I object <sup>to</sup> the Rule 14b-1© which is intended to provide for improved communications between companies that issue securities and the shareholders who own those securities.

We were advised that we have to object in writing if we did not want this information shared. Why do we always have to be the one to object? Why shouldn't they have to get permission to give out the information. And we can object til we are blue in the face and we have no way of knowing if they are abiding by our wishes.

I am distressed that our privacy is being violated. Will you let me know who decided we should lose our privacy and why? I am tired of writing letters to protect my privacy from those who are selling our names, address, ph. No. and information about me.
