Re: Advertisements of Municipal Fund
Securities Under MSRB Rule G-21
File No. SR-MSRB-2005-09

Dear Mr. Katz:

The Investment Company Institute¹ is writing to express our support for the Municipal Securities Rulemaking Board's proposed amendments to its advertising rule, Rule G-21, that were recently published for comment by the Securities and Exchange Commission.² In particular, the Institute supports the MSRB requiring that advertisements for municipal fund securities that show performance data include a phone number or Web address where an investor may obtain more current performance information. The proposal is consistent with a recommendation the Institute made to the MSRB in September 2004 when the MSRB proposed amendments to Rule G-21.³

The Institute supports facilitating investor access to more current performance information. By requiring that investors be provided this information, the MSRB's proposal will also make more uniform, to the extent practicable, the MSRB's advertising requirements with those applicable to mutual funds.⁴ Uniformity is appropriate because municipal fund securities and mutual funds share many common features, including the manner in which they are advertised to investors. Subjecting these investment products to similar regulatory standards reduces both potential investor confusion and the burdens of conflicting regulatory requirements for persons that offer and sell both types of securities. In addition, because the NASD is charged with inspecting securities firms for compliance with both MSRB and SEC advertising rules, uniform standards also will facilitate the NASD's ability to conduct such inspections. For these reasons, we strongly support adoption of the MSRB's proposed amendments.

Reg. 39833 (July 11, 2005) (the "Release").

⁴ See Rule 482 under the Securities Act of 1933, which governs mutual fund performance advertisements. We note that, in order to accommodate concerns raised by state issuers and their distributors with the timeliness of the communication of performance information, the MSRB's proposal differs slightly from Rule 482. We support these differences because we understand they are necessary to address practical limitations in the 529 plan market that are not present in the mutual fund market.

The Institute also supports the MSRB conforming the effective date of the proposed amendments with the effective date for other changes made to Rule G-21 earlier this year.⁵ Such conformity is appropriate because both sets of amendments will require changes to the content of advertisements, to a dealer's operational systems to obtain and disseminate the updated performance information, and to a dealer's website or telephone system to provide such updated information. Coordinating their effectiveness avoids the need for a two-step implementation process, which would only serve to increase a municipal securities dealer's compliance burdens and costs without enhancing investor protection.
