STATEMENT OF WORK

1.0 SCOPE

The Securities and Exchange Commission (“SEC”) requires a Contractor, who will be subject to the oversight of the Technical Point of Contact (TPOC), to consult with specified SEC staff members (“Staff”) to undertake a study that will involve collecting, categorizing, and analyzing empirical data regarding the marketing, sale and delivery of financial products, accounts, programs and services offered to individual investors by broker-dealers and investment advisers (“Study”).

The data to be gathered will include, among other things:

- the types of financial products, accounts, programs and services provided to individual investors by broker-dealers and investment advisers;
- the titles and other marketing used by investment professionals;
- the fees and costs of financial products, accounts, programs and services to individual investors;
- the compensation received by broker-dealers, investment advisers and their associated persons from other sources for offering financial products, accounts, programs and services to individual investors;
- the extent, nature, and timing of the disclosures provided to individual investors regarding financial products, accounts, programs and services, including any descriptions of conflicts of interest and duties owed to investors; and
- the perceptions of individual investors regarding the financial products, accounts, programs and services provided by broker-dealers and investment advisers and the duties and obligations they are owed.

The investment professionals to be studied will be investment advisers and their associated persons subject to the provisions of the Investment Advisers Act of 1940 (“Advisers Act”) and broker-dealers and their associated persons subject to the provisions of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 (“Exchange Act”) and the rules of securities industry self-regulatory organizations (“SROs”).

Once the data is collected, it will be evaluated by the Contractor, in consultation with the Staff, and the findings will be summarized in a report, acceptable to the TPOC, to the Commission prepared by the Contractor. The findings are intended to be used by the Commission as factual background for evaluating the current legal and regulatory environment for the provision of financial products, accounts, programs and services to individual investors by broker-dealers and investment advisers and for determining, consistent with the Commission’s investor protection mission, the most effective legal and regulatory approach to regulating investment professionals in today’s marketplace.
1.1 Background. On April 12, 2005, the SEC promulgated a rule (“Rule”) that, among other things, permitted a broker-dealer to offer fee-based brokerage accounts without being required to register as an investment adviser under certain circumstances. The complete text of the release appears on the SEC’s website at http://www.sec.gov/rules/final/34-51523.pdf. In the release, the Commission recognized that the rulemaking raised a number of important issues, implicating policy concerns well beyond the scope of the rulemaking, and suggested consideration of a study to compare the levels of protection afforded individual customers of financial service providers under the Exchange Act and the Advisers Act so that the Commission could be better informed in considering how to address any investor protection concerns arising from material differences between the two regulatory regimes.

1.2.2 During the rule proposal comment process, the SEC conducted research on the effectiveness of certain proposed disclosures through focus groups and in-depth investor interviews. A report summarizing the SEC’s focus group interviews is available at http://www.sec.gov/rules/proposed/s72599/focusgrp031005.pdf. Overall, the focus group research was of great interest to the Commission, and has encouraged the Commission to seek this expanded study of the understanding among investors of the similarities and differences between brokerage and advisory accounts, the legal obligations attached to each type of account, and the significance of the titles and other marketing used by investment professionals.

2.0 OVERVIEW

2.1 The core objectives of the Study are to:

- Identify the financial products, accounts, programs and services, including advisory services such as, for example, financial planning and discretionary asset management, provided to individual investors by broker-dealers and investment advisers, and the context in which they are provided;
- Learn how these products, accounts, programs and services are marketed to individual investors;
- Determine the fees and costs paid by individual investors for the products, accounts, programs and services provided;
- Determine how and from what other sources broker-dealers, investment advisers and their associated persons are compensated for the different financial products, accounts, programs and services they offer to individual investors;
- Identify the information provided to individual investors, whether orally, in sales literature, required statements, or in account agreements, regarding the products, accounts, programs and services provided, including the nature of the responsibilities that the broker-dealer or investment adviser owes to the investor and any contractual limitations on those responsibilities;
- Evaluate individual investors’ understanding of the marketing and other information provided to them regarding financial products, accounts, programs and services; and
- Evaluate individual investors’ expectations regarding the obligations owed to them by the investment professional who provided the financial products, accounts, programs and services.

2.2 To accomplish the Study’s core objectives, the Contractor should undertake the following tasks, all of which will be subject to the direction and oversight of the TPOC.

Task 1: Interview Interested Parties. The Contractor shall, after consulting with the Staff to determine the scope and objectives of the interviews and subject to the TPOC’s approval, conduct interviews of interested parties to obtain their views on the issues to be addressed in the Study. Interested parties would include, but are not limited to, industry groups, regulators, including SROs, and investor advocates.
Task 2: Learn Current Industry Practices. The Contractor shall, after consulting with the Staff and the TPOC to determine appropriate areas of inquiry, learn about current industry practices regarding the marketing, sale and delivery of financial products, accounts, programs and services to individual investors by broker-dealers and investment advisers, including

- the marketing and advertising of such products, accounts, programs and services;
- the titles used by investment professionals;
- the communications and disclosures, oral or written, used in connection with the offer of such products, accounts, programs and services;
- the fees and costs of such products, accounts, programs and services; and
- the compensation received by broker-dealers and investment advisers from other sources for the different products, accounts, programs and services they offer to individual investors.

The Contractor, in consultation with the Staff, shall survey current practices by:

(i) conducting an extensive search of relevant economic and business literature;
(ii) collecting relevant business documents, including, but not limited to:
   - Sales material provided by firms for use by investment professionals, including materials provided to individual investors;
   - Contracts and agreements by and between investment professionals and other parties (to illuminate, e.g., incentive compensation structures);
   - Disclosure documents provided to individual investors;
   - Sales material targeted at investment professionals; and
   - Account statements; and
(iii) conducting interviews of broker-dealers, investment advisers and their respective associated persons.

Task 3: Talk to Investors. The Contractor shall, after consulting with the Staff and the TPOC as to appropriate areas of inquiry, conduct focus group interviews of individual investors to evaluate the investors’ expectations with respect to the particular types of financial products, accounts, programs and services that they utilize, as well as their understanding of

- the marketing of such financial products, accounts, programs and services,
- the nature of the products, accounts, programs and services,
- the fees and costs of the products, accounts, programs and services
- the disclosures received, including any limitations of duties,
- the titles and other marketing used,
- the obligations owed them by the investment professional providing the products, accounts, programs and services.

Task 4: Prepare Interview Summaries. The Contractor shall provide the Staff and the TPOC with detailed summaries of the information obtained through interviews of interested parties, broker-dealers and investment advisers, and investor focus groups as outlined in Tasks 1, 2 and 3.

Task 5: Other Necessary Steps. The Contractor shall, as approved by the TPOC, take any other steps or undertake any other tasks necessary or appropriate to complete the Study.
Task 6: Prepare Final Report. The Contractor shall prepare a report to the Commission, acceptable to the TPOC, summarizing its findings regarding the data collected.

3.8 When working with others within and outside the Commission, the Contractor shall represent that it is working solely in an advisory capacity to the Commission, that it is not an agent or employee of the Commission and that it has no authority to bind or commit the Commission, financially or otherwise. The Contractor is not to perform any inherently governmental functions. It is intended that the work under the contract will not require relatively continuous supervision by any person in the Commission, is otherwise non-personal in nature, and will not in any way constitute an employer-employee relationship. 52.212-2 Evaluation—Commercial Items (JAN 1999)

EVALUATION OF PROPOSALS

(a) The Government reserves the right to award the contract based on initial proposals received, without discussions or negotiations of such proposals. Therefore, it is critical that each proposal be fully responsive to the RFP, without exception to any provision. The Government anticipates awarding a contract to the Offeror whose proposal represents the “best value” to the Government, price and other factors considered. The Contracting Officer may consider award to other than the lowest priced Offeror or other than the highest technically rated Offeror when in the best interest of the Government. The Government reserves the right to make no award pursuant to this solicitation.

(b) To be accepted and eligible for evaluation, proposals must be prepared in accordance with, and must comply with, the instructions provided in this solicitation document and must meet all the solicitation requirements.

(c) Technical factors when combined are considered to be more important than price factors combined; however, the importance of price will increase as the technical merit of the proposals becomes more equal.

TECHNICAL EVALUATION FACTORS FOR AWARD

The SEC will evaluate proposals based on the following technical factors, which are in descending order of importance:

Factor 1: Technical Capability. The SEC will evaluate the degree to which the Offeror’s proposal demonstrates an understanding of and meets the overall technical requirements.

Factor 2: Personnel Qualifications. The SEC will evaluate whether proposed personnel have the ability to satisfactorily perform the requirements of the solicitation.

Factor 3: Corporate Experience. The SEC will evaluate the Offeror’s corporate experience in performing requirements that are similar in scope and size to the SEC’s requirements.
Factor 4: Past Performance. The SEC will evaluate the Offeror’s past performance information for contracts that are similar in size and scope to the Government’s requirements, in evaluating the Offeror’s ability to conform to contract requirements, adhere to contract schedules, and commitment to customer satisfaction.

PRICE EVALUATION FACTORS FOR AWARD

The SEC will evaluate proposals based on the following price factors, which are of equal importance:

1. The reasonableness and fairness of the Offeror’s proposed prices to the Government; and
2. Whether the proposed proforma fees and costs are realistic when combined with the technical approach.

A written notice of award or acceptance of an offer, mailed or otherwise furnished to the successful offeror within the time for acceptance specified in the offer, shall result in a binding contract without further action by either party. Before the offer’s specified expiration time, the Government may accept an offer (or part of an offer), whether or not there are negotiations after its receipt, unless a written notice of withdrawal is received before award.

Contractor, for itself and its employees, agents, and subcontractors, agrees not to disclose to any unauthorized person any confidential or non-public documents or information to which Contractor or its employees, agents, or subcontractors have access in the performance of duties under the underlying Contract.

D. In accordance with the SEC Regulation at 17 C.F.R. § 200.735-3(b)(1), the Contractor, for itself and its employees, agents, and subcontractors, agrees not to engage, directly or indirectly, in any personal business transaction or private arrangement for personal profit the opportunity for which arises because of performance under the Contract, or that is based upon confidential or non-public information which the Contractor and its employees, agents, or subcontractors gain in the course of performance under the Contract.

E. In accordance with the SEC Regulation at 17 C.F.R. § 200.735-3(b)(7)(i), the Contractor, for itself and its employees, agents, and subcontractors, agrees not to disclose to any unauthorized person or release in advance of authorization for its release, any confidential or non-public document or information : (1) protected from disclosure under 5 U.S.C. §§ 552, 552a, and 552b or any rules or regulations of the SEC; or (2) in circumstances where the SEC has determined to accord such information confidential treatment, unless the SEC authorizes the disclosure of such information as provided for under 17 C.F.R. § 200.735-3(b)(7)(ii).
