I. Introduction

On October 19, 2016, the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority, Inc. (“FINRA”) filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission (“Commission”), pursuant to Section 19(b)(1) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 (“Exchange Act”)¹ and Rule 19b-4 thereunder,² a proposed rule change to amend FINRA Rule 4512 (Customer Account Information) and adopt new FINRA Rule 2165 (Financial Exploitation of Specified Adults). The proposed rule change would: (1) require members to make reasonable efforts to obtain the name of and contact information for a trusted contact person for a customer’s account; and (2) permit members to place temporary holds on disbursements of funds or securities from the accounts of specified customers, where there is a reasonable belief that these customers have been, are being, or will be subject to financial exploitation).³

The proposed rule change was published for comment in the Federal Register on November 7, 2016.⁴ The public comment period closed on November 28, 2016. The the Proposal to February 3, 2017.⁶ On January 19, 2017, FINRA filed a response to the comment letters,⁷ along with Partial Amendment No. 1 to the Proposal.

This order provides notice of the filing of Partial Amendment No. 1 and approves the Proposal, as modified by Partial Amendment No. 1, on an accelerated basis.

II. Description of the Proposal⁸

A. Background

With the aging of the U.S. population, financial exploitation of seniors and other vulnerable adults is a serious and growing problem.⁹ FINRA's experience with the FINRA Securities Helpline for Seniors[®] ("Seniors Helpline") has highlighted issues relating to financial exploitation of seniors and other vulnerable adults.¹⁰ A number of reports and studies also have explored various aspects of this important topic.¹¹ Moreover, studies indicate that financial exploitation is the most common form of elder abuse.¹² Financial exploitation can be difficult for any investor, but it can be particularly devastating for seniors and other vulnerable adults, many of whom are living on fixed incomes without the ability to offset significant losses over time or through other means.¹³ Financial exploitation can occur suddenly, and once funds leave an account they can be difficult, if not impossible, to recover, especially when they ultimately are transferred outside of the U.S.¹⁴ Members need more effective tools that will allow them to quickly and effectively address suspected financial exploitation of seniors and other vulnerable adults. Currently, however, FINRA rules do not explicitly permit members to contact a non-account holder or to place a temporary hold on disbursements of funds or securities where there is a reasonable belief of financial exploitation of a senior or other vulnerable adult.

To address these issues, the Proposal would provide members with a way to quickly respond to situations in which they have a reasonable basis to believe that financial exploitation of vulnerable adults has occurred or will be attempted. FINRA believes that a member can better protect its customers from financial exploitation if the member can: (1) place a temporary hold on a disbursement of funds or securities from a customer's account; and (2) notify a customer's trusted contact person when there is concern that, among other things, the customer may be the victim of financial exploitation. These measures will assist members in thwarting financial exploitation of seniors and other vulnerable adults before potentially ruinous losses occur. As discussed below, FINRA is proposing a number of safeguards to help ensure that there is not a misapplication of the Proposal and that customers' ordinary disbursements are not disrupted.

According to FINRA, a small number of states have enacted statutes that permit financial institutions, including broker-dealers, to place temporary holds on "disbursements" or "transactions" if financial exploitation of covered persons is suspected.¹⁵ In addition, the North American Securities Administrators Association ("NASAA") created a model state act to protect vulnerable adults from financial exploitation ("NASAA model"). Due to the small number of state statutes currently in effect and the lack of a federal standard in this area, FINRA believes that the Proposal would aid in the creation of a uniform national standard for the benefit of members and their customers.

B. Terms of the Proposal

1. Trusted Contact Person

The Proposal would amend Rule 4512 to require members to make reasonable efforts to obtain the name of and contact information for a trusted contact person upon the opening of a non-institutional customer's account.¹⁶ It would also require that the trusted contact person be age 18 or older.¹⁷ While the Proposal did not specify what contact information should be obtained for a trusted contact person, FINRA noted that a mailing address, telephone number and email address for the trusted contact person may be the most useful information for members.

The Proposal would not prohibit members from opening and maintaining an account if a customer fails to identify a trusted contact person as long as the member made reasonable efforts to obtain a name and contact information.¹⁸ FINRA stated that asking a customer to provide the name and contact information for a trusted contact person ordinarily would constitute reasonable efforts to obtain the information and would satisfy the Proposal's requirements.

The Proposal would not require a member to attempt to obtain the name of and contact information for a trusted contact person for accounts in existence prior to the effective date of the Proposal ("existing accounts") until such time as the member updates the information for the account either in the course of the member's routine and customary business or as otherwise required by applicable laws or rules.¹⁹ With respect to any account subject to the requirements of Exchange Act Rule 17a-3(a)(17) to periodically update customer records, the Proposal would require a member to make reasonable efforts to obtain or, if previously obtained, to update where appropriate, the name and contact information for a trusted contact person in the manner and timeframes required under Exchange Act Rule 17a-3(a)(17).²⁰ With regard to updating the ¹⁸ See proposed Supplementary Material .06(b) to Rule 4512.

¹⁹ See Rule 4512(b).

²⁰ See proposed Supplementary Material .06(c) to Rule 4512. The reference to the requirements of Rule 17a-3(a)(17) includes the requirements of Rule 17a-3(a)(17)(i)(A) in conjunction with Rule 17a-3(a)(17)(i)(D). In this regard, Rule 17a-3(a)(17)(i)(D) provides that contact information once provided for other accounts that are not subject to the requirements in Exchange Act Rule 17a-3, FINRA stated that a member should consider asking the customer to review and update the name of and contact information for a trusted contact person on a periodic basis or when there is a reason to believe that there has been a change in the customer's situation.²¹

The Proposal would also require, at the time of account opening, a member to disclose in writing (which may be electronic) to the customer that the member or an associated person is authorized to contact the trusted contact person and disclose information about the customer's account to address possible financial exploitation, to confirm the specifics of the customer's current contact information, health status, or the identity of any legal guardian, executor, trustee or holder of a power of attorney, or as otherwise permitted by proposed Rule 2165. With respect to any account that was opened pursuant to a prior FINRA rule, a member would be required to provide this disclosure in writing, which may be electronic, when updating the information for the account pursuant to Rule 4512(b) either in the course of the member's routine and customary business or as otherwise required by applicable laws or rules.²²

the account record requirements in Rule 17a-3(a)(17)(i)(A) only apply to accounts for which the member, broker or dealer is, or has within the past 36 months been, required to make a suitability determination under the federal securities laws or under the requirements of a self-regulatory organization of which it is a member.

²² See proposed Supplementary Material .06(a) to Rule 4512. A member would be required to provide the disclosure at account opening or when updating information for existing accounts pursuant to Rule 4512(b), even if a customer fails to identify a trusted contact person. Among other things, such disclosure may assist a customer in making an informed decision about whether to provide the trusted contact person information.

FINRA believes that members and customers will benefit from the trusted contact information in many different settings. For example, consistent with the disclosure, if a member has been unable to contact a customer after multiple attempts, a member could contact a trusted contact person to inquire about the customer's current contact information. Or if a customer is known to be ill or infirm and the member has been unable to contact the customer after multiple attempts, the member could contact a trusted contact person to inquire about the customer's health status. A member also could reach out to a trusted contact person if it suspects that the customer may be suffering from Alzheimer's disease, dementia or other forms of diminished capacity. A member could contact a trusted contact person to address possible financial exploitation of the customer before placing a temporary hold on a disbursement. In addition, as discussed below, pursuant to proposed Rule 2165, when information about a trusted contact person is available, a member must notify the trusted contact person orally or in writing, which may be electronic, if the member has placed a temporary hold on a disbursement of funds or securities from a customer's account, unless the member reasonably believes that the trusted contact person is engaged in the financial exploitation.²³

The trusted contact person is intended to be a resource for the member in administering the customer's account, protecting assets and responding to possible financial exploitation. A member may use its discretion in relying on any information provided by the trusted contact person. A member may elect to notify an individual that he or she was named as a trusted contact person; however, the Proposal would not require such notification.

2. Temporary Hold on Disbursement of Funds or Securities

²³ See proposed Rule 2165(b)(1)(B)(ii).

The Proposal would permit a member that reasonably believes that financial exploitation may be occurring to place a temporary hold on the disbursement of funds or securities from the account of a “specified adult” customer.²⁴ The Proposal would create no obligation to withhold a disbursement of funds or securities where financial exploitation may be occurring. In this regard, Supplementary Material to proposed Rule 2165 would explicitly state that the Rule provides members with a safe harbor from FINRA Rules 2010 (Standards of Commercial Honor and Principles of Trade), 2150 (Improper Use of Customers’ Securities or Funds; Prohibition Against Guarantees and Sharing in Accounts) and 11870 (Customer Account Transfer Contracts) “when members exercise discretion in placing temporary holds on disbursements of funds or securities from the accounts of specified adults under the circumstances denoted in the Rule.”²⁵ The proposed safe harbor would not apply to a decision not to place a hold; rather, as stated in the proposed rule, members would be provided with a safe harbor from certain FINRA rules when exercising their discretion to place a temporary hold. The proposed Supplementary Material would further state that the Rule does not require members to place temporary holds on disbursements of funds or securities from the account of a specified adult.²⁶

FINRA believes that “specified adults” may be particularly susceptible to financial exploitation.²⁷ Proposed Rule 2165 would define “specified adult” as: (A) a natural person age 65 and older;²⁸ or (B) a natural person age 18 and older who the member reasonably believes has a mental or physical impairment that renders the individual unable to protect his or her own interests.²⁹ Supplementary Material to proposed Rule 2165 would provide that a member’s reasonable belief that a natural person age 18 and older has a mental or physical impairment that renders the individual unable to protect his or her own interests may be based on the facts and circumstances observed in the member’s business relationship with the person.³⁰ The Proposal would define the term “account” to mean any account of a member for which a specified adult has the authority to transact business.³¹

²⁶ See proposed Supplementary Material .01 to Rule 2165. FINRA understands that some members, pursuant to state law or their own policies, may already place temporary holds on disbursements from customers’ accounts where financial exploitation is suspected.

Because financial abuse may take many forms, FINRA has proposed a broad definition of “financial exploitation.” Specifically, financial exploitation would mean: (A) the wrongful or unauthorized taking, withholding, appropriation, or use of a specified adult’s funds or securities;

See also FINRA Foundation Study (noting that respondents age 65 and over were more likely to be solicited to invest in a potentially fraudulent opportunity (93%), more likely to engage with the offer (49%) and more likely to have lost money (16%) than younger respondents); MetLife Study (noting the many forms of vulnerability that “make elders more susceptible to [financial] abuse,” including, among others, poor physical or mental health, lack of mobility, and isolation); Protecting Elderly Investors from Financial Exploitation: Questions to Consider (February 5, 2015) (noting that one of the greatest risk factors for diminished capacity is age).

³⁰ See proposed Supplementary Material .03 to Rule 2165. A member also may rely on other sources of information in making a determination under proposed Rule 2165(a)(1) (e.g., a court or government agency order finding a customer to be legally incompetent).

³¹ See proposed Rule 2165(a)(2).

or (B) any act or omission by a person, including through the use of a power of attorney, guardianship, or any other authority, regarding a specified adult, to: (i) obtain control, through deception, intimidation or undue influence, over the specified adult's money, assets or property; or (ii) convert the specified adult's money, assets or property.³²

The Proposal would permit a member to place a temporary hold on a disbursement of funds or securities from the account of a specified adult if the member reasonably believes that financial exploitation of the specified adult has occurred, is occurring, has been attempted or will be attempted.³³ A temporary hold pursuant to proposed Rule 2165 may be placed on a particular suspicious disbursement(s) but not on other, non-suspicious disbursements.³⁴ The Proposal would not apply to transactions in securities.³⁵

The Proposal would require that a member's written supervisory procedures identify the title of each person authorized to place, terminate or extend a temporary hold on behalf of the member pursuant to Rule 2165. The Proposal would require that any such person be an associated person of the member who serves in a supervisory, compliance or legal capacity for the member.³⁶

If a member places a temporary hold, the Proposal would require the member to ³² See proposed Rule 2165(a)(4).

³³ See proposed Rule 2165(b)(1)(A).

³⁴ FINRA recognizes that a single disbursement could involve all of the assets in an account.

immediately initiate an internal review of the facts and circumstances that caused the member to reasonably believe that financial exploitation of the specified adult has occurred, is occurring, has been attempted or will be attempted.³⁷ In addition, the Proposal would require the member to provide notification of the hold and the reason for the hold to all parties authorized to transact business on the account, including, but not limited to, the customer, and, if available, the trusted contact person, no later than two business days after the date that the member first placed the hold.³⁸ While oral or written (including electronic) notification would be permitted under the Proposal, a member would be required to retain records evidencing the notification.³⁹

The Proposal would not preclude a member from terminating a temporary hold after communicating with either the customer or trusted contact person. FINRA believes that a customer's objection to a temporary hold or information obtained during an exchange with the customer or trusted contact person may be used in determining whether a hold should be placed or lifted. FINRA believes that, while not dispositive, members should weigh a customer's objection against other information in determining whether a hold should be placed or lifted.

While the Proposal would not require notifying the customer's registered representative of suspected financial exploitation, a customer's registered representative may be the first person to detect potential financial exploitation. If the detection occurs in another way, a member may ³⁷ See proposed Rule 2165(b)(1)(C).

³⁸ See proposed Rule 2165(b)(1)(B). FINRA understands that a member may not necessarily be able to speak with or otherwise get a response from such persons within the two-business-day period. FINRA would consider, for example, a member's mailing a letter, sending an email, or placing a telephone call and leaving a message with appropriate person(s) within the two-business-day period to constitute notification for purposes of proposed Rule 2165. Moreover, as further discussed herein, FINRA would consider the inability to contact a trusted contact person to mean that the trusted contact person was not available for purposes of the Rule.

choose to notify and discuss the suspected financial exploitation with the customer's registered representative.

For purposes of proposed Rule 2165, FINRA would consider the lack of an identified trusted contact person, the inability to contact the trusted contact person or a person's refusal to act as a trusted contact person to mean that the trusted contact person was not available.⁴⁰ A member may use the temporary hold provision under proposed Rule 2165 when a trusted contact person is not available.

The temporary hold authorized by proposed Rule 2165 would expire not later than 15 business days after the date that the member first placed the temporary hold on the disbursement of funds or securities, unless sooner terminated or extended by an order of a state regulator or agency or court of competent jurisdiction.⁴¹ In addition, provided that the member's internal review of the facts and circumstances supports its reasonable belief that the financial exploitation of the specified adult has occurred, is occurring, has been attempted or will be attempted, the Proposal would permit the member to extend the temporary hold for an additional 10 business days, unless sooner terminated or extended by an order of a state regulator or agency or court of competent jurisdiction.⁴²

Proposed Rule 2165 would require members to retain records related to compliance with ⁴⁰ Moreover, as discussed below, Partial Amendment No. 1 provides an exception from the proposed requirement in Rule 2165 to notify not later than two business days after placing a temporary hold all parties authorized to transact business on an account if a party is unavailable or if the member reasonably believes that the party has engaged, is engaged, or will engage in the financial exploitation of a Specified Adult.

⁴¹ See proposed Rule 2165(b)(2).

the Rule, which shall be readily available to FINRA, upon request. Retained records required by the Proposal are records of: (1) requests for disbursement that may constitute financial exploitation of a specified adult and the resulting temporary hold; (2) the finding of a reasonable belief that financial exploitation has occurred, is occurring, has been attempted or will be attempted underlying the decision to place a temporary hold on a disbursement; (3) the name and title of the associated person that authorized the temporary hold on a disbursement; (4) notification(s) to the relevant parties pursuant to the Rule; and (5) the internal review of the facts and circumstances supporting the member's reasonable belief that the financial exploitation of the specified adult has occurred, is occurring, has been attempted or will be attempted.⁴³

The Proposal would require a member that anticipates using a temporary hold in appropriate circumstances to establish and maintain written supervisory procedures reasonably designed to achieve compliance with the Rule, including procedures on the identification, escalation and reporting of matters related to financial exploitation of specified adults.⁴⁴ The Proposal would require that the member's written supervisory procedures identify the title of each person authorized to place, terminate or extend a temporary hold on behalf of the member pursuant to the Rule.⁴⁵ The Proposal would also require a member that anticipates placing a temporary hold pursuant to the Rule to develop and document training policies or programs reasonably designed to ensure that associated persons comply with the requirements of the Rule.⁴⁶

C. Partial Amendment No. 1

⁴³ See proposed Rule 2165(d).

⁴⁴ See proposed Rule 2165(c)(1).

⁴⁵ See proposed Rule 2165(c)(2).

⁴⁶ See proposed Supplementary Material .02 to Rule 2165.

As discussed in FINRA’s response to comments, infra, Partial Amendment No. 1 makes the following changes to the Proposal: (1) it clarifies the scope of Supplementary Material .01 to Rule 2165 by adding the words “associated persons” to the Proposal’s safe harbor, and by providing that the safe harbor is available when members exercise discretion in placing a temporary hold “consistent with the requirements of this Rule;” (2) it clarifies that a member may place a temporary hold for up to 25 business days when the Rule’s requirements are met, unless the temporary hold is “otherwise” terminated or extended by a state regulator or agency of competent jurisdiction or a court of competent jurisdiction; (3) it provides an exception from the proposed requirement in Rule 2165 to notify not later than two business days after placing a temporary hold all parties authorized to transact business on an account if a party is unavailable or if the member reasonably believes that the party has engaged, is engaged, or will engage in the financial exploitation of a Specified Adult; and (4) it extends the Proposal’s implementation period from “no later than 180 days following Commission approval” to 12 months from Commission approval.

III. Summary of Comments and FINRA’s Responses

The Commission received twenty-one (21) comment letters on the Proposal,⁴⁷ and a response letter from FINRA.⁴⁸ Twenty (20) commenters supported FINRA’s efforts to protect seniors and other vulnerable adults but offered suggested modifications as to various aspects of the Proposal.⁴⁹ The remaining commenter supported the proposed amendments to Rule 4512 regarding a trusted contact person, but opposed the proposed adoption of Rule 2165 that would permit temporary holds on disbursements where there is a reasonable belief of financial exploitation.⁵⁰ Commenters' concerns and suggested modifications to the Proposal, along with FINRA's corresponding responses, are discussed by topic below.

A. Comment Letters in Support of the Proposal

As noted above, twenty (20) commenters generally supported FINRA's Proposal.⁵¹ For instance, one commenter stated that adoption of FINRA's Proposal would better enable its members "to protect seniors and other vulnerable adults from financial exploitation," and "to reach out to a trusted contact person whenever the member suspects financial exploitation of the account holder or when the member has concerns about the account holder's ability to continue to handle his or her financial affairs."⁵² Another commenter stated that the Proposal was "well-conceived to help member firms protect seniors."⁵³ A third commenter asserted that its members had been trying to obtain trusted contact person information, and that the Proposal would provide additional guidance to members, create uniform practices, and make customers more willing to provide the information.⁵⁴ This commenter also supported the proposed temporary hold on disbursements, which, it argued, would facilitate quick protection for vulnerable adults, while promptly resolving concerns that might be unfounded.⁵⁵

However, these twenty (20) commenters suggested modifications to the Proposal. These suggested modifications, along with FINRA's responses to the commenters, are addressed below.

B. Suggested Modifications to the Proposal

1. Trusted Contact Person

As noted above, the Proposal would amend Rule 4512 to require members to make reasonable efforts to obtain the name of and contact information for a trusted contact person upon the opening of a non-institutional customer's account. One commenter contended that, if a customer refuses to provide the trusted contact person information, Rule 4512 should require a member to maintain records of its reasonable efforts to obtain the trusted contact person information and the customer's refusal to provide the information.⁵⁶ The commenter also believed that the rule text should set forth the minimum contact information that must be obtained (i.e., a name, telephone number, mailing address, email and relationship to customer) and that the information should be added to FINRA's new account application template.⁵⁷

In its Response Letter, FINRA acknowledged that Rule 4512 does not specify the manner in which members should evidence compliance with the rule, or what contact information should be obtained for a trusted contact person.⁵⁸ However, according to FINRA, because Rule 3110 (Supervision) requires members to have supervisory procedures in place that are reasonably designed to achieve compliance with FINRA rules, members would have the flexibility to reasonably design their supervisory systems to achieve compliance with the Proposal's requirements.⁵⁹ To aid members in complying with the Proposal’s requirements, FINRA agreed to update its new account application template to reflect the proposed amendments to Rule 4512.⁶⁰

a. Notification of Designation

One commenter suggested modifying the proposed amendments to Rule 4512 to require members to notify an individual that he or she was named as a trusted contact person.⁶¹ Another commenter recommended that members voluntarily adopt a practice of notifying the trusted contact person of his or her designation.⁶²

In response, FINRA states its belief that the “administrative burdens of requiring notification would outweigh the benefits.”⁶³ However, FINRA notes that a member may elect to notify a trusted contact person of his or her designation (e.g., if the member determines that notifying the trusted contact person may be helpful in administering a customer account).⁶⁴

b. Notification of Temporary Hold

As discussed above, proposed Rule 2165 would require a member to provide notification of a temporary hold and the reason for the hold to the trusted contact person, if available, not later than two business days after the date that the member first placed the hold. One commenter recommended voluntary, rather than mandatory, notification,⁶⁵ while another asserted that a member should not be required to notify the trusted contact person if the member determines to lift the hold after speaking with all persons authorized to transact business on the account.⁶⁶

In response, FINRA encourages members to attempt to resolve a matter with a customer before placing a temporary hold, “unless a member reasonably believes that doing so would cause further harm to a specified adult.”⁶⁷ According to FINRA, if a temporary hold is not placed, there is no requirement in the rule to notify the trusted contact person.⁶⁸ However, once a member places a temporary hold on a disbursement, FINRA believes a member should be required to notify a trusted contact person.⁶⁹ In addition, FINRA strongly encourages members to notify the specified adult of the temporary hold as soon as practicable but in no case longer than the two business days required by Rule 2165.⁷⁰

Another commenter suggested that, rather than disclosing only that the temporary hold was placed, members should have discretion to disclose and discuss any information relevant to the financial exploitation investigation to the trusted contact person.⁷¹ In its Response Letter, FINRA states that “the proposed amendments to Rule 4512 explicitly permit members to contact the trusted contact person and disclose information about the customer’s account to address possible financial exploitation and as permitted by Rule 2165.”⁷² According to FINRA, ⁷² See FINRA Response Letter.

members are therefore permitted to disclose and discuss information relevant to a financial exploitation investigation to a trusted contact person.⁷³

c. Update

As previously discussed, with respect to an account that was opened pursuant to a prior FINRA rule (“existing account”), Rule 4512(b) requires members to update the trusted contact information for the account whenever they update the account information in the course of their routine and customary business, or as required by other applicable laws or rules. One commenter recommended a shorter recurring timeframe (e.g., annually) during which members must reach out to their non-institutional customers regarding the trusted contact person information.⁷⁴ In response, FINRA declined to make the suggested change.⁷⁵ FINRA states that applying the current standard in Rule 4512(b) to the trusted contact person information would ensure that members use reasonable efforts to obtain the information for existing accounts in the course of their routine business, while not imposing undue burdens on members to contact accountholders more frequently.⁷⁶

With respect to any account subject to the requirements of Exchange Act Rule 17a-3(a)(17) to periodically update customer records, proposed Supplementary Material .06(c) to Rule 4512 would require a member to make reasonable efforts to obtain or, if previously obtained, to update where appropriate the name of and contact information for a trusted contact person consistent with the requirements in Rule 17a-3(a)(17).⁷⁷ One commenter requested clarification on how the update requirement would apply to automated compliance processes or tech platforms that permit a client to voluntarily change information at their convenience.⁷⁸ In response, FINRA states that the requirements of Rule 17a-3(a)(17) apply to a wide range of account information and would not be unique to trusted contact person information.⁷⁹ For any account subject to Rule 17a-3(a)(17), FINRA believes that any automated compliance process or tech platform would need to comply with the requirements of Rule 17a-3(a)(17).⁸⁰

Another commenter requested confirmation that the obligation to obtain trusted contact person information for existing accounts in the course of the member's routine and customary business would be satisfied where the member updated the account within the 36-month period in accordance with the requirements of Rule 17a-3(a)(17)(i)(D).⁸¹ In response, FINRA states that, consistent with the requirements of Rule 4512(b) discussed above, the requirement to update the account information may be triggered earlier than the 36-month period if the member updates the information for the account either in the course of the member's routine and customary business or as otherwise required by applicable laws or rules.⁸²

2. Safe Harbor

⁷⁷ The Commission notes that, while FINRA Rule 4512 would impose on accounts subject to the requirements of Rule 17a-3(a)(17) a requirement to update trusted contact information, Rule 17a-3(a)(17) by its terms imposes no independent requirement to do so, and Rule 4512 has no effect on a member's obligations under Rule 17a-3(a)(17).

⁸² See FINRA Response Letter.

As set forth in the Proposal, Supplementary Material .01 to Rule 2165 states that members will be provided a safe harbor from FINRA Rules 2010, 2150 and 11870 when members exercise discretion to place temporary holds on disbursements of funds or securities from the accounts of specified adults under the circumstances denoted in the Rule. Rather than providing a safe harbor when members choose to place temporary holds, three commenters supported requiring members to place temporary holds where there is a reasonable belief of financial exploitation.⁸³ In response, FINRA states its belief that a member can better protect its customers from financial exploitation if the member can use its discretion in placing a temporary hold on a disbursement of funds or securities from a customer's account.⁸⁴ Accordingly, FINRA declined to make the suggested change.⁸⁵

One commenter requested that the safe harbor language be moved into the body of the rule text and the protection be extended to registered representatives of the member.⁸⁶ In its Response Letter, FINRA states that, because Supplementary Material is part of the rule, it would not move the language as requested.⁸⁷

Two commenters requested that the Supplementary Material be revised to explicitly state that the safe harbor applies to associated persons.⁸⁸ In response, and as discussed in Partial Amendment No. 1, FINRA is proposing to incorporate associated persons into the rule text, which is consistent with FINRA's original interpretation of the scope of the safe harbor.⁸⁹

⁸³ See GSU, PIABA, and PIRC.

FINRA states that, as amended, proposed Supplementary Material .01 to Rule 2165 would explicitly provide that members and their associated persons have a safe harbor from FINRA Rules 2010, 2150 and 11870 when members exercise discretion in placing temporary holds on disbursements of funds or securities from the accounts of specified adults consistent with the requirements of Rule 2165.⁹⁰

Another commenter suggested that the inclusion of Rules 2010 and 2150 in Supplementary Material .01 would create protections far beyond the scope of what is necessary to encourage members to act on financial exploitation.⁹¹ In response, FINRA states its belief that it is appropriate to include Rules 2010 and 2150 in Supplementary Material .01, as the rules may be implicated by a member's exercise of discretion to place a temporary hold on a disbursement.⁹² This same commenter also suggested that when a member exercises discretion and chooses not to place a hold, then the member should not be granted a safe harbor from duties that they would otherwise have under FINRA rules.⁹³ In response, and as noted above, FINRA states that the proposed safe harbor does not apply to a decision not to place a hold; rather, proposed Rule 2165 explicitly states that it provides members with a safe harbor under FINRA rules when members exercise discretion in placing a temporary hold on disbursements of funds or securities.⁹⁴

Another commenter requested revising Rule 2165 to clarify that a member's failure to place a hold on a customer account shall not be deemed to be an abrogation of the member's duties under FINRA rules.⁹⁵ In its Response Letter, FINRA asserts that Supplementary Material .01 clearly states that proposed Rule 2165 contains a safe harbor, and that the Rule does not require placing a hold on a disbursement.⁹⁶

Three commenters suggested that any associated person acting in good faith should not be subject to complaints reportable on Form U4 (Uniform Application for Securities Industry Registration or Transfer), and that the safe harbor should be extended to include FINRA Rule 4530 (Reporting Requirements).⁹⁷ In its Response Letter, FINRA states that the proposed safe harbor from FINRA rules would not extend to complaints about an associated person that are reportable on Form U4.⁹⁸ However, FINRA notes that an associated person may respond to any such complaints on Form U4, including with an explanation of actions taken pursuant to proposed Rule 2165.⁹⁹ FINRA further states that the proposed safe harbor from FINRA rules would also not extend to reporting required pursuant to Rule 4530, although FINRA would consider whether a member or associated person had acted consistent with the proposed rule when FINRA assesses reported information about a hold on a disbursement.¹⁰⁰

Lastly, a commenter stated that members may be subject to FINRA sanctions (outside of Rules 2010, 2150 and 11870 violations) and private claims, and requested that FINRA extend the safe harbor to cover FINRA sanctions and private claims for members' reasonable determinations regarding whether or not to place a temporary hold on a disbursement.¹⁰¹ Another commenter suggested that the safe harbor be extended to cover protection against liability for actions taken in connection with notifying the appropriate state authorities of financial exploitation.¹⁰² In response, FINRA states that proposed Rule 2165 is designed to provide regulatory relief to members by providing a safe harbor from FINRA rules for a determination to place a temporary hold.¹⁰³ Nevertheless, some states may separately provide immunity to members under state law.¹⁰⁴

3. Transactions

Six commenters supported extending the scope of proposed Rule 2165 to apply to transactions.¹⁰⁵ In its Response Letter, FINRA states that, although proposed Rule 2165 does not apply to transactions, FINRA may consider extending the safe harbor to transactions in securities in future rulemaking.¹⁰⁶

4. Diminished Capacity

Two commenters suggested extending the safe harbor beyond financial exploitation to address a customer's diminished capacity.¹⁰⁷ In its Response letter, FINRA recognizes the challenges members face in addressing diminished capacity and that this is an important issue for further consideration, and that it can make seniors especially vulnerable to financial exploitation.¹⁰⁸ FINRA states that a member could contact a trusted contact person if it suspects that the customer may be suffering from Alzheimer’s disease, dementia or other forms of diminished capacity.¹⁰⁹ FINRA further believes that a person with diminished capacity would generally qualify as a “specified adult” as defined by proposed Rule 2165(a)(1)(B).¹¹⁰

5. Specified Adults

Proposed Rule 2165 would define “specified adult” as: (A) a natural person age 65 and older; or (B) a natural person age 18 and older who the member reasonably believes has a mental or physical impairment that renders the individual unable to protect his or her own interests. With respect to persons younger than age 65, two commenters suggested revising the definition to cover other vulnerable persons (e.g., persons who would be deemed vulnerable under state statute).¹¹¹ In response, FINRA states its belief that the suggested change would present operational challenges for members, as the customers covered by the definition would vary by jurisdiction.¹¹² Furthermore, FINRA recognizes that customers who do not have a physical or mental impairment may also be vulnerable; however, proposed Rule 2165 is intended to cover those customers most susceptible to financial exploitation.¹¹³ As such, FINRA declined to make the suggested change at this time.¹¹⁴

Another commenter suggested revising proposed Supplementary Material .03 to Rule 2165 to provide that belief of impairment shall not create an assumption or implication that a member or its associated persons are qualified to make, or responsible for making, determinations about impairment.¹¹⁵ As stated in its Response Letter, FINRA declined to revise the rule text as suggested because FINRA does not intend proposed Rule 2165 to create an assumption or implication that a member or its associated persons are qualified to make impairment determinations beyond the limited purposes of the proposed rule.¹¹⁶ FINRA states that the “reasonable belief” standard required by proposed Rule 2165 for a member to place a temporary hold imposes no such requirement.¹¹⁷

6. Account

As noted above, proposed Rule 2165 would define “account” to mean any account of a member for which a specified adult has the authority to transact business. One commenter suggested that the definition of “account” may be overly broad, and suggested clarifying that transactions in securities, such as variable insurance products, sold by a broker-dealer, but not custodied in a brokerage account, are not subject to proposed Rule 2165.¹¹⁸ In response, FINRA states that proposed Rule 2165 applies to disbursements of funds or securities out of a customer account, and does not apply to transactions in securities.¹¹⁹

Two commenters expressed concern that a temporary hold pursuant to proposed Rule 2165 may not comply with the requirements of Section 22(e) of the Investment Company Act of 1940 (“1940 Act”).¹²⁰ FINRA states in response that most mutual fund customer accounts are serviced and record-kept by intermediaries.¹²¹ According to FINRA, in the small proportion of circumstances where mutual fund customers purchase shares directly from the mutual fund, the customer’s account may be maintained by a mutual fund’s principal underwriter.¹²² Based on discussions with SEC staff, FINRA does not believe that a broker-dealer’s delay of a disbursement of mutual fund redemption proceeds to its customers in reliance on proposed Rule 2165 and based on a reasonable belief of financial exploitation of the customer would be imputed to the mutual fund, including where the broker-dealer is the fund’s principal underwriter.¹²³ However, this conclusion is limited to situations where the mutual fund does not have a role in the disbursement of redemption proceeds from the customer’s account held by the broker-dealer, including any role in the decision to delay the disbursement of funds in reliance on proposed Rule 2165.¹²⁴

Another commenter requested clarification on how ACATS transfers would be treated under proposed Rule 2165.¹²⁵ For purposes of proposed Rule 2165, FINRA responds that it would consider disbursements to include ACATS transfers but, as with any temporary hold, a member would need to have a reasonable belief of financial exploitation in order to place a temporary hold on the processing of an ACATS transfer request pursuant to the Rule.¹²⁶ FINRA recognizes that, depending on the facts and circumstances, placing a temporary hold on the processing of an ACATS transfer request could also lead the member to place a temporary hold on all assets in an account, for the same reasons.¹²⁷ However, according to FINRA, if a temporary hold is placed on the processing of an ACATS transfer request, the member must permit disbursements from the account where there is not a reasonable belief of financial exploitation regarding such disbursements.¹²⁸ FINRA also reminds members of the application of FINRA Rule 2140 (Interfering with the Transfer of Customer Accounts in the Context of Employment Disputes) to the extent that there is not a reasonable belief of financial exploitation.¹²⁹

Another commenter requested clarification on where funds from a disbursement subject to a temporary hold should be maintained by a member.¹³⁰ FINRA responds that, while the temporary hold on a disbursement is in effect, the funds or securities would remain in a customer's account and would not be released.¹³¹

8. Persons Permitted to Place Temporary Holds

Proposed Rule 2165 would provide that a member may place the hold on a disbursement, provided that the member's written supervisory procedures identify the title of each person authorized to place, terminate or extend a hold on behalf of the member and that each such person be serving in a supervisory, compliance or legal capacity for the member. One commenter suggested expanding the categories of persons authorized to place holds on behalf of a member to include persons who have been designated by the member to review cases involving specified adults as part of the member's escalation process.¹³² In its Response Letter, FINRA states that, while the benefits of preventing financial exploitation are significant to both the member and customer, placing a temporary hold on a disbursement is a serious action on the part of a member and may lead to difficult but necessary conversations with customers that could impact the member-customer relationship.¹³³ FINRA believes that the current form of proposed Rule 2165 promotes administrative clarity, that it is reasonable to limit authority for placing holds on disbursements to a select group of individuals associated with the member, that persons serving in a supervisory, compliance or legal capacity are well positioned to make these determinations on behalf of the member, and that such a limitation is not a substantial burden to members that wish to rely on the rule's safe harbor provision.¹³⁴ Accordingly, FINRA declined to make the suggested revision.¹³⁵

9. Period of Temporary Hold

As set forth in the Proposal, the temporary hold authorized by proposed Rule 2165 would expire not later than 15 business days for any initial period and up to 10 business days in any subsequent period after the date that the member first placed the temporary hold on the disbursement of funds or securities, unless sooner terminated or extended by an order of a state regulator or agency or court of competent jurisdiction. Two commenters suggested that the time periods may not be adequate to give state regulators and agencies or courts time to take action on a matter.¹³⁶ Another commenter suggested that regulatory approval be required prior to extending a temporary hold beyond the initial 15 business day period.¹³⁷ FINRA responds that, in proposing the time periods, it has tried to strike a reasonable balance in giving members adequate time to investigate and contact the relevant parties, seeking input from a state regulator or agency or a court order if needed, but also not permitting an open-ended or overly long hold period in recognition of the seriousness of placing a temporary hold on a disbursement.¹³⁸

¹³⁴ Id.

Another commenter stated that the rule text, as set forth in the Proposal, could be read to require the termination or extension of the temporary hold by the state regulator or agency of competent jurisdiction or a court of competent jurisdiction prior to the initial hold being extended for an additional 10 business day period.¹³⁹ In response, FINRA states that it did not intend to impose any such limitation.¹⁴⁰ As discussed in the Partial Amendment No. 1, FINRA states that it is proposing to revise Rule 2165(b)(2) and (3) to provide that a member may place a temporary hold for up to 25 business days when the Rule's requirements are met, unless the temporary hold is "otherwise" terminated or extended by a state regulator or agency of competent jurisdiction or a court of competent jurisdiction.¹⁴¹ According to FINRA, this proposed change is intended to recognize that a state regulator or agency or a court may terminate or extend a hold on a disbursement at any time during the time period provided by proposed Rule 2165(b)(2) and (3).¹⁴²

One commenter suggested that Rule 2165 should explicitly provide that a member must terminate a temporary hold as soon as the member's internal review of the facts and circumstances that were the basis for the hold does not support a reasonable belief that financial exploitation is occurring or is attempted.¹⁴³ In response, FINRA states that it declines to revise the rule text as suggested, but that it would expect a member to lift a temporary hold when it no longer has a reasonable belief of financial exploitation (e.g., when subsequent events indicate that the threat of financial exploitation no longer exists).¹⁴⁴

10. Notifying All Parties Authorized to Transact Business

Under proposed Rule 2165(b)(1)(B)(i), a member is required to notify all parties authorized to transact business on an account of the temporary hold and the reason for the temporary hold when the member places a temporary hold on a disbursement. Two commenters expressed concern that the rule text does not contemplate a party being unavailable, and that notifying all parties could lead to increased risk for the customer where a party is the suspected perpetrator of the financial exploitation.¹⁴⁵ The commenters suggested providing an exception from the notification requirement where a party is unavailable or where the member reasonably suspects that a party has engaged, is engaged, or will engage in the financial exploitation of the Specified Adult.¹⁴⁶ In response, FINRA states its belief that, although a member will need to exercise discretion in forming a reasonable belief that a party authorized to transact business on an account is engaged in the financial exploitation, FINRA also believes it is appropriate to provide an exception from contacting a party authorized to transact business on an account that is comparable to the exception provided for notifying a customer's trusted contact person.¹⁴⁷ As stated in Partial Amendment No. 1, FINRA is proposing to amend Rule 2165(b)(1)(B)(i) to provide that a member is required to notify all parties authorized to transact business on an account, unless a party is unavailable or the member reasonably believes that the party has engaged, is engaged, or will engage in the financial exploitation of the Specified Adult.¹⁴⁸

Another commenter suggested that requiring notification of all parties authorized to transact business on an account could inadvertently interfere with the ability to use the safe harbor in Rule 2165 if a member has trouble locating one or more authorized parties.¹⁴⁹ In its Response Letter, FINRA states it does not believe that the notification requirement should impact a member's decision to place a hold as it is a post-hold obligation.¹⁵⁰

11. Notifying Immediate Family Member

Due to the privacy and operational challenges noted by commenters in response to the proposal in Regulatory Notice 15-37, the Proposal did not require notifying an immediate family member when a temporary hold is placed. Three commenters supported removing the requirement to contact an immediate family member.¹⁵¹ One commenter agreed that requiring a member to contact an immediate family member may be overly restrictive and result in privacy issues, but suggested that the safe harbor be expanded to cover instances in which a member uses its discretion to contact a person reasonably believed to be connected with the account owner when the trusted contact person is unavailable.¹⁵² In its Response Letter, FINRA states that expanding proposed Rule 2165 to authorize members to contact any person reasonably believed to be connected with an account owner may create the same privacy and operational challenges raised by commenters to Regulatory Notice 15-37.¹⁵³ However, FINRA states that proposed Rule 2165 would not preclude a member from contacting an immediate family member or any other person provided that the member has customer consent to do so.¹⁵⁴

12. Notification Period

Proposed Rule 2165 would require the member to provide notification of the temporary hold and the reason for the hold to all parties authorized to transact business on the account and the trusted contact person, if available, no later than two business days after placing the hold. Three commenters suggested extending the time period for notification beyond two business days.¹⁵⁵ FINRA declined to extend the time period for notification beyond two business days, given its belief in the need for urgency in dealing with financial exploitation and to remain consistent with the NASAA model state act.¹⁵⁶

13. Privacy Considerations

¹⁵⁵ See CAI, IRI and SIFMA.

Three commenters requested clarification on what information may be shared pursuant to the Proposal without violating Regulation S-P.¹⁵⁷ In response, FINRA states that disclosures to a trusted contact person pursuant to proposed Rules 2165 and 4512(a)(1)(F) would be consistent with Regulation S-P, because such disclosures would be made with customers' consent or authorization,¹⁵⁸ to protect against fraud or unauthorized transactions, or to comply with federal, state, or local laws, rules and other applicable legal requirements, including the requirements of Rule 2165.¹⁵⁹

14. Policies and Procedures

Proposed Rule 2165 would require a member that anticipates using a temporary hold in appropriate circumstances to establish and maintain written supervisory procedures reasonably designed to achieve compliance with the Rule, including, but not limited to, procedures on the identification, escalation and reporting of matters related to financial exploitation of specified adults. One commenter suggested requiring all members to establish and maintain written supervisory procedures reasonably designed to achieve compliance with the Rule.¹⁶⁰ In its Response Letter, FINRA states that, because placing a temporary hold is discretionary, not mandatory, FINRA declines to make the suggested change.¹⁶¹

¹⁵⁷ See BDA, CAI and FSR.

¹⁶⁰ See PIRC.

¹⁶¹ See FINRA Response Letter.

Another commenter recommended requiring the written supervisory procedures to include provisions designed to ensure that the member lifts a temporary hold as soon as practicable after the member conducts an internal review and finds that the hold is not warranted.¹⁶² As noted above, FINRA expects that a member would lift a temporary hold when it no longer has a reasonable belief of financial exploitation.¹⁶³ This same commenter also suggested that it is unclear whether the member can freeze all owners' access to the account, and recommended that FINRA require a member's written supervisory procedures to include provisions regarding the impact of a temporary hold on those joint account owners who are not believed to be the subject of financial exploitation.¹⁶⁴ In response, FINRA states that Proposed Rule 2165 would permit placing a temporary hold only where there is a reasonable belief of financial exploitation and only with regard to a specific disbursement(s).¹⁶⁵ Accordingly, FINRA declined to make the suggested change.¹⁶⁶

15. Training

The Proposal would require members to develop and document training policies or programs reasonably designed to ensure that associated persons comply with the requirements of Rule 2165. One commenter supported applying the training requirement to associated persons, but suggested that FINRA should oversee training, including incorporating into its FINRA Rule 1250 (Continuing Education Requirements) training a module on the requirements of the Proposal and recognizing financial exploitation of vulnerable adults.¹⁶⁷ In its Response Letter, FINRA states that the Proposal provides members with reasonable discretion in determining how best to structure their training policies or programs.¹⁶⁸ FINRA states that, while it has developed material for the Continuing Education Regulatory Element Program that addresses the financial exploitation of senior investors, members are responsible for developing and documenting their training policies and programs.¹⁶⁹ FINRA states that it will consider whether to develop additional continuing education content specifically addressing financial exploitation of seniors and providing additional guidance to members, as appropriate.¹⁷⁰

16. Reporting

One commenter supported not requiring as part of proposed Rule 2165 that members report financial exploitation to local adult protective services and law enforcement, asserting that such a permissive approach would allow firms and advisors to undertake a reasonable inquiry and to decide whether or not to freeze an account without considering their own potential liability.¹⁷¹ In contrast, several other commenters recommended revising proposed Rule 2165 to require members to report financial exploitation to state and local authorities, such as adult protective services and law enforcement, or FINRA.¹⁷² One such commenter also supported requiring members to provide any account information requested by state and local authorities to conduct their investigations.¹⁷³ Another suggested clarifying in Supplementary Material to Rule 2165 how members should coordinate with a state regulator or agency to confirm or validate suspicions regarding financial exploitation.¹⁷⁴

In its Response Letter, FINRA states that, while proposed Rule 2165 does not require members to report a reasonable belief of financial exploitation to a state or local authority, some states mandate such reporting by financial institutions, including broker-dealers.¹⁷⁵ Given the varying and evolving reporting requirements under state law, FINRA believes that states are well positioned to determine whether a broker-dealer or any other entity has satisfied its reporting requirements under state law.¹⁷⁶ FINRA states that it would expect members to comply with all applicable state requirements, including reporting requirements, and FINRA staff may request records related to state reporting as part of the examination process.¹⁷⁷ Even where a state may not require such reporting, FINRA believes that members may find it beneficial to contact relevant state agencies, such as state securities regulators or state or local adult protective services, to assist in resolving matters involving possible financial abuse.¹⁷⁸

17. Implementation Period

If the Commission approves the Proposal, some commenters requested that members have from 12 to 18 months to implement the requirements.¹⁷⁹ As a general matter, these commenters noted that additional time is needed to make all of the necessary adjustments to their internal systems, including updates needed to incorporate the trusted contact person-related requirements. As discussed in the Partial Amendment No. 1, FINRA states it has determined to extend the implementation period before effectiveness from “no later than 180 days following Commission approval” to 12 months from Commission approval.¹⁸⁰ FINRA intends this extended period of implementation to provide members more time to commit the necessary resources to implement the Proposal.¹⁸¹ FINRA believes this change is an appropriate balance of the commenters’ concerns and the strong desire to provide tools to members to address possible financial exploitation under the Proposal as soon as practicable.¹⁸²

C. Opposition to Proposed Rule 2165

One commenter supported the proposed amendments to Rule 4512 regarding a trusted contact person, but opposed the proposed adoption of Rule 2165 that would permit temporary holds on disbursements where there is a reasonable belief of financial exploitation.¹⁸³ This commenter asserted, among other things, that the “reasonable belief” standard for placing the temporary hold was “too low relative to the potential harm to a customer from not being able to withdraw funds or securities,” and that, absent a clearer standard, “Rule 2165 creates an incentive to place a hold on an account as the default response to concerns about a specified adult.”¹⁸⁴ In its Response Letter, FINRA states that it believes the Proposal is needed to provide members with a “defined” way to respond to situations where there is a reasonable belief of financial exploitation of seniors and other vulnerable adults, including the ability to share customer information with a trusted contact person.¹⁸⁵ Furthermore, FINRA believes that the Proposal would promote investor protection by providing members with a safe harbor from FINRA rules that might otherwise discourage them from exercising discretion to protect customers through placing a temporary hold on disbursements of funds or securities.¹⁸⁶

V. Discussion and Commission Findings

The Commission has carefully considered the Proposal, the comments received, FINRA's response to the comments, and Partial Amendment No. 1. Based on its review of the record, the Commission finds that the Proposal, as modified by Partial Amendment No. 1, is consistent with the requirements of the Exchange Act and the rules and regulations thereunder applicable to a national securities association.¹⁸⁷ In particular, the Commission finds that the Proposal, as modified by Partial Amendment No. 1, is consistent with Section 15A(b)(6) of the Exchange Act,¹⁸⁸ which requires, among other things, that FINRA's rules be designed to prevent fraudulent and manipulative acts and practices, to promote just and equitable principles of trade, and, in general, to protect investors and the public interest.

¹⁸⁷ In approving the Proposal, as modified by Partial Amendment No. 1, the Commission has also considered its impact on efficiency, competition, and capital formation. See 15 U.S.C. 78c(f).

As discussed above, the Proposal, as modified by Partial Amendment No. 1, would: (1) require members to make reasonable efforts to obtain the name of and contact information for a trusted contact person for a customer's account; and (2) permit members to place temporary holds on disbursements of funds or securities from the accounts of specified customers, where there is a reasonable belief that these customers have been, are being, or will be subject to financial exploitation.

The Commission has considered the twenty-one (21) comment letters received on the Proposal,¹⁸⁹ along with FINRA's Response Letter, and Partial Amendment No. 1.¹⁹⁰ The Commission acknowledges the supportive commenters' positions, such that adoption of the Proposal would better enable FINRA members "to protect seniors and other vulnerable adults from financial exploitation,"¹⁹¹ that the Proposal was "well-conceived to help member firms protect seniors,"¹⁹² and that it would provide additional guidance to members, create uniform practices, and make customers more willing to provide trusted contact information.¹⁹³

The Commission also acknowledges commenters' concerns and recommended modifications to the Proposal. However, it also notes that FINRA's response to comments addresses many of these concerns, and offers additional clarifications regarding FINRA's expectations regarding the operation of the Proposal. For example, FINRA clarified that the notification requirement is a post-hold obligation, and that the proposed safe harbor does not apply to a decision not to place a hold. FINRA also addresses a concern of several commenters through its proposed partial amendment, which makes explicit in the rule text that associated persons are covered by the rule's safe harbor, a position FINRA indicated is consistent with its original interpretation of the scope of the safe harbor. Throughout its response to comments, FINRA has emphasized its attempts to balance members' operational practicalities with the serious investor protection concerns raised both by the specter of financial exploitation and the seriousness of placing a temporary hold on a disbursement. Moreover, FINRA has addressed commenters' questions about the intersection of the Proposal with both Section 22(e) of the 1940 Act, and with Regulation S-P, based on its discussions with Commission staff.

Taking into consideration the comments and FINRA's responses, the Commission finds that the Proposal is consistent with the Exchange Act. Specifically, the Commission believes that the Proposal will protect investors and the public interest by, among other things, providing FINRA members with means by which they can respond to situations where there is a reasonable belief of financial exploitation of seniors and other vulnerable adults. The Commission additionally believes that the Proposal will promote investor protection by providing FINRA members with a safe harbor from the purported violation of certain FINRA rules, without which such members might otherwise be discouraged from placing a temporary hold on disbursements of funds or securities where there is a reasonable belief of financial exploitation.

The Commission believes that FINRA's responses, as discussed in more detail above, appropriately addressed commenters' concerns and adequately explained FINRA's reasons for modifying or declining to modify its Proposal. Accordingly, the Commission believes that the approach proposed by FINRA is appropriate and designed to protect investors and the public interest, consistent with Section 15A(b)(6) of the Exchange Act and the rules and regulations thereunder.

VI. Conclusion
