Zehner did successfully obtain, with the assistance of Merandi, more than $5.6 million from various investors through sales of the GEPR bonds.

69. White, Zehner, and Merandi did not use investor funds to establish a securities portfolio to collateralize the GEPR bonds.

70. Instead, White, Zehner, and Merandi spent the proceeds on personal items, gifts to friends and family, and transfers to various business associates.

1. Western Canada Oil and Gas

71. Western Canada Oil and Gas, Ltd. (“WCOG”), is a private energy company based in Alberta, Canada.

72. In January 2013, WCOG signed a joint venture agreement with Grand Empire, LLC to create a company that would acquire interests in several oil and gas properties in the United States.

73. At that time, WCOG extended a bridge loan to Grand Empire, LLC to assist Grand Empire, LLC in paying the closing fees associated with bringing their bonds to market.

74. WCOG also obtained a copy of the PPM and several other operating documents from Grand Empire, all of which laid out the financing structure for the GEPR bonds.

75. In addition to the bridge loan, in August 2013, WCOG wired $250,000 to Grand Empire, LLC to purchase GEPR bonds at par (i.e., at face value).

76. White told WCOG management that the proceeds received from their bond purchase would be used to acquire securities in accordance with the controlling documents (specifically, the PPM and the Trust Indenture).

77. WCOG did not receive the $250,000 in GEPR bonds.

78. Grand Empire, LLC did not use WCOG's money to purchase securities.

2. Lutel Primus

79. Lutel Primus, LLC ("Lutel") is a California-based company formed in April 2013 for the purpose of raising capital to invest in real estate.

80. On September 16, 2013, Lutel entered into an agreement with Grand Empire, LLC to purchase $1 million (face value) of GEPR bonds in exchange for $400,000 cash.

81. According to the terms of the agreement, Grand Empire, LLC was to buy back the bonds at face value for $1 million within 10 business days.

82. After the initial transaction concluded, the agreement gave Lutel the option of purchasing an additional $2.5 million in bonds for only $1 million. Grand Empire, LLC committed again to repurchase those bonds within 10 business days at face value.

83. In order to induce Lutel to purchase the GEPR bonds, White made several misrepresentations to the company.

84. The agreement between Lutel and Grand Empire, LLC was signed by White and falsely stated that the GEPR bonds were “investment grade.”

85. White also falsely stated that the GEPR bonds had been rated investment grade by Moody’s.

86. White falsely stated that the bonds had “real” value in the open market.

87. Finally, the Lutel principals received the PPM, which falsely indicated that the bonds would be secured by a sound securities portfolio.

88. On September 17, 2013, Lutel wired $400,000 to Grand Empire, LLC’s TD Ameritrade account.

89. Grand Empire, LLC only provided Lutel with $800,000 (face value) of GEPR bonds, instead of the $1 million in GEPR bonds that were stated in the agreement.

90. The defendants did not use the $400,000 from Lutel to secure the GEPR bonds.

3. White and Zehner Misappropriated WCOG’s and Lutel’s Funds

91. White and Zehner did not use any of the $650,000 received from WCOG and Lutel to secure the GEPR bonds through the purchase of investment-grade securities.

92. White and Zehner instead used the funds for their own personal benefit.

93. White and Zehner wired WCOG's money through several different accounts before eventually transferring the funds to a Bank of America account that designated White and Zehner as the owners.

94. White and Zehner began wiring Lutel's money to the same Bank of America account shortly after receiving those funds.

95. Once White and Zehner moved the proceeds from WCOG and Lutel into the Bank of America account, they used the funds to purchase a variety of personal goods and services.

96. These purchases included trips to luxury stores such as Saks Fifth Avenue, Gucci, Louis Vuitton, Prada, Versace, and Republic of Couture.

97. White and Zehner also made cash withdrawals from the account.

4. Sales Through Daniel Merandi and M&M Financial

98. On March 25, 2014, Zehner transferred $10 million (face value) in GEPR bonds into M&M Financial's Fidelity brokerage account.

99. Merandi controlled M&M Financial's Fidelity brokerage account.

100. On May 12, 2014, Advantage Solutions Limited paid M&M Financial $1.5 million in exchange for $3 million (face value) of GEPR bonds.

101. Advantage Solutions Limited purchased the bonds through a foreign securities account managed by Rothschild Bank AG in Zurich, Switzerland.

102. On May 20, 2014, Advantage Solutions Limited purchased an additional $7 million (face value) of GEPR bonds from M&M Financial for $3.5 million.

103. In total, Advantage Solutions paid M&M Financial $5 million for $10 million (face value) of GEPR bonds.

104. Merandi did not use the $5 million from Advantage Solutions to secure the GEPR bonds.

105. Merandi instead gave the money to various business associates – including White and Zehner – and transferred the rest to other bank and brokerage accounts that he controlled.

106. Merandi transferred approximately $1.4 million in cash to M&M Financial's commercial bank account at BB&T.

107. Merandi disbursed the money in the BB&T account to other accounts and spent the remainder on personal goods and services.

108. These expenditures included outings to night clubs and personal trips where Merandi stayed in five-star accommodations (like the Greenbrier resort).

109. Merandi also gave thousands of dollars to friends and family.

110. Merandi used approximately $1 million of the proceeds to engage in day trading in a TD Ameritrade account.

111. Merandi lost more than $637,000 over a 24-month period in the TD Ameritrade account.

112. Merandi transferred an additional $1.5 million to business associates.

113. White and Zehner also received $940,000 from the Advantage Solutions transactions.

114. Merandi sent $940,000 to Grand Empire, LLC's Bank of America account.

115. White and Zehner did not use any of the funds from Advantage Solutions to secure the GEPR bonds.

116. White and Zehner spent the money received from Advantage Solutions.

117. White, for example, spent $60,000 at a Mercedes dealership in Atlanta, Georgia.

118. White and Zehner also made cash withdrawals from the Bank of America account.

119. White and Zehner also transferred the funds into other accounts.

C. The Bonds Expired in November of 2015, But the Defendants Have Failed to Cancel Them as Required by the Trust Indenture

120. The Trust Indenture requires Grand Empire, LLC to provide $1 billion in cash or escrowed securities to GEPR Trust within 30 days of the initial issuance.

121. The Trust Indenture states that, in the event that payment is not received within the allotted timeframe, GEPR Trust must cause Grand Empire, LLC to surrender its notes for cancellation and notify DTC of the cancellation of the bonds.

122. White and Zehner have amended the Trust Indenture five times in order to extend the date required for repayment.

123. The most recent amendment required payment by November 15, 2015. The parties have not signed any subsequent amendment to the Trust Indenture.

124. Grand Empire, LLC has not delivered the required securities or cash as payment for the GEPR bonds.

125. The GEPR bonds expired on November 15, 2015.

126. The GEPR bonds are now, under the terms of the offering documents, null and void.

127. After November 15, 2015, the defendants continued trying to sell the GEPR bonds.

128. As of the date of this filing, the defendants are still trying to sell the GEPR bonds.

D. The Defendants' Recent Attempts to Artificially Inflate the Value of Their Bonds

129. In December 2015, White and Zehner opened a new brokerage account in the name of WIGEL at NMS Capital ("NMS") in Beverly Hills, California.

130. WIGEL is a shell company controlled by White and Zehner.

131. Shortly after opening the account at NMS, White and Zehner transferred approximately $600 million (face value) of GEPR bonds from their brokerage account at Interactive Brokers.

132. Upon transferring the GEPR bonds, White and Zehner attempted to borrow against them in order to buy additional securities for their NMS account.

133. NMS denied White's and Zehner's request to borrow against the GEPR bonds.

134. At the time the GEPR bonds entered White's and Zehner's NMS account, the bonds did not have a price. This meant that, according to NMS's system, the bonds did not have a value.

135. In February 2016, WIGEL arranged the sale of $10,000 (face value) of GEPR bonds at par to Mountaineer.

136. This trade was subsequently recorded in FINRA's Trade Reporting and Compliance Engine ("TRACE"), which caused the value of the GEPR bonds in WIGEL's NMS brokerage account to balloon to approximately $560 million.

137. NMS specifically asked Zehner about the relationship between WIGEL and Mountaineer before authorizing the trade.

138. Zehner falsely stated that the two entities were not directly related.

139. In truth, Mountaineer is 100% owned by White and Zehner's business associate, Merandi.

140. Merandi started Mountaineer in June 2015.

141. The Mountaineer transaction created a price for the GEPR bonds.

142. Once the GEPR bonds were priced, NMS allowed WIGEL to borrow approximately $60,000 on margin.

143. White and Zehner used the margin funds to purchase United States Treasury bonds.

144. Executing a trade that was reported through TRACE also allows the defendants to show potential buyers the artificial price of the GEPR bonds.
